The grand jury then adjourned.

Russia Gets French Loan on Condition of Treating for Peace.

Czar's Main Motive Thought to be Desire to Save Vladivostok, but Japan's Wish to Possess Siberian Seaport May Upset Plans—Oyama Reported Moving on Both Flanks of Linevitch's Retreating Army.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, March 24.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The negotiations for a new Russian loan have been resumed and are proceeding satisfactorily.

Prospects of peace between Russia and Japan assumed a more definite and almost a tangible aspect today as the result of the announcement of the resumption of negotiations for a Russian loan.

The receipt of an official dispatch at St. Petersburg, March 20, saying that the Japanese were approaching Vladivostok is said to have induced the Russian determination to seek a pacific solution.

On the other hand, it is insisted the Japanese proximity to Vladivostok promises to be a chief obstacle in the way of peace, as diplomats conversant with the situation say that Japan will seek to avert peace until she possesses Russia's only outlet to the Pacific Ocean.

PARIS, March 24.—Coupled with the announcement of the resumption of loan negotiations, came a strong intimation from official and diplomatic quarters that steps looking toward peace had been definitely taken by Russia. Diplomats who are actively interested gave for the first time credit to the statement that Russia has decided to seek peace.

The postponement of the loan occurred through the stand taken by the financial element against proceeding while the uncertainties of war continued, while a willingness to resume negotiations was construed as meaning that their strong influence for peace finally had prevailed with the authorities at St. Petersburg.

It is understood that one of the inducements to resume negotiations was that a considerable portion of the proceeds shall remain in France, to meet the interest coupons of other loans, and that placing contracts for government supplies will be required, even after the conclusion of hostilities.

The announcement of the resumption of negotiations took definite form in a communication to the syndicate of Agents de Change, who form an influential element on the Bourse, holding government credentials.

PETERSBURG PRESS FOR PEACE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 24, 2:30 p.m.—The papers are supporting the campaign for peace and are beginning to print quite openly the history of the intrigues in the Far East for the protection of private interests, devoting special attention to Bezobrazoff's connection with the Yalu timber concession.

The publications include a secret memorandum of Gen. Kouropatkin, pointing out that war would be inevitable if Russian interests were extended into Korea.

A financial and commercial crisis has broken out at Rostov-On-Don.

The necessity for increased taxation to meet the expenses of the war is recognized, and the Minister of Finance has submitted projects to the council of the empire, including taxes on beef, matches, etc., and a graduated tax on the salaries of government officials, beginning with 1 per cent. on salaries of over $300, which, altogether, will realize about $11,000,000. There is also a proposition for a general income tax, which undoubtedly will prove the most popular form of raising money, as it would bear heaviest on those able to pay.

PEACE AT LAST IN SIGHT.

CZAR CONVINCED AGAINST WILL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, March 25, Saturday, 4:45 a.m.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Daily Telegraph's special correspondent in St. Petersburg wires: "Despite the seemingly hopeless outlook, peace at last is in sight.

"I make this statement deliberately and categorically, not as a mere probable inference from signs and tokens observed in the past few days.

"What happened is that His Majesty has been convinced, much against his will, that further continuation of the war would be disastrous politically and financially, and he therefore conditionally is willing to discontinue it."

The correspondent says Russia is willing to make substantial territorial concessions, but the essential condition of peace is that Japan shall ask no war indemnity.

FINANCIAL CONTRAST GREAT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, March 25.—The possibility of arranging peace between Russia and Japan and the financial contrast between the two countries are attracting greater attention for the moment than the strategic developments in Manchuria. Comparisons are drawn between the respective status of the two nations in the money market now and at the beginning of the war.

The spectacle of the Rusian Minister of Finance inviting newspaper editors and correspondents to verify by personal inspection the national bullion deposits, while Japan is negotiating an enormous loan on better terms than her previous small, timid issues, puts the development of the credit of the two belligerents into vivid contrast and is greatly commented on.

Russia will obtain her loan in France on hard terms. It is reported that the new Japanese loan is already fully underwritten, and that dealings have begun at a substantial premium.

WASHINGTON OPINION.

PEACE IS NOW POSSIBLE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—While keenly interested in the interpretation placed by Paris on the significance of the resumption of negotiations for the Russian loan, European diplomats in Washington tonight said they were inclined to regard at first this step as confirmation of the official news which has reached the United States within the last twenty-four hours that the Emperor is resolutely determined to continue the war for the present.

If Paris financiers, as reported, have declined to take up the loan save on condition that the proceeds shall not go toward the war fund, official Washington, with the exception of the Russian Embassy, believes that this important fact marks the beginning of peace negotiations. The several European ambassadors directly interested are anxiously awaiting news from their foreign offices on this point.

JAPANESE REPORTED ADVANCING ON FLANKS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

GUNSHU PASS, March 24, Noon.—[By Asiatic Cable.] The Russian retreat has now reached the village of Sipinghai, seventy-four miles north of Tie Pass, where it has temporarily halted.

The army has been without rest for months and it is natural that fatigue should be evident.

The Japanese are reported to be advancing on the Sipinghai positions along the railway and on both flanks.

A brisk action occurred on the evening of March 18 at Kaiyuan, the Russian rear guard beating off two heavy attacks, which lasted until midnight.

After blowing up railway bridges north of Kaiyuan at five places, the Russian retirement was continued on March 19, 20 and 21, with only light rifle fire.

The Mukden branch of the Russo-Chinese Bank removed all its money except $150,000.

EXODUS FROM HARBIN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

GUNSHU PASS, March 24.—The women and children are reported to be leaving Harbin and the business houses are closing. The stationary hospitals are being moved back and the entire road east and south of Tsitsihar is being prepared for the next stage of the war.

The conviction exists that Gen. Kuroki is now moving toward the northeast for the investment of Vladivostok, and changing his base for that purpose to Gensata.

While the Manchurian railway is employed to supply the main army in its advance on Harbin, the Japanese seem still partial to the plan of keeping close to their sea bases.

SERIOUS STAND DOUBTFUL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 25, 3:40 a.m.—The Russian rear guard is now occupying a line of fairly strong natural positions thirty-four miles south of Gunshu Pass, the center being the railroad village of Sipinghai and the flanks covering the roads on either side, which, apparently, it is the intention to defend long enough to force the Japanese to show their hand.

The Russians may, however, have been outflanked, and have no intention of making a serious stand, especially as all the correspondents continue to mention reports of wide turning operations on both flanks.

CONCENTRATE AT TSITSIHAR.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 24, 4:52 p.m.—The news from the front continues to indicate preparations for a withdrawal of the main portion of the Russian army beyond Harbin, so as to place it out of danger of having its communications with Russia severed, if it is found impossible to attempt to hold the line at the Sungari River. Tsitsihar, 200 miles west of Harbin, is mentioned by several correspondents in a fashion to suggest that it will be the new point of concentration, although others speak of the Amur River.

A light flying column of Japanese cavalry is reported to be moving hastily across the country toward Tsitsihar, while a heavier column is going northeast in the direction of Vladivostok.

BELMONT CEILING DROPS.

Four Hundred Feet of Heavy Plaster Falls as Lady of the House Leaves Room.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Breaking loose from the rafters in a solid mass, 400 square feet of ceiling of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont's dressing-room fell today in the momentary absence of Mrs. Belmont and made such havoc in the luxurious room that the belief was forced upon the household that if Mrs. Belmont had remained a moment longer, she hardly could have escaped with her life. Only the beautifully-molded cornices remained to show where the great weight of plster came from.

Mrs. Belmont was reading in a room twenty feet square on the second floor of the white colonial mansion. She laid the book aside, and barely stepped through the doorway, when without a warning sound the whole ceiling dropped, tearing away with it the heavy chandelier in the center. When the servants entered the room, they found the chandelier twisted out of shape, and gas pouring from the pipe from which it had been torn; a heavily upholstered divan pierced by a piece of plaster as if by a cannon ball; hardwood chairs dented and broken, and the onyx top of a small table was splintered.

SHE WORKED A GAME.

Mrs. Edith Smedley, Arrested With Her Husband, is Charged With Defrauding Farmer.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DENVER (Colo.) March 25.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The arrest of Mrs. Edith Smedley and Scott Smedley, last night, brought to light a remarkable case. Smedley, who recently was engaged in business here, was arrested in his haberdashery establishment and Mrs. Smedley at Colorado Springs. Both were taken to Lincoln, Neb.

Mrs. Smedley is charged with defrauding Joshua Wells, a wealthy farmer, of about $17,000, obtained in various sums during the time she lived there. Though not married at that time, Mrs. Smedley, then Mrs. Simmons, a widow, pretended to be Smedley's wife, and borrowed the money ostensibly to get a divorce, and marry Wells. Later, she married Smedley, then a clerk in Lincoln, and he came to Denver and opened a fine store. Wells followed and learned of the deception.

When arrested, Mrs. Smedley was waiting to meet E. W. Hooker, a Texas attorney, on whom, presumably, the same game was to be worked. He thought she was going to get a divorce and marry him.

JAPS STRIKE WARSHIPS?

Torpedo Boats Reported to Have Damaged Three of Rojestvensky's Battleships.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.]

PARIS, March 25.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Matin's St. Petersburg correspondent sends an unconfirmed report that Japanese torpedo boats have succeeded in damaging Vice-Admiral Rojestvensky's battleships Sissoi, Veliky and Navarin.

ARMIES AT PORT SAID.

PORT SAID, March 24.—Admiral Nebogatoff's division of the Russian Second Pacific Squadron, consisting of a battleship, four cruisers and four transports, arrived here today. The vessels are not coaling and are taking only moderate supplies on board. The transports are heavily laden with stores. The division, which is said to be bound for Jibutil, French Somaliland, and Vladivostok, will probably proceed today.

VENEZUELA.

CONFIDENT CASTRO

Thinks Venezuela Would Win.

Does Not Expect Trouble With This Country, but Will Defend.

French Bondholders Disappointed With Santo Domingo Status.

Discussion by the Cabinet. McCormick is Urged to Go to Paris.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Minister Bowen cables the State Department today from Caracas that President Castro has flatly refused to arbitrate the pending issues between Venezuela and the United States.

NEW YORK, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The World prints the following:

CARACAS, March 24.—I have received your telegram. There is in reality between Venezuela and Washington no question of sufficient importance to occupy public attention, or worthy of consideration by serious persons. Your Minister holds himself aloof from the good understanding which exists, but Venezuela will defend with ardor the common interests and honor of both countries.

[Signed] CIPRIANO CASTRO.

In answer to a request for a statement on the present Venezuelan troubles, the Tribune tonight received the following cable:

CARACAS, March 24.—Received your cable. I do not believe there will be any trouble, and if there should be any, Venezuela would win, because she never drifts away from right, reason and justice, which are the strength of weak nations.

[Signed] CIPRIANO CASTRO.

CABINET CONSIDERATION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Minister Bowen's cablegram to the State Department, informing the administration that President Castro of Venezuela had refused explicitly to submit to arbitration the pending issues between the United States and Venezuela, and declaring that the asphalt cases must be adjudicated by the Venezuelan courts, formed the principal topic of discussion at today's meeting of the Cabinet. That the situation is not regarded as acute at this time was indicated clearly by the determination of the President and his advisers to pay no present heed to President Castro's refusal to arbitrate the existing differences.

It is the indicated intention of the President and Secretary Taft, who, in the absence of Secretary Hay is being relied upon for advice in matters pertaining to foreign affairs, simply to await further developments in the Venezuelan matter. It is not believed that the situation now is of such a character as to warrant alarm. The situation in Santo Domingo also was fully discussed at the Cabinet meeting. No new phases of the question have arisen.

FRENCH CLAIMS WAIT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PARIS, March 24.—The authorities here say that no steps are being considered relative to pressing the French claims against Santo Domingo. It is explained that the French holders of Dominican bonds hoped the United States Senate would ratify the treaty adjusting the finances of Santo Domingo, and the bondholders were much disappointed at the failure of the Senate to act upon the treaty. However, they have not taken steps to secure government intervention, and the latter has not yet shown a disposition to assume the collection of the debt by the adoption of drastic measures. The officials here say the total amount of Dominican bonds held in Europe is about $31,000,000, divided in order of importance between Belgium, France, Holland and Germany.

SANCHEZ AND SAMA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—President Morales's Council of Ministers is discussing the question, cables the Herald correspondent at Santo Domingo, of asking the United States to take Sanchez and Sama under American protection, under the terms of the arbitral award, in order to prevent their seizure by persons hostile to the government.

W. R. Thormann, head of the German consular service at Santo Domingo, and Dr. Porera Blesa, Spanish chargé d'affaires, intend visiting Port au Prince, Hayti, April 5, if they cannot do so earlier, to consult the German and Spanish ministers, who are accredited to both Hayti and Santo Domingo, as to the situation.

A newspaper organ of the Opposition party has bitterly attacked President Morales, charging him with disloyalty, and declaring he has been losing ground daily since last June. There is activity in the forts and in the city, and the street guards have been doubled.

The American gunboat Castine is on the alert, ready to land seventy men at a moment's notice to protect American interests. The marines have their cartridge belts filled, and all precautions have been taken in view of a possible outbreak. There is a signal station on the roof of the American Consulate.

HURRYING UP M'CORMICK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, March 24, 4:50 p.m.—Mr. McCormick, the retiring American Ambassador to Russia, has received urgent instructions from Washington to proceed to Paris at the earliest possible moment. Whether the desire of the State Department to have Mr. McCormick assume his duties in Paris at once is due to the prospect of an early opening of peace negotiations there, to the Venezuelan complications, or to the wish of Ambassador Porter to retire sooner than expected is not known here. In order that there may be no hiatus here at such an important time, Ambassador Meyer (Mr. McCormick's successor,) will probably come to St. Petersburg immediately.

SANTO DOMINGO CASE.

PROTESTS OF BONDHOLDERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BRUSSELS, March 24.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The protests of the Belgian government and French and Belgian bondholders of Santo Domingo are said to be due to Santo Domingo's non-observance of the agreement concluded with the bondholders June 3, 1901, to pay towards the service of the public debt $25,000 monthly out of the customs receipts of the port of Santo Domingo.

The largest of the foreign debts of Santo Domingo is that represented by the bonds of the new unified loan of 1897, held in Europe, principally in France and Belgium, consisting of two issues bearing respectively 24 per cent. and 4 per cent. interest, and amounting to about $21,250,000. Both classes of bonds were secured on customs duties and specially assigned revenues.

Default in the payment of the interest was made April 1, 1899, since which time several arrangements have been attempted to provide for the interest payments. Belgians hold about $6,000,000 in Dominican bonds.

FOR INVESTIGATION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Arrangements for the investigation of the affairs of Santo Domingo were completed today after a conference participated in by the President, Secretary Taft and Prof. J. H. Hollander.

It was decided that Prof. Hollander, who is to make the inquiry will sail from New York April 1, in a mail steamer for San Juan, Porto Rico. From there he will go to Santo Domingo on the Chattanooga, which will be at his disposal to convey him from place to place while he is pursuing the investigation. He will return to the United States in May, and if his investigation is not completed by that time, he will again return to the island.

HOLLAND MEANS BUSINESS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

THE HAGUE, March 24.—The government of The Netherlands intends, either alone or in conjunction with other powers having differences with Venezuela, to take vigorous measures to secure the release of the five Dutch sailors illegally imprisoned for seven months in that country. It is thought probable that in the event of there being no material change in the situation in the Far East some of The Netherlands warships maintaining neutrality in the Dutch East Indies can be transferred to Venezuelan waters in May.

BRITISH SIGN AGREEMENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, March 24.—The signature of the agreement between Venezuela and the Anglo-German bondholders adjusting and consolidating the exterior debt (about $28,600,000) was completed today. Sixty per cent. of the customs of all the ports except La Guayra and Puerto Cabello are allocated as security.

MERCHANT SHIPS LOST IN WAR.

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Mr. Griscom, the American Minister at Tokio, has reported to the State Department upon the loss of merchant vessels in the Russo-Japanese war. He says that no merchant steamer flying the Russian flag, nor any merchant steamer of non-Russian nationality, carrying contraband of war, has been sunk by the Japanese, whereas the Russians sent to the bottom nine Japanese steamers and four small sailing ships. The Minister states that no vessel was captured by the Russians, who resorted to sinking the enemy's craft. The Japanese sunk seventeen of their own ships for the purpose of blocking Port Arthur, and captured twenty-three Russian merchant ships.

MANITOBA HOLD-UPS LASHED.

WINNIPEG (Man.) March 24.—Sandercock and MacDonald, highwaymen, were sentenced by Judge Richards to fifteen and ten years, respectively, with seventy-five lashes, for robbery, with violence, from Winnipeg merchants. Today they received the first installment, twenty-five lashes. MacDonald made a great uproar, and from the first stroke of the dreaded cat-o'-nine-tails screamed horribly, and had to be carried to his cell. The first few lashes seemed to have no apparent effect on Sandercock, but he soon began to groan in a manner which made his punishment seem worse than that administered to MacDonald.

RELIEF FOR BROCKTON FOLKS.

BROCKTON (Mass.) March 24.—The first organized movement for the relief of the families of fifty-eight persons believed to have perished in the explosion and fire at the R. B. Grover shoe factory last Monday was begun tonight. As a result of the disaster, thirty-seven wives were made widows, forty-eight children were fatherless and six children became orphans. Mayor Keith presided over the mass meeting, at which a request was made that every wage earner in the city give over one day's pay to the relief fund. The Relief Committee of thirty-two tonight decided to make an appeal for outside aid. The relief fund tonight amounted to $29,800.

CASSIE'S CAREER AS A COIN-RAISER.

Mrs. Chadwick, in Bankruptcy Court, Details Some of Her Financial Transactions in This Country and in Europe.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CLEVELAND, March 24.—In the bankruptcy court today Mrs. Cassie L. Chadwick detailed some of her financial transactions during an examination by Attorney Louis J. Grossman, acting for Trustee Nathan Loeser. Mrs. Chadwick said that she was not able to give as many details of the transactions as she would like, because of the absence of papers which were at present in a number of cities. She had sent for the papers and expected to have them when the hearing is resumed next Thursday.

She testified that her total indebtedness would not exceed $750,000. Of this sum, borrowed from various persons, she had received only $317,000, leaving $368,000 for commissions to the money lender. She said she owed certain banks in Cleveland $200,000. The names of three of these institutions she was willing to give to Trustee Loeser privately.

Mrs. Chadwick walked from the county jail to the bankruptcy court this afternoon, a distance of about one block. She looked well and appeared cheerful. She expressed her willingness to tell all that she could of her financial affairs. Some of the questions that were put to her were not answered because she did not care to give a reply from memory.

The examination disclosed additional assets of $200,000. Of this amount, $55,000 is due from Charles H. Stewart of Cleveland and $150,000 is jewelry held by Wolfers Bros., of Brussels, Belgium. Mrs. Chadwick asserted that there were other assets, consisting of jewelry and valuable articles held by other persons for her.

The examination was conducted in the presence of Mrs. Chadwick's four attorneys, who at times interposed objections to the questions of Grossman, and with whom Mrs. Chadwick frequently consulted before she replied to some of the attorney's questions.

Grossman opened by saying he believed that Mrs. Chadwick owed $2,000,000 and had $100,000 in discovered assets. He asked Mrs. Chadwick to assist the trustee for the creditors in finding all her property. This Mrs. Chadwick said she was willing to do but said the papers she had sent for would not be in her possession until next week. She said the papers were scattered around in Cleveland, Pittsburgh, New York and other cities. She said the papers would show where hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property was and would also make known what sums of money she had borrowed. She denied that her indebtedness would amount to $2,000,000 or any sum near it. She said the $750,000 which she made public would include the bonuses paid for loans.

NEWTON'S SUIT.

Relative to the suit of Herbert D. Newton of Brookline, Mass., to recover $190,800 lent by him, Mrs. Chadwick said she was not indebted to Newton for that amount. She said Newton held her paper for that sum, but that she did not receive that much money from him.

"How much did he give you, actually?" Grossman asked.

"It would represent $78,000," replied Mrs. Chadwick. "I obtained $28,000 in money and notes for the rest. Two $15,000 notes were applied on an old debt, and two $10,000 notes were negotiated. I realized $1000 on one and $4000 on the other."

"Does the difference between $78,000 and the $190,800 represent the commission?"

"Yes."

"Where are these notes?"

"One is in Oberlin, one for $10,000; and the other $10,000 note is in Europe."

"Who has the note in Europe?"

"G. R. Cutler, a Brussels broker."

"Where are the two $15,000 notes?"

"They are with a broker. I would rather not mention his name."

"Then you paid $112,800 commission for the Newton loans."

"Yes."

Mrs. Chadwick said she had received $75,000 from James A. Friend of Pittsburgh. For this she said she gave him notes for $150,000. She said Friend had assisted her in making loans to the amount of $150,000. For this she gave jewelry as security. Of the loan for $150,000 she said she received the entire sum. Mrs. Chadwick said $225,000 was the total of her indebtedness in Pittsburgh.

JEWELRY EVERYWHERE.

Mrs. Chadwick said that beside the jewelry held in Pittsburgh, Henry Wurst of Elyria, O., and Ludwig Nissen of New York, once had in their possession jewelry belonging to her and taken as security for loans. She said she believed Nissen had sold a rope of pearls valued at as high as $60,000, given on a loan of $17,000. Mrs. Chadwick also gave her note to Nissen for the loan, but the note, having been renewed, ties again, Nissen finally sold the rope of pearls.

To the question by Grossman whether there was any jewelry in Europe, Mrs. Chadwick replied:

"There is some in the hands of Wolfers Bros. of Brussels."

"What is that transaction?"

"That was jewelry I bought abroad and left with Wolfers Bros. to set. It was not paid for, as it was purchased under contract, to be paid for if it suited. Wolfers Bros. sent their bill and I paid $10,000 on it. The job was to take about a year. They are now suing me."

"What was the cost of this jewelry?"

"I do not remember exactly, I think it was between $150,000 and $200,000."

"Anyone else abroad who holds any of your jewelry?"

"No sir."

"Any other property, laces or furs?"

"I would rather tell you in private."

"Is there any other property in this country held for loans, jewelry, laces, furs, furniture or anything?"

"I cannot say without the papers."

"While you were in New York the last time you sent Emil, your son, to the Cleveland Trust Company. What was in that package?"

"Just letters. Some that do not relate to this matter at all, and others that related to the property in Europe. To get money in New York I had to have those letters."

SOME OTHER VICTIMS.

"In the past two or three years you had dealings with the Raymond & Whitcomb Company, steamship agents and bankers. What were they? This paper would indicate that you owe them $105,883.72. Can you explain it?"

"I must have time to look at the paper. They cashed my Cleveland checks. There was a shortage, and some trouble with a cashier. I do not know what my account is with them."

"Here is a contract with them whereby you are to lend Mr. Whitcomb $75,207. Were you able to make that loan at that time?"

"That loan was never executed. It was not to be a loan at all, but an exchange of property."

"You borrowed a large sum of money from W. V. Coons, a broker. Do you remember the amount?"

"The first loan was $85,000. I gave him notes for $97,500."

"When were they made payable?"

"Within five days."

"What represents the difference between $85,000 and $97,500?"

Before this loan was paid, Mrs. Chadwick said, she had paid $109,000 for it, because of renewals at increased interest and commissions.

Mrs. Chadwick was asked if Irl Reynolds, secretary and treasurer of the former Wade Park Bank, owed her any money. She replied:

"Not a cent," and to the question if she owed him anything she replied that it was only a small amount. She would not give the figures. She said there was no security for it.

Asked if she had ever made any loans to deceive Chadwick's brother in Jacksonville, Fla., Mrs. Chadwick replied that she had not. She said that she had paid him some $12,000 or $15,000 due the Chadwick estate, and that he had no property belonging to her. She added that the doctor's brother in Minnesota did not hold any property belonging to her. She admitted that her husband owed his brother in Minnesota $10,000 or $15,000, and that she was on the paper. A third brother of Dr. Chadwick in Franklin, Pa., she said, did not owe her anything. She had paid claims on the estate for her husband to the brother in Franklin similar to those paid the brother in Minnesota.

The examination was postponed until Thursday afternoon.

LABOR.

LIMITING MUSIC UNION'S LATEST.

CHICAGO FEDERATION PURPOSES TO "RELIEVE SITUATION."

Steps to be Taken to Establish Minimum-sized Orchestras or Bands Which Will be Allowed to Play in Different Places of Amusement. Grand Opera Under Union Auspices.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, March 24.—An overproduction of music is believed by the Chicago Federation of Musicians to be threatening Chicago. Consequently the union purposes to relieve the situation by establishing a "limitation of output."

"Let each union musician agree to furnish so much music and no more," said an official of the Federation. "On this basis the scheme is now being formulated."

President T. F. Kennedy of the union has prepared a list of all theaters and concert and dance halls in the city, together with the seating capacity and size of each. The next step will be to establish a minimum-sized orchestra or band which will be allowed to play in the various places. By this method of restriction, it is hoped the musical output of each man will be checked.

It will be possible under such a plan to furnish only a modicum of grand opera or rag time to an audience of 500 persons. For 1000 persons, the amount will be doubled, and the ratio will be maintained indefinitely. Officials of the Federation explain that it is a defensive move.

"Managers have been reducing the size of orchestras and bands until we have been forced to seek protection," they said. "Three or four players were expected to make themselves heard in a hall seating 2000 or 3000 persons. The musicians always received the blame if they did not succeed."

REFUSE TO ARBITRATE.

KIRBY'S ADVICE TO METAL MEN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, March 24.—Manufacturers and other employers of labor were advised at today's convention of the National Metal Trades Association that their best interests lay in opposing all idea of compulsory arbitration. The principal address along this line was made by J. Kirby, Jr., of Dayton, O.

"Arbitration has proved a failure over and over again," Kirby declared. "If I am held up for my belongings and I refuse to surrender them, why should I submit the question to arbitration and take any chances of having to surrender half of what I have; then, at the next hold-up, to surrender half of what I have left, and so on until everything I ever had is gone?"

Kirby's address urged on employers the necessity of fighting without compromise labor-union demands.

Wolfe of San Francisco, Josiah Cohen of Pittsburg is chief justice. The committee on constitution reported a number of changes in the law and the report was adopted. Lodges outside the United States were limited to one representative. The committee recommended a per capita tax a $1, a slight increase, which will yield $19,000 a year. The budget, as made up for five years, amounts to $94,300. The Chief expense is the consumption hospital at Denver, $30,400.

DOOLEY-WINTERS ROMANCE.

NEW YORK, March 24.—An echo of the Dooley-Winters romance of eleven years ago, when Byram L. Winters, aged 32, a law clerk, possessed of a good appetite and an abounding faith in his own future, led to the altar Mrs. Anne M. Dooley, aged 73, a widow of Alderman Dooley, came today in the announcement that the famous brownstone mansion on the southeast corner of Eighteith street and Fifth Avenue is to be sold at auction April 12. The death of Mrs. Dooley recently left her youthful husband with a fortune of $3,000,000 invested in New York real estate.

ROCKEFELER'S DONATION.

Prudential Committee of the American Board of Foreign Missions Will Vote to Accept.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON (Mass.) March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Despite the storm of protest that has come from ministers of the Congregational and other churches of New England and in the face of the dissenting memorial presented and signed by thirty local pastors, the Prudential Committee of the American Board of Foreign Missions will, on Tuesday next, vote unanimously to accept the gift of $100,000 from John D. Rockefeller, and will use the money for the benefit of mission schools in the orient.

The action on the part of the Prudential Committee will follow the unanimous recommendation of a subcommittee of the committee that the gift be accepted. This recommendation will be made next week, in accordance with the statement given out today by one high in the counsels of the board.

It is the consensus of opinion among the members of the Prudential Committee that the American Board of Foreign Missions is not an institution for reforming the private character of the individuals who give it money, nor can it be within its jurisdiction to form a board of inquiry to investigate the business methods of such donors. It is likely that on the announcement by the committee of the acceptance of the gift, the protesting ministers will appeal to the full council of the American Board, which meets at Seattle in September.

BROKER IN HOT WATER.

Francis P. Magoun of New York Held on Grand Larceny Charge Preferred by Patron.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—Francis P. Magoun of the banking and brokerage firm of Magoun Bros. & Co., which failed a few days ago, was held in $10,000 bail for examination in the Tombs Police Court today on a charge of grand larceny. Magoun came from Cincinnati yesterday to testify in a suit in the Supreme Court and was arrested immediately after leaving the stand.

R. L. S. Hall, a broker who acted as agent for his wife in stock transactions with Magoun Bros. & Co., was told that Magoun was in town and he placed information in the hands of the District Attorney on which a warrant for arrest was issued.

Magoun is charged with the larceny of $20,000 worth of various stocks belonging to Mrs. Clara W. Hall. It is alleged that between November 29, 1902, and March 23, 1903, Hall, for his wife, deposited with Magoun Bros. & Co. 142 shares of Southern Railway preferred; 100 Standard Rope and Twine preferred; 1000 Union Copper Company and 57 shares of American Security Company preferred, and that in spite of repeated demands they were not returned nor was any accounting rendered for them.

Magoun was paroled, in the custody of his counsel.

WARNING FROM CALIFORNIA.

Illinois Legislature Told in Letter from Los Angeles to Beware of Woman Seeking Suffrage.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.) March 24.—The Illinois House of Representatives today listened with grave interest to the reading of a letter from "Pro Bono Publico," who is at present in Los Angeles, Cal., and who hopes the Illinois Legislature will not pass the Equal Suffrage Bill.

"God made men and women different," says the writer. "Then let each remain in their own condition. If the State of Illinois grants partial or full political rights to women it will bitterly regret it. Look at the be-deviled condition of Colorado, which can be traced to women political bosses and lack of common sense in women voters.

"Californians, profiting by the sad experience of Colorado, Kansas and Wyoming, and not wanting their State to be in the same condition and their business interests to be ruined by foolish and vicious legislation, turned down all attempts of professional suffragists and their male adherents to saddle the abomination on the State."

At the conclusion of the reading of the letter a member moved that the Committee on Fish and Game was eminently qualified to consider the measure. Another member thought not. The license committee, he said, was the proper body to think over the Pro Bono Publico letter. The Speaker, however referred it to the Committee on Elections.

BENEFIT FOR JOE HOLLAND.

NEW YORK, March 24.—A benefit today at the Metropolitan Grand Opera house for Joseph Holland, the actor, who, on account of illness, probably will never be able to appear on the stage again, netted $23,000. Among those who contributed their services were William Courtney, Ethel Barrymore, William Gillette, Blanche Walsh and Lew Fields. Mrs. Leslie Carter delivered a brief address and read a letter from Joseph Jefferson, godfather of the benficiary.

FUNERAL OF MRS. STANFORD

Thousands at Palo Alto to Pay Last Tribute.

Assistant Secretary of State Loomis at Navy Yard.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, March 24.—All that was mortal of Mrs. Jane Lathrop Stanford was laid away today beside her husband and son, in the palatial mausoleum on the campus of her dearly-beloved university.

Although the body of the dead philanthropist was not taken from the Stanford mansion until 1 o'clock in the afternoon, large crowds began to flood the campus at an early hour in the morning. Hundreds of inhabitants of near-by rural towns, many of whom had personally known the dead benefactress, were among the first to arrive.

Then came the special trains bearing pallbearers, mourners and official representatives of organizations from all parts of the State, until the Palo Alto estate, which lay peacefully in the warm sunshine of a beautiful day, became peopled with over 10,000 persons, who had come to participate in the last sad farewell to the body of a remarkable woman.

Shortly after 1 o'clock, the casket bearing the remains was taken from the residence by the arms of eight prominent student athletes who had been carefully chosen for the task. The great metal box was placed in the hearse, which waited at the door. The small cortége, consisting of half a dozen carriages bearing the relatives, a short line of employés and the immediate pallbearers, started on the solemn march to Memorial Chapel.

The route followed lay along the winding, tree-bordered road leading from the estate. All the way to the church hundreds of people who had been unable to get an entrance to the church thronged the roadsides to get a view of the casket. As the sad procession approached the university buildings, the west gate of the inner quadrangle swung open to receive the cortége. Here the honorary pallbearers joined the procession. The athletes again took up the charge and the slow march began across the wide cement court to Memorial Chapel, erected by the woman whose last remains were being carried therein.

Meanwhile, the huge edifice had been filled according to the reservations made for the various sections of the congregation. In the east and west houses were students of the university; in the transepts were the family, the faculty, the employés of the university and of the estate, press representatives and the alumni. The front rows of seats in the main portion of the church were reserved for those who made up the approaching cortége, and the rest of the church was filled with representatives of official delegations,

All the way to the church hundreds of people who had been unable to get an entrance to the church thronged the roadsides to get a view of the casket. As the sad procession approached the university buildings, the west gate of the inner quadrangle swung open to receive the cortège. Here the honorary pallbearers joined the procession. The athletes again took up the charge and the slow march began across the wide cement court to Memorial Chapel, erected by the woman whose last remains were being carried therein.

Meanwhile, the huge edifice had been filled according to the reservations made for the various sections of the congregation. In the east and west houses were students of the university; in the transepts were the family, the faculty, the employés of the university and of the estate, press representatives and the alumni. The front rows of seats in the main portion of the church were reserved for those who made up the approaching cortège, and the rest of the church was filled with representatives of official delegations, with university trustees, their families and some 500 of the general public. In all 2700 people gained entrance, while over 7000 others were forced to remain without.

SERVICES AT CHURCH.

Within, there was no decoration, save a white vase filled with white lilies and placed upon the altar, and a wreath of the same lilies made around the catafalque. No sooner did the first pair of casket-bearers enter the main entrance than the tones of the massive organ began to fill the edifice with Chopin's funeral march. The great congregation rose and remained standing with bowed heads while the casket was borne down to the altar, followed by relatives and close friends of Mrs. Stanford and by the pallbearers.

When this escort had been seated, the student choir of 100 voices sang Mendelssohn's chorus, "To Thee, O Lord, I Yield My Spirit." The invocation was pronounced by Rev. William Kirk Guthrie of the First Presbyterian Church of San Francisco. This was followed by a memorial anthem composed by Dr. B. C. Blodgett, organist of Memorial Church. Rabbi Jacob Voorsanger of San Francisco read the First Lesson, from Psalms xc and xlii. Then the hymn, "Lead, Kindly Light," was sung by Miss E. W. Sbith. The Second Lesson was read by Rev. E. R. Dille, D.D., of the First Methodist Church of Oakland. After prayer by Rev. Dr. W. F. Nichols, Protestant Episcopal bishop of California, the funeral address, a eulogy to Mrs. Stanford, was delivered by Rev. John W. Dinsmore of San José. The hymn, "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth," was sung by Mrs. Arthur Fickensher, the benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. M. Hill of the Baptist Theological Seminary of Berkeley, and then all except the immediate funeral party rose and left the church, during the playing of the postlude.

In front of massive Memorial Arch the funeral procession formed. In the lead was the freshman class of the university. Then came the sophomores, juniors and seniors, followed by the resident graduate students, the church choir, alumni, faculty of the university, officiating clergymen, honorary pallbearers, the casket, with the student bearers, the family and close friends, the official delegates and the employés of the Stanford estate, in the order named.

The procession, when formed, was a full half-mile in length, reaching from Memorial Arch to within a quarter of a mile of the mausoleum itself. The only carriages in the procession were the hearse and a few others, used by the relatives and those who were unable to walk. When the casket had been brought from the chapel, the procession began its march, which took but fifteen minutes to the mausoleum.

SERVICES AT TOMB.

Already, the great piles of floral offerings sent from all parts of the country had been banked on all sides of the tomb, covering a great space on the surrounding lawn and almost hiding from view the great sepulcher itself. Notable among the floral offerings were a combination monogram of a red "S" and yellow "C," sent by the students of the University of California; a symbolic design of Memorial Church, presented by the employés of the estate, magnificent pieces from the Society of Elks, the Olympic Club, Vina estate, the various classes and organizations of the university, and hundreds of other beautiful designs from organizations and individuals.

The services at the mausoleum, marked by extreme simplicity, were attended by no less than 10,000 persons. The funeral rites were said from the great marble steps of the tomb. The address, appropriate and brief, was given by Rev. Charles R. Brown of Oakland. Two hymns were sung by the student choir and then the Committal was said by Bishop Nichols.

This closed the funeral rites, as they had been arranged, but this was not all.

As the heavy casket was being lowered into the marble sarcophagus, the assembly of 1500 students, who formed the inner portion of the great circle of humanity, broke forth with wonderful spontaneity in the Stanford college hymn, "Hail, Stanford Hail!" As the last lines of the second verse died away the great marble slab closed over the casket and the earthly remains of Mrs. Stanford reposed peacefully beside those of her husband and her son. The massive bronze doors of the mausoleum were closed and locked and the vast, mournful audience dispersed.

SERVICES AT BERKELEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BERKELEY, March 24.—Services in the nature of a memorial to the late Mrs. Stanford were conducted today by the students of the State University. The exercises were simple, consisting of a single address on Mrs. Stanford by Prof. Thomas R. Bacon, head of the history department.

Prof. Bacon said, in part: "The founders of Stanford University did more for the University of California than if all their millions had been bestowed on this institution. The competition made us great. It has given a stimulus for scientific research and higher ideals. Had it not been for the founders of the rival institution, the University of Southern California would have remained the same obscure institution it was twenty years ago."

Upon arriving at Mare Island, the Assistant Secretary was accorded the full honors to which his rank entitles him. A salute of fifteen guns was fired from the Independence as the tug came up the channel. The Mare Island Station Band and a full battalion of marines, under command of Maj. James E. Mahoney, commander of the Marine Corps at the yard, was drawn up at the quay wall, where the visitor was met by Rear-Admiral McCalla as he stepped ashore. He was immediately escorted to the commandant's house, where he was the guest of honor at a luncheon, after which he inspected the harbor, also visiting the Russian vessel Lena, which is held here by the government.

KILLING OF PATIENT LOUIS.

HAD EIGHTEEN RIBS BROKEN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NAPA, March 24.—The trial of Attendants T. D. Shanahan and Oscar Retzman of the Napa State Hospital on a charge of killing Patient Joseph Louis at the asylum, December 25, 1904, was resumed before Judge Gesford this morning.

Dr. T. H. Stice, second assistant physician at the hospital, told of going up to room 4 in ward 8 at 7 o'clock on the evening of December 25, with several others. He found the dead body of Louis lying on the floor, with a mattress and bedclothes near it. One of the sheets had a large blot of fresh blood about one and a half feet square on one corner, but when Dr. Stice came back again at 10:30, with Coroner Kyser, the blood had been washed from the sheet by someone.

Shanahan and Retzman were examiner before three physicians at the asylum and Supervisor McLaughlin that evening, and Retzman told how the trouble occurred. He said he went in to put Louis to bed and saw that he had cut his restraining straps. Louis butted Retzman severely with his head, and Retzman shoved him into a corner of the room. Louis then died in an epileptic fit. Shanahan told Dr. Stice that he did not take part in the struggle with Louis.

Dr. L. A. Frary, who conducted the autopsy on the body of Louis, December 26, and again December 28, found that the neck was badly dislocated; there were several E-shaped wounds made by a brass buckle on the end of a strap. Louis also had ten ribs broken on his right side and eight on the left side. Death could have been caused either from dislocation of the neck or from the breaking of the ribs. The court then took a recess.

NO TRACE OF ROBBER BELL.

REVENUE CUTTER TAKES UP THE HUNT FOR DESPERADO.

Cartridges and Two Buggies Clews in Ten-Thousand-Dollar Robbery at Stege—Crusade Against Student Thieves at Berkeley Begun—San Francisco Saloon-keeper Robbed.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TACOMA (Wash.) March 24.—Although the posse searching McNeil's Island for the escaped Federal convict, Albert E. Bell, has been increased to fifty men, and orders have been issued to bring him in dead or alive, no trace of the daring robber has been found.

It has been learned that Bell gave $200 to John M. Lesch, recently released from the prison at the expiration of a sentence for selling liquor to Indians.

The revenue cutter Grant, Capt. Tozier, has taken up the man-hunt, and has thrown out a cordon of small boats on the west side of the island.

CLEWS IN STEGE HOLD-UP.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BERKELEY, March 24.—The latest local development in the $10,000 robbery is the finding of some Winchester rifle cartridges within a block of the place where the first buggy was abandoned by the highwaymen. The cartridges, which were 44 caliber, were found wrapped in a newspaper. In an abandoned valise found by some boys under a barn was discovered an empty coin sack, bearing the name of the Butte County Bank at Chico.

BUGGY IDENTIFIED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

OAKLAND, March 24.—The buggy in which one of the robbers who held up J. E. Daly and Frank Roche last Monday rode away from the scene of the hold-up at Stege, and which was last night identified by Daly as the one he had seen standing near the hiding place of the robbers, was still further identified today by F. P. Willets, who is employed in laying a car track on San Pablo avenue.

Willets's attention was attracted to the rig by the unusual speed at which the driver was urging his horse. The robber was whipping the animal with a broken whip. This whip was shown Willets, and identified as the one which he had seen the fleeing robber use.

This morning a string of rifle cartridges was turned over to the Chief of Police, and it is supposed to have some connection with the robbery. They were found on the steamer Garden City, on its run from San Francisco, and are supposed to have been left by one of the robbers in his haste to leave the boat.

SECOND BUGGY TURNS UP.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—Sheriff Barnet of Alameda county has gained an important lead in the Stege $10,000 hold-up case by turning up the second buggy used by the robbers in going to and getting away from the scene of the crime. The buggy has been identified by Daly, one of the men who was robbed. It was hired by a stranger who answers the description of one of the robbers, on the morning of the robbery, and returned about noon, both buggy and horse showing evidence of hard usage.

TABLES TURNED ON HOLD-UP.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—The tables were turned upon a highwayman last night. He had just stood up a bank clerk named John E. Webster at the point of a pistol and robbed him of a gold watch and a small sum of money, on Ashbury street, near Hayes, when the gripman and conductor of a passing car rushed to the victim's assistance. This gave Webster an opening and he grappled with the robber, who fired at him with a revolver, but with the assistance of the carmen, he was overpowered and turned over to the police. He gave his name as Charles Colby, but later said his right name was Otto Mitchell and that he had arrived from Los Angeles four months ago and was out of work.

STICKY FINGERS AT BERKELEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BERKELEY, March 24.—J. A. Harris, the self-confessed burglar, a member of the senior class of the State university, is to be summarily dismissed by the student investigating committee. It is being disclosed that a number of other students have been guilty of derelictions and a crusade against misdoing in the student body is to be vigorously carried on by the University police, under the direction of President Wheeler and the faculty.

ROB AND BEAT SALOON MAN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—Two masked robbers entered the saloon of Rudolph Stolzenwald late last night and held the proprietor up at the muzzles of revolvers, rifled his pockets and cash register and then beat him viciously before escaping. They left no clew as to their identity.

STILL ANOTHER CLEW.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERKELEY, March 24.—Besides the empty money bag, the grip contained several photographs, a Bible, some books and underclothing. In one of the books is the name "Albert Macey, New Providence, Iowa." All the articles were badly damaged by the rain.

"It looks to me," said Deputy Marshal Pickett, "like the grip was stolen from Macey and that it was abandoned by the robber after the money was taken. In the grip were several fine pictures of oil well property, and it is likely that Macey had come out from Iowa to investigate this property. We have telegraphed to New Providence in the hope of locating Macey."

SCHOONER KLOSE WATERLOGGED ON OREGON COAST.

Sailed from Vancouver, Loaded With Lumber, and When Located, Nothing Was Seen of Her Crew. Fishing Boat Driven Ashore During Heavy Gale—Other Maritime News.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORTLAND (Or.) March 24.—A special dispatch to the Oregonian from Aberdeen, Wash., says:

"The crew of the steamer Chehalis, which arrived here today, reports locating the schooner C. A. Klose, loaded with lumber, waterlogged and abandoned, about thirty miles off Heceta Head, on the Oregon coast. The schooner was sighted Wednesday, and a line was got aboard the ship, but it parted close to the bow, and further attempts were considered too hazardous on account of the boisterous sea.

"The Klose sailed from Vancouver, Wash., March 16, and, according to the log of the captain, which was left on board and secured by Mate Kittleson of the Chehalis, became waterlogged soon after leaving Vancouver, and the crew became exhausted at the pumps. Flags of distress were hoisted. There is no record of the fate of the crew.

"Mate Kittleson says that the hold of the Klose was full of water, but it had not reached the cabin, and the vessel was in comparatively good shape and would have been a valuable prize for the Chehalis men. The Klose was located in lat. 43:52 and long. 125:12, and seemed to be a comparatively new vessel. She was drifting landward when left to her fate.

"The load of lumber was intact, and the men of the Chehalis had no difficulty in getting around her. The mate secured a clock and a compass from the ship. The cargo and vessel were valued at about $40,000."

DAUNTLESS GOES IN SEARCH.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—The tug Dauntless sailed from this port tonight in search of the schooner C. A. Klose. The schooner sailed from Astoria March 17 for this port, under the command of J. Wagner. She carried a crew of nine men. Her owners are Beadle Bros. of this city. The net tonnage of the Klose was 270.55. She was built at Alameda in 1892.

THE DOLLAR'S DIFFICULTIES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VICTORIA (B. C.) March 24.—The difficulties of the steamer Stanley Dollar, which sailed from San Francisco without reporting her Chinese crew, as required by the Chinese Exclusion Laws, have been adjusted. A United States immigration official stationed at Victoria went to Comox and arranged matters. The Chinese were found to be all on board. The steamer sailed this morning for Kobe.

SCHOONER DRIVEN ASHORE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VICTORIA (B. C.) March 24.—A special from Clayoquot says the American schooner Ella G., which has been engaged in halibut fishing off Vancouver Island, was driven ashore on a sand spit there Wednesday night, during a heavy gale. The crew were saved. The vessel does not appear to be greatly damaged, but is hard and fast. Efforts to float her have failed.

BARK GEORGIAN WRECKED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) March 24.—The barge Georgian of this port is wrecked on the rocks of Harnby Islands. She broke from her towing tug during the gale last night, and split in two on the rocks. She had on board twelve freight cars, three loaded with machinery for the coal mines at Union, Vancouver Island. The crew of the barge had a narrow escape for their lives.

MORE ABOUT THE KLOSE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORTLAND (Or.) March 24.—The schooner C. A. Klose sailed from Vancouver, Wash., for San Francisco March 16, with 506,000 feet of lumber. She cleared from Astoria on the following day, and nothing was heard of her until the report of her water-logged condition was telegraphed from Tacoma this afternoon.

Female Troubles

New York's Most Successful Specialist in Woman's Diseases Says: "Nearly Every Case of So-Called Female Weakness and Painful Periods Is Due to Kidney or Bladder Disease of Some Form."

Not exactly sick. Just dull, listless, without energy, hope or ambition. Can't go about your work with the old-time vim and spirit. Easily tired. Your rest is disturbed, digestion poor. Have headaches now and again, and pains in back and loins. If a woman, your monthly visits are painful, delayed or suppressed, and you have other female ills. Sometimes you even faint. It's hard to go upstairs. You don't understand your condition, nor realize your danger. The plain, simple truth is that

It's Your Kidneys

Mrs. D. Morrow, Secretary Numismatic Society, London, Ont., Can., wrote:

"Gentlemen—Two years ago I began to gradually lose my health. I became nervous and hysterical. I lost my appetite, and it seemed impossible for me to obtain a good night's rest. I lost flesh, became emaciated, hollow eyed and suffered with frequent heart palpitations. My complexion became sallow and muddy. I had a haggard appearance. I felt as though life had lost its charm and I did not care to live. Warner's Safe Cure changed all this. It came as a blessing to my home.

"I felt better as soon as I started to use it, and within a month I was like another woman. New life, health and vigor returned to me, and a new light and happiness came to my life. Your medicine did all this for me, and is certainly worthy of great praise."

Thousands of men and women have kidney disease and don't know it. You can tell by letting a little morning urine stand in a tumbler 24 hours. If it becomes cloudy, has a red-dish-brown sediment, or particles float about in it, your kidneys are affected and you haven't a minute to lose. Get a bottle of Warner's Safe Cure at the nearest druggist's, and begin taking it as directed. It will cure you, and it's the only medicine that will without leaving bad effects. 50c and $1.00 a bottle at all druggists.

Consul Gudger Gives Figures on Panama Rates.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Secretary Hitchcock has put his foot down hard on the whisky sellers who gather around the camps where irrigation works are being constructed. The registers and receivers of land offices in Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington and Wyoming today were instructed by the Commissioner of the General Land Office to notify all persons who have heretofore entered, or who may hereafter enter, any of the lands which have been segregated under the provisions of the Reclamation Act that the leasing of such lands to other persons who are conducting the business of selling alcoholic liquors principally to employés engaged on government works, will be deemed sufficient cause for cancellation of entries embracing lands so used or occupied.

The officers of land offices are further directed to give the widest possible publicity to the fact that such use of any lands will be prevented by proper actions in ejectment, by injunction or otherwise. These instructions have been called forth by conditions existing in Nevada, where the government employs several thousand men. Homesteaders have leased a portion of their lands to persons engaged in liquor business, and murder and robbery have been frequent in consequence.

PANAMA ROAD'S RATES.

FIGURES BY CONSUL GUDGER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Consul-General Gudger, in a report to the State Department, gives figures on the passenger, telegraph, and freight charges which the Panama Railroad Company has been making and which, he says, have been very high, and, in the opinion of many, exorbitant.

Mr. Gudger points out, in anticipation of the American government taking charge of the road in April, that the company has issued a tariff in which considerable reduction in charges have been made. Passenger rates across the isthmus have been $4 gold, for first-class passage and $6 silver for second class. By the new tariff, the first class is $2.40 gold, while the second-class passage is $2.85 silver. There is, as heretofore, a charge of 3 cents gold per pound for baggage. The old rate for telegrams was $1 gold for ten words and 10 cents for each extra word. Now it is 25 cents gold for ten words and 2 cents for each extra word.

Freight charges have been reduced 50 per cent.

THAT EXTRA SESSION.

INTEREST IN LEGISLATION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Now that it seems absolutely assured that the President will call an extra session of Congress to meet about October 1, there is a growing interest in legislation that will probably be considered at that time. It generally has been understood that the extra session will be chiefly, if not wholly, for consideration of the railway rate law that the President is desirous of having enacted. The House, in recent session, passed the Townsend-Esch bill, but when it came to the Senate that body did not propose to have radical railroad legislation until at least the subject had been fully considered.

Inquiry into the subject of rate legislation was not begun early enough to permit the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce to fully consider it. Senator Elkins, chairman of the committee, did not propose to recommend any legislation to the Senate until there had been a full hearing of witnesses and until the committee had fully discussed the matter. So the railroad bill went over, but the committee received permission to sit during the recess to take testimony on that subject. The committee will meet April 1 to hear witnesses, and throughout the summer it will hold meetings. Some of these meetings doubtless will be in this city, but the precedent set in other years may be followed for a meeting of the committee during the heated term in some seashore resort.

Senator Allison, chairman of the Senate Committee on Appropriations, and ranking member of the Committee on Finance in the absence of Senator Aldrich, who is in Europe, has been in New York during the past several days in conference with the leading business men as to means that may be taken in order to obtain reductions of some high business conditions.

Secretary Shaw of the Treasury has been there with Mr. Allison, and together the two have been looking into the situation. If the tariff is in any way revised it is fully expected by those leading Republicans who propose to reduce it that there is no interference with business conditions. They declare the fact that the houses of Congress are in the hands of the Republican party, which is devoted to the tariff, is sufficient guarantee that only conservative action will be taken. Speaker Cannon of the House of Representatives has been a "stand-patter." He was a "stand-patter" during the campaign when the Democratic party, in some of the States, was attacking the principle of the protective tariff. That was not regarded by the Republican leaders as the time for Republicans to make any concessions to the free trade element of the country.

MEXICAN INTERNATIONAL.

ARRANGEMENT FOR SUBSIDY.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The State Department today received a report from the consul at Durango, Mexico, which states that private information is to the effect that arrangement for a subsidy to the proposed extension of the Mexican International Railroad from Durango across the Sierra Madre to Mazatlan on the Pacific Coast has been completed, at least for half the route. The indications at present seem quite favorable for the construction of this extension, beginning at an early date.

The difficulty about the subsidy appears to have some connection with the fact that, in 1903, when announcing its acquirement of a controlling interest in the new national railroad system of Mexico (of which the International forms a part) the Mexican government officially declared its abandonment of the policy of granting a subsidy by which all but one of the trunk lines, and many branch roads of the country were built. In case of the proposed extension to Mazatlan, there are various reasons for making an exception: First, the International Railroad itself was built by the late C. P. Huntington without a subsidy, being the only trunk line so built in Mexico, and it has not in twelve years since its completion to Durango carried its line to Mazatlan because of the cost of construction of the remaining 200 miles of route; second, this road is now a part of the system in which the government itself is interested; third, in response to petitions from the States of Durango and Sinaloa, President Diaz virtually pledged the government to aid the construction of this important conecting link, which should do so much for the development of the Sierra.

It recently has been announced that the national lines of Mexico have completed a close traffic agreement with the so-called "Gould lines" of the United States, whereby specially favorable freight rates and connections will be made for Mexican business to the United States and vice versa and whereby, also, special effort will be made to secure tourist travel for Mexico.

MEXICO'S AMBASSADOR

DIES AT THE EMBASSY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, March 24.—Señor Don Manuel de Aspiroz, Mexico's first ambassador to the United States, died late this afternoon at the Mexican Embassy, surrounded by members of his family, aged 69 years. Although a sick man since last fall, the ambassador's death was due to a relapse caused by exposure on Inauguration day. Against the advice of his physicians, Señor Aspiroz left his sick room and attended the inaugural ceremonies at the Capitol, where he came near fainting.

For years the ambassador has suffered from gastritis, and this weakened his heart. His death this afternoon was unaccompanied by suffering.

Señor Aspiroz left his law office to enter the Mexican army and rendered gallant service in the uprising of his country against the French intervention, rising in rank from Second Lieutenant to Colonel. After the fall of Queretaro, he was appointed prosecuting attorney in the court-martial of Maximilian, Miramon and Mejal.

When the revolution of Tuxtepec under Gen. Diaz overthrew the existing government, Col. Aspiroz retired to private life. In May, 1896, he became assistant Secretary of the Ministry of Foreign Relations, and held that position until his appointment of first Mexican ambassador to the United States.

The imperial house of Austria has always taken the position that Señor Aspiroz, through his connection with the courtmartial of Maximilian, was in part responsible for Maximilian's execution, and during the early days of the service of Señor Aspiroz at Washington, this fact proved of keen embarrassment to himself and the Austrian representative. Finally, it was arranged that when brought together at official functions these two diplomats should exchange formal greetings. This, however, was not until an embarrassing incident had occurred at the White House during the administration of President McKinley, when the Mexican ambassador was assigned to escort to the dining-room the wife of the Austrian ambassador and the latter felt compelled to decline.

He is said to have confessed to obtaining $35,000 worth of jewels in hotels, and was locked up in police headquarters. There was no police record of the prisoner, who has never before been arrested.

In appearance, dress and language he is of good birth. He posed as the son of a wealthy Chicago man, and said he was a Princeton student. It is believed that he is a member of a Philadelphia family.

Vicar Greer's Son Says Ruth McEnery Stuart's Son Fractured His Spine by a Fall.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—Sterling Stuart, aged 22 years, son of Ruth McEnery Stuart, the novelist, was taken to a hospital today with a fractured spine. Darrow A. Greer, son of the vicar of St. Paul's Chapel, this city, who was in Stuart's company last night, was held at the Flushing Police Station while the injuries to Stuart were investigated.

Young Greer told the police that Stuart and himself were at dinner last night and that when they returned to the Stuart home in Flushing, the doors were locked and that they tried to enter the house by climbing to the roof of the porch and breaking a window. In doing so, Greer said, Stuart fell. He declared that they had no quarrel.

Doctors at the hospital say Stuart cannot recover.

Mrs. Stuart has been away from home on a visit for several weeks.

WAS EVE ADAM'S THIRTEENTH RIB?

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BALTIMORE, March 23.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The biblical story of Eve being formed from a rib of Adam was explained by Prof. James Teacle Dennis of Baltimore tonight. Nowadays, men have twelve ribs. Eight thousand years ago they used to have thirteen. Prof. Dennis knows this is so, because he has seen the skeletons.

An audience in McCoy Hall of Johns Hopkins University followed his archaeological lecture upon "The Tombs of Ancient Egyptians" with great interest. The remains of over one hundred and seventy-five bodies, many of them estimated to date back in life to 6000 years before Christ, were discovered by the party of which Prof. Dennis was a director, and of this number thirteen-ribbed individuals were in sufficient numbers to make this anatomical peculiarity a distinctive feature.

Associated with Dr. George Reisner of the University of California, Prof. Dennis one year ago made extensive excavations in the plateau of Gizeh, Egypt, when a number of remarkable discoveries on the site of an old Egyptian cemetery, dating back from the second to the seventh dynasty, 4000 to 3400 B. C., were made, and a number of prehistoric tombs were dug up, containing bones of men who lived 6000 years B. C. Though antedating the age of embalming, the bones of prehistoric man, said Dennis, are all well preserved, and 50 per cent. of these are gifted with one more rib than the men of today possess.

DETAILS OF JAP LOAN CONCLUDED.

GETS HUNDRED FIFTY MILLIONS ON GOOD TERMS.

Will be Issued Simultaneously in London and New York, Each City Taking Half—German Banks Made Strenuous Efforts to Get in but Were Rigorously Excluded.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, March 24.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The final details of the Japanese loan were concluded here today, with the exception of the exact date of issue. This has not yet been decided, but it will not be delayed. The amount is $150,000,000, with interest at 4½ per cent. The price of the issue is 90 and the security will be the net receipts of the tobacco monopoly of Japan, amounting to $8,000,000, according to the budget for the next fiscal year. The loan will be issued simultaneously in New York and London, each of these cities taking $75,000,000.

The American issuing banks are Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and others participating in the previous loan, while the British half of the loan is handled by the group of banks which was responsible for the earlier flotations. The loan is redeemable after five years. Some subscriptions are expected in Holland and Switzerland. It is said here that, although German banks exhausted every effort to secure participation in the loan, they have been rigorously excluded, as Japan found no difficulty in securing the amount required in New York and London.

Koretiyo Takashi, special Japanese financial commissioner, informed the Associated Press today that the $150,000,000 would suffice for Japan's requirements for a year and a half, at the expiration of which time, in his opinion, the war would be over. Three New York banks are concerned—Kuhn, Loeb & Co., the National City Bank and the National Bank of Commerce.

M. Takashi was of the opinion that despite the hitch in the negotiations, Russia would very shortly obtain another loan in France.

The Japanese loan is expected to be issued next week.

FORMAL STATEMENT SOON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—A formal statement regarding the offering of the new Japanese 4½-per-cent. loan here will be made shortly. The price of issue will be the same as abroad, and though nominally a twenty-year bond, has the privilege of redemption at par in five years.

MOST REMARKABLE CASE.

One of Two Women, Mother and Daughter Who Hypnotized Each Other, Dies.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—One of the most remarkable cases in the experience of the doctors of the Presbyterian Hospital in this city ended today in the death of Miss Luella Huestis of Mount Vernon, who, with her mother, Mrs. James H. Huestis, had been in a trance for fifteen days prior to her death. More than two weeks ago both of the women were found unconscious in the home of Henry W. Helfer, a lawyer of this city, and were supposed to have been asphyxiated by gas. Neither had since recovered consciousness, and physicians and hypnotists were puzzled by their unaccountable coma. Miss Tuestis was an attractive young woman, aged 22 years. Lack of nourishment was the principal cause of her death, as it had been impossible to give her food except in liquid form, through a tube. Stimulants and oxygen were administered without effect.

A singular fact is that the young woman's mother, who lay in an adjoining room, began to show signs of the approaching death soon after the death of her daughter. Like her daughter, the mother also is greatly emaciated and the physicians at the hospital say that her low vitality is due principally to starvation.

A specialist in hypnotism and psychology who investigated the case has made public his conclusion that the two women had unconsciously hypnotized each other and that gas asphyxiation had nothing to do with the case. He explained that he had himself been hypnotized while hypnotizing a patient, and had only been awakened by the arousing of his subject. The case of the two women has attracted the attention of scientists all over the country.

INQUISITION ON BEEF TRUST.

CUDAHY'S GENERAL MANAGER IS ON WITNESS STAND.

Says the Questions Related to Shipping of Cattle and Beef and Not to an Investigation Relative to Railroads—Important Evidence in Gotham—Inquiry Not Concluded.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, March 24.—Specific information regarding shipping, marketing and prices of cattle was sought today by the special grand jury, which is investigating the alleged combination of packers. Michael Murphy, general manager of the Cudahy Packing Company at South Omaha, Sioux City and Kansas City, was before the inquisitors, and shed some light upon the subjects under consideration.

"They asked me first about the packing business in general," Mr. Murphy said. "Then they took up the subject of marketing, and asked all the details of it. They inquired into the shipping of cattle and beef. Their questions did not point to an investigation relative to railroads. Then they went into the subject of prices."

Asked whether the questions were such as would indicate a desire for general information rather than for use in possible indictments, Murphy said that the information was evidently not what the inquisitors were after.

After Murphy and Wilkins had testified in the morning Thomas B. Ruddy, head of Ruddy Brothers Packing Company of Kansas City was called to the stand. Ruddy was subjected to a close examination, and with the exception of the noon adjournment was on the witness stand from 11:30 o'clock in the morning until the adjournment at 5 o'clock in the evening. When he left the jury room, it could be plainly seen that he had been affected by the ordeal. He appeared nervous, and refused to discuss his testimony.

"I told all I knew of the business in which I am connected," said he, "but I will not tell in detail what it is. This is too serious a matter, and it would do me a great injury were my words to become public."

It was said that Dist.-Atty. Morrison is paying much attention to the question of railroad rates for meat and cattle shipments and the question of whether rebates are paid the packers because of their large shipments, thus discriminating against similar smaller shippers. The investigation will not be resumed until Monday.

NEW YORK HEARING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—Important evidence is said to have been adduced in the so-called beef trust investigation now in progress here, in conjunction with that before the Federal grand jury in Chicago. Six witnesses were examined at one sitting, five of whom were, it is understood, former employés of the packing companies.

"It would be unawful and highly improper for me to disclose any of the details of the investigation," said Joel M. Marx, who is associated with Dist.-Atty. Burnett in the investigation, "but I am free to say the results of Thursday's work were exceedingly satisfactory."

Although the grand jury has been excused until next week, the inquiry has not been concluded.

PROMOTER ARRESTED.

Postal Authorities Get After Organizer of Alleged Get-Rich-Quick Concerns in Philadelphia.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—Stanley Francis, alias Arthur S. Foster, a promoter of many companies, was arrested by United States postal inspectors today on the charge of using the mails for fraudulent purposes, and, after a hearing before the United States Commissioner, he was held in $100,000 bail for further hearing. Francis was unable to furnish bail and was committed to jail.

The postal authorities charge that Francis is one of the leading figures in the Storey Cotton Company and the Provident Investment Company, which are alleged by the postal inspectors to be fraudulent "get-rich-quick" concerns. Both companies have gone into the hands of receivers, and most of the men who were actively identified with the concerns have disappeared. Francis was arrested in the office of Francis Bros., publishers, with which firm he was connected.

Among the concerns Francis promoted was the United States Trust Company of Philadelphia. A meeting of the directors of the company was held today and all the officers resigned. This was followed by the entering of a judgment against Francis for $70,000 by the officers of the trust company.

The postal authorities have also caused a warrant to be issued for the arrest of W. H. Latimer, missing manager of the defunct Provident Investment Company. He is charged with using the mails for fraudulent purposes.

WABASH'S LINK TO BE PUSHED.

NO AGREEMENT WITH GOULD IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Former Line Will be Extended to the Seaboard as Quickly as Possible—Some of the Most Wonderful Construction in the East—To Santa Fe to Galveston.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Official announcement has been made by the management of the Wabash that the link connecting the Western Maryland Railroad and the West Virginia Central will be pushed to completion within eight months. This announcement apparently sets at rest rumors to the effect that an agreement had been reached between the Goulds and the Pennsylvania which would obviate the necessity of the Gould-line extension to tide water. There can no longer remain any doubt that the Goulds are going to extend the Wabash to the seaboard as quickly as possible. It is said that on forty miles of the Cherry Run extension, which are now employed 2629 men, 36 animals, nine locomotives and nine new steam shovels.

The new construction in many respects will be the most wonderful in the East. One mile of road will cost at least $250,000. Mountain sides are being torn asunder by huge blasts containing 8125 pounds of powder, which release fully 20,000 yards of rock or earth at a single blast.

Until the Wabash showed the way, it was taken for granted that the theory, it was firmly believed there was no feasible route between Cumberland and Hancock except those occupied by the Chesapeake and Ohio and by the Baltimore and Ohio roads.

SANTA FE TO GALVESTON.

ROUTE OF CONNECTION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, March 24.—During several months the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé railroad has been at work on plans to connect its transcontinental line in New Mexico with the Texas system, which is to form a direct route to Galveston. According to the Tribune, the survey is to run from Amarillo or Canon City on the Pecos Valley system to Brownwood, where it connects with the Gulf line which will soon be completed.

Construction work on the Western division, which is to run from the connecting point on the Pecos Valley to the transcontinental line near Albuquerque will be carried out as rapidly as possible, it being planned to have the work on both divisions in progress at the same time. The cut off was more than 500 miles long.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC'S TEN

FOR SEVEN MILLION ACRES

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The manager of the Grand Trunk Pacific is trying to induce the British Columbian government to present them a grant of at least 7,000,000 acres in British Columbia. It is said that if the grant is made, the Grand Trunk Pacific will begin construction on the west end of its transcontinental route at the same time that construction is begun in the eastern end of the road.

It is said that construction in British Columbia alone will cost at least $15,000,000, and that as the result of construction, between $20,000,000 and $40,000,000 will be spent there.

FIRED FROM THE FORCE

SAN FRANCISCO, March 24.—The Board of Police Commissioners today dismissed from the department Capt. Wittman, Sergt. Ellis and Policemen O'Brien and Hines.

Chief Wittman was charged by the commissioners with incompetency, neglect of duty in failing to suppress gambling in Chinatown, it being alleged that it was a matter of common notoriety that gambling was continued unprogress in the Chinese quarter. A lengthy trial was had, in which Chief Wittman introduced testimony to show that he had used every effort to suppress crime among the Chinese. Sergt. Ellis, who was also accused of neglect of duty, admitted that he had received money from Chinese gamblers who wished for protection. The two policemen who were also dismissed were declared equally culpable.

Three other members of Kilroy's force, Doran, Munn and McGrath, were fined $100 each.

CHILDREN'S PLAYGROUNDS

NEW YORK, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Board of Education today readopted a resolution appropriating $1,000,000 for the purchase of sites for playgrounds in different sections of the city. The Aldermen defeated the resolution at the last meeting, on the ground that the resolution of the Board of Estimate gave no information as to the location of the lands.

The board gave a public hearing on the proposition to lay out a public park of eighteen acres at One Hundred and Thirty-second street and Willis avenue, in the Bronx. The site includes the historic home of Gouverneur Morris. The board took the proposed maps, and will render a decision in a few days.

BUTTE (Mont.) March 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Please give me some information on nitrogen and its gases, and answer questions following:

(1.) Can nitric acid be made in small quantities, and if so, how?

(2.) Are all metallic oxides dissolved by nitric acid?

(3.) Can it be manufactured directly from air?

(4.) What difference is there between it and "fuming nitric acid?"

(5.) How is laughing gas manufactured?

(6.) Describe fluorspar.

(7.) Describe selenium and give tests for identifying it.

I get The Times in Salt Lake, and will be under many obligations for reply. Yours truly,

ANSWER: Nitrogen is a gaseous element found in the atmosphere uncombined with oxygen. The two gases, uncombined, form a practical illustration of a "mechanical mixture." Nitric acid, however, we have the two gases in the shape of another good illustration, i.e., as "chemically combined." Nitrogen is widely distributed in nature; we find it in many substances produced by animals, in putrefaction, and in decaying fruit and cabbages. In the so-called "mineral kingdom" it is obtained, principally, from nitrates, chief of which is potassium nitrate (saltpeter.)

In 1772, Rutherford was the first investigator who proved that nitrogen was found in air, and denominated it as "a gas incipable of supporting life and combustion." In 1774 Scheele followed, with conclusive evidence that the atmosphere consisted in large percentum of nitrogen and oxygen, the latter named being "capable of supporting life and combustion. Oxygen is the most important element of air. Besides these two gases, we find in the atmosphere small quantities of moisture, carbon dioxide, argon and other matter, depending somewhat on locality. Oxygen is "positive;" nitrogen, "negative." In their free state they, probably, act as poles of a battery, and further, possibly, we have from the two currented electricity and ozone, producing in part, radio-activity, and so forth.

(To digress somewhat from the written subject, let us call attention to some facts, on the salts of radium. On August 2, 1904, The Times first called attention to the theory (since proven to be a fact) that uranium is not, necessarily, the only element from which radium could be obtained. In support of this contention, on the date aforesaid, appears in words following: "Pitch blende and carnotite are the minerals from which salts of radium have been obtained (either

ANSWER: Nitrogen is a gaseous element found in the atmosphere uncombined with oxygen. The two gases, so uncombined, form a practical illustration of a "mechanical mixture." In nitric acid, however, we have the two gases in the shape of another good illustration, i.e., as "chemically combined." Nitrogen is widely distributed in nature; we find it in many substances produced by animals, in putrefaction, and in decaying fruit and cabbages. In the so-called "mineral kingdom" it is obtained, principally, from nitrates, chief of which is potassium nitrate (saltpeter.)

In 1772, Rutherford was the first investigator who proved that nitrogen was found in air, and denominated it as "a gas incapable of supporting life and combustion." In 1774 Scheele followed, with conclusive evidence that the atmosphere consisted in large per centum of nitrogen and oxygen, the latter named being "capable of supporting life and combustion." Oxygen is the most important element of air. Besides these two gases, we find in the atmosphere small quantities of moisture, carbon dioxide, argon and other matter, depending somewhat on locality. Oxygen is "positive;" nitrogen, "negative." In their free state they, probably, act as poles of a battery, and further, possibly, we have from the two currented electricity and ozone, producing in part, radio-activity, and so forth.

(To digress somewhat from the written subject, let us call attention to some facts, on the salts of radium. On August 2, 1904, The Times first called attention to the theory (since proven to be a fact) that uranium is not, necessarily, the only element from which radium could be obtained. In support of this contention, on the date aforesaid, appears in words following: "Pitch blende and carnotite are the minerals from which salts of radium have been obtained (either of them in powder will give radio-active photographs.) That worthy lady, Mme. Curie, and her honored husband, Pierre Curie, were the first to find what the former named 'radio-active' properties in 'radium and polonium.' Austrian pitchblende tailings, or residue, from which all of the uranium values were extracted, was the material from which they obtained salts of radium, and from which residue they also found the oxide of a third element, thoria, too, being radio-active. The Austrian tailings, alluded to above were made up as follows: Sulphur, .4 of 1 per cent.; ferrous oxide, 4.1 per cent.; .4, 4.3 per cent.; calcium oxide, 5.2 per cent.; magnesium oxide, 2. per cent.; carbon dioxide, 3.3 per cent.; silica dioxide, 2.5 per cent.; water, 1.3 per cent. From the material in the above analysis the Curies not only obtained the salts enumerated, but that of barium also." In the manufacture of the very rare salts enumerated, sulphuric acid, with its hydrogen and oxygen, sodium with carbon, and chlorine with water, used repeatedly on the sample of the material set forth in above analysis, with several evaporations thereon gives radium, chloride and sulphate, aided by nitrogen and other gases of the atmosphere.)

Answering your questions:

(1.) Place in a small glass retort half an ounce of powdered potassium nitrate and half an ounce of common sulphuric acid; allow the retort to stand erect for half hour or so, in order that as much as possible of the sulphuric acid remaining in the neck may flow down into the retort. Next heat the latter in a sand bath (an iron pan with sand therein,) connect the beak of the retort to a receiver (a glass mattrass or vial,) wrap round the joint, or junction some strips of blotting paper, and with the sand bath over a tripod, apply a gentle heat from alcohol or gas flames thereunder. In a short time in the strongest nitric acid, and allow it to dry, we then have "gun cotton," which detonates and explodes like gunpowder, but far more violently.

(2.) Yes, by separating oxygen from it. Oxygen enters quickly into combination with many substances. Nitrogen is inert, hence it is easily "manufactured."

(3.) Fuming nitric acid is nitric acid in which large quantities of nitrous acid fumes are dissolved, converting the acid into a yellow-red liquid, which in open vessels gives off the same colored fumes; this liquid in a glass container from which is drawn a glass stopper, causes the same colored fumes to escape into the atmosphere; hence its name, "fuming" nitric acid.

(4.) Protoxide of nitrogen (laughing gas) may be called atmospheric air, containing double its usual amount of oxygen. It is usually manufactured and sold in compressed cylinders. One hundred grains of ammonium nitrate will yield 62 grains of "laughing gas." One liter of the gas, at standard temperature and pressure, weighs 1.98 grs., from which it follows that 100 grs. of the nitrate will yield nearly 50 liters of the gas."

(5.) Fluorite (fluorspar) possesses a vitreous luster. In separate specimens we have found one color only, in others, multi-colored, brown and black being the most rare. It is 4 in the scale of hardness; brittle; crystallization, isometric; octahedral and hexahedral in habit; perfect in cleavage; fracture, conchoidal; earthy or granular; formula, one of calcium to two of fluorine; density, slightly over 3. It fuses B.B., with increased flame. In closed tube phosphoresces and decrepitates. Sulphuric acid added to its powder in a cup or glass vessel covered with glass etches the glass cover. Hydrochloric acid is made by adding sulphuric acid to it, thereby forming calcium sulphate and hydrofluoric acid, which acid must be kept in carmine, gutta percha or lead cisterns. Fluorite makes a good flux in the smelting of iron ores.

(6.) Selenium is an element, of atomic weight, 79. It was discovered by Berzelius in 1817. It somewhat resembles sulphur. When in ore, B.B., fumes are given off which smell like decaying horseradish. It is contained in the red matter deposited from varieties of sulphuric acid, especially after adding sulphuric acid to water (dilution.) Selenium is a solid, of a dark gray color and melts at about 220 deg. C. "A gas resembling sulphuretted hydrogen is made by decomposing a selenide with an acid and which gas precipitates many metals." Selenic acid is the only single acid that dissolves gold.

FIGHTING JOINT STATEHOOD.

Something About the Battle in Washington—Supreme Credit is Given to Senator Bard.

[The writer of the following letter was sent to Washington by the Territorial Bar Association of Arizona with a committee to assist in the defeat of joint Statehood, and was there during that fight. His letter is printed in part.—Ed.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) March 17.—In the debate on the joint Statehood bill, one of the United States Senators said in referring to the list of the members of the New Mexico Legislature, that the names of some of its members he was unable to pronounce, and therefore concluded that New Mexico must be governed by Mexicans. The Senator would have experienced no trouble of that kind with the Arizona members, indeed if some of those Senators could only have taken a look upon our Legislative Assembly they would be more favorably disposed to give Arizona the justice it is by right entitled to. But it is not so strange that eastern Senators should favor the scheme to force Arizona into a union with New Mexico, as it is that Senators of the Western and Pacific Coast States should be found aiding the work of this unnatural and unholy union. One of the Senators said to me that the committee had decided to pass the joint Statehood bill and that he felt bound to stand by the committee. This I suppose referred to what is known as the "steering committee" of the United States Senate, a committee that the Chicago Tribune has denounced as useless and uncalled for in the accomplishment of just legislation. Be that as it may, it is done just the same, and some Senators feel under obligations to follow the action of that committee, and this even though their judgment does not approve of it. As this Senator said to me, "I do not like the idea of uniting Arizona and New Mexico into one State, but feel bound by the action of the committee." How many of the Pacific Coast and Western State Senators will return to the next Congress with a feeling of this kind remains to be seen. But for the present, at least, joint Statehood for Arizona and New Mexico is dead, and for this we are to be thankful to the brave men of the Senate who so manfully stood by us, to the Democratic Senators and that brave body of Republican Senators who so nobly stood firm and fought and won that victory for this people, all here feel under lasting obligations to. By common consent Senator Bard was the recognized leader on the floor of the Senate in opposition to the scheme. The matter has now passed into history. No closer or more stubborn fight ever took place in the Senate of the United States. The writer has had occasion in the past to witness great efforts in the passage or defeat of certain legislation in the halls of Congress, but has seen nothing to compare with this fight on Statehood. There came Oklahoma and Indian Territory begging for admission and no one objected to that. But it seemed that the junior Senator from Indiana for some reason was determined that justice should not be done to those Territories unless New Mexico and Arizona should be forced in as one State at the same time. And so Oklahoma must stay out.

In the loss of Thomas R. Bard from the Senate, California loses one of its great men. No man, for the length of service, has achieved greater success than he. No man on the floor of the Senate stands higher or has a better record for ability and fairness than Senator Bard. He is not a noisy man, but he is a great manager. He goes about his work in a quiet way and generally accomplishes what he strives for. If the Senators in the other Pacific Coast States had done their duty (as it looks to us) the necessity for such a struggle on the part of Arizona's friends would not have been required. as it was, we were saved by just one vote. The Apology Was Lost.

The professor of philosophy, absentminded and full of enthusiasm, came into the sitting-room.

"What a beautiful woman Mrs. Raymond is!" he exclaimed. "I have just had a pleasant talk with her in the bookstore."

His wife looked up from her sewing. "John!" she exclaimed, "where is your collar?"

The professor of philosophy put his hand to his throat. "I must have left it at the barber shop. Yes, that's it. I went to the barber shop, then to the bookstore. "Why," he ended lamely, "Mrs. Raymond would think it very careless of me to appear in public without my collar, wouldn't she?"

"Rather," said his wife. "Perhaps you'd better call her up and tell her how it happened."

"Exactly," said the professor.

The professor went to the telephone. "Hello, Central, hello. Hello—is this Mrs. Raymond? es? Well, really, it was very stupid of me, Mrs. Raymond, but, you know, I had been thinking of something very important, and I quite forgot my collar. I—oh—ah—good-by."

The professor suddenly hung up the receiver. He gave utterance to a mild exclamation.

"John!" exclaimed his wife.

"She says she hasn't been out of the house today," groaned the professor. —[Harper's Weekly.

Animals That Weep.

There are many scientists and men who are accustomed to deal with animals who give authentic instances of having seen animals shed tears as a result of strong emotion. Humboldt tells us that he had a monkey which wept when it was seized with fear. Rengger says that he has often seen the eyes of a small South American monkey fill with tears when he was deprived of some coveted object or made very much afraid of something. Darwin cites the case of a monkey from Borneo in a zoological garden which was frequently moved to tears when grieved or pitied.

Elephants have also been known to show their grief in this way. During an elephant hunt in Ceylon one of the elephants when bound showed no feeling, except grief, and remained perfectly motionless while the tears streamed from its eyes. Female elephants are often affected in the same way when their young are taken from them.—[Kansas City Journal.

The Usual Solution

"Why do you have so many rattlesnakes in your village?" asked the visiting owl.

"Well," replied the prairie dog, "we can't suppress the rattlesnake evil, of course, but we regulate it."

"How do you regulate it?"

"Why, we let them settle down among us wherever they choose, and then we—we ostracize them socially and keep out of their way."—[Chicago Tribune.

Side Talks by the Office Boy

A kid friend of mine came in the other day and wanted me to ask the boss if he'd make and trim a suit for him if he'd furnish his own cloth. I spoke to the old man about it and he told me to bring the boy in the office so he could talk to him. He asked him about the cloth and the boy said they hadn't bought it yet, but that there was a young man out here selling cloth whose father was a big manufacturer back East, that this young man was trying to sell his mother three suit lengths at $10 each, claiming they were worth $25. The old man warmed up at once and said, "Tell your mother for me not to buy them. There are a lot of men and women working that scheme all the time and it is a shame. Quite a few pieces of cloth have been brought to us to make up, and it is really not worth the making. These people buy that cloth for 50c, $1 and $1.50 per yard at the outside. A suit length is 3½ yards, say, they give $1.50 a yard for it and sell the pattern for $15. They have a profit of $3.15½. If your mother wants to buy suit patterns, we will sell her some high-class goods at from $8 to $8 per suit length and guarantee the goods."

Our Fellow Worms.

Before Longfellow bought the house in Cambridge so associated with his memory it was owned and occupied by old Mrs. Craigie.

Mrs. Craigie was a woman of many eccentricities, Moncure D. Conway says, in his recent book of "Reminiscences."

Someone once tried to persuade her to have her trees tarred to protect them from caterpillars, which also invaded her neighbor's trees.

She refused to be so cruel to the caterpillars.

"They are our fellow-worms," she said.—[Youth's Companion.

"Weel, John, how are you today?" asked a Scottish minister, on meeting one of his parishioners.

"Gey weel, sir; gey weel," replied John cautiously; "gin it wasna for the rheumatism in the richt leg."

"Ah, John, be thankful, for there is no mistake, you are getting old, like the rest of us, and old age doesn't come alone."

"Auld age, sir," returned John, "I wonder to hear ye. Auld age has naething tae dae wi't. Here's my ither leg just as auld; an' it's sound and scoopie yet."—[Buffalo Commercial.

Bishop Brooks's Refusal.

The late Phillips Brooks, being a bachelor, was greatly annoyed by receiving offers of marriage from women all over the country. One woman told him that she had a fortune at his disposal if he would accept her hand and heart. He replied: "Give your money to the poor, your heart to God, and your hand to the man who asks for it."—[Boston Herald.

HEREDITY

Can Be Overcome in Cases.

The influence of heredity cannot, of course, be successfully disputed, but it can be minimized or entirely overcome in some cases by correct food and drink. A Connecticut lady says:

"For years while I was a coffee drinker I suffered from bilious attacks of great severity, from which I used to emerge as white as a ghost and very weak. Our family physician gave me various prescriptions for improving the digestion and stimulating the liver, which I tried faithfully but without perceptible result. He was acquainted with my family history for several generations back, and once when I visited him he said: 'If you have inherited one of those torpid livers you may always suffer more or less from its inaction. We can't dodge our inheritance, you know.'

"I was not so strong a believer in heredity as he was, however, and, beginning to think for myself, I concluded to stop drinking coffee and see what effect that would have. I feared it would be a severe trial to give it up, but when I took Postum and had it well made, it completely filled my need for a hot beverage and I grew very fond of it.

"I have used the Postum Coffee for three years, using no medicine, and the change has completely cured me. During all that time I have had absolutely none of the bilious attacks that I used to suffer from, and I have been entirely free from the pain and debilitating effects that used to result from them. The change is surely very great, and I am compelled to give Postum Coffee the exclusive credit for it." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

CHILDREN OF LIGHT GET WISE.

Convertible Church for a Smart Quarter.

Fine Athletic Field for the Young Women.

Local Church Federation to Give a Banquet.

The Independent Church of Christ within the next month will commence work on a new church on South Figueroa street, that will be in a class by itself.

Upon the return of Dr. J. S. Thomson from Europe a year ago, it was announced that in the near future they would erect a church of their own. It was supposed at that time that it would be a structure of considerable pretentions, but it has developed into a novel combination plan.

Recently the congregation, which is an independent one in every particular, purchased a lot on the east side of Figueroa street, about midway between Eighteenth and Washington. Upon this lot they will erect a one-story building of Venetian architecture with an ornate front on Figueroa street, and running back to a depth of 155 feet. The main entrance will be reached by a low flight of stairs directly from the street, the headway thus gained making room for a basement which will be partly below the surface of the ground. The auditorium will seat 600 people and will be admirably arranged and lighted. It will have eight immense arched windows on its two sides and will also be lighted by domes in the roof, so that the whole upper part of the structure will be practically all of art glass.

The social rooms will be on each side of the main entrance in front of the auditorium, and to the rear will be the pastor's study and other apartments.

With that wisdom not ascribed to the children of light in holy writ, the Independent Church has so planned this building that with the least possible expense it may be transformed into an apartment-house. The plans are all made and the trusses supporting the roof are so arranged as not to interfere with this plan, but rather to favor it, should such a course become necessary, either by abandonment of the work or by the demand for a larger church, when a new location will be sought.

GIFT TO YOUNG WOMEN.

FINE ATHLETIC FIELD.

The Young Women's Christian Association put another feather in its cap yesterday, when, through the generosity of Burbank & Baker, it accepted a gift of an acre of land at Huntington Park.

One of the delights of the gift is that it has no strings to it, but is to be used by the association in any way it sees proper for the good of the membership. At present it will be improved with tennis and basket-ball courts and will be the shrine of daily pilgrimages of the athletic girls of the association during the summer.

The ground is located on the west side of Pacific boulevard, but a couple of blocks from the ten acres of woodland which the Methodists have been offered for a Chautauqua, and which they no doubt will accept. The same item that makes the location a favored one for the Chautauqua makes it most desirable for the young ladies, and that is the fact that the cars of the Whittier electric line carry them right to the ground for a 5-cent fare.

Gov. Pardee on Thursday signed the act of the Legislature, which is now a law, authorizing the State to assist in opening Pacific boulevard, 120 feet wide, through from this city to Long Beach. It is now opened through Huntington Park and will be carried to Long Beach, a distance of sixteen miles. Coming north it will be curved westward to connect with Santa Fé avenue at the city limits, and by that thoroughfare and East Seventh street will reach the center of the city, a distance of six miles from Huntington Park. The boulevard will be carefully graded and oiled, and when completed will be one of the finest drives in Southern California.

The Young Women's Christian Association is to be congratulated upon receiving a gift that is destined to become so valuable, and at the same time furnish them what they have long desired—a large and delightfully-located athletic field.

A NEW FORCE.

CHURCH FEDERATION.

Out of the recent evangelical campaign in this city has sprung a new force. Brought shoulder to shoulder in this work the pastors and laymen of the 100 churches found a new and pleasant fellowship, and it is out of this new awakening that grew the permanent Church Federation of Los Angeles.

The officers and committees that existed in the Committee of Twenty-five are retained and the committee increased to fifty—half laymen and half ministers. This is the legislative and executive body to which the pastors will be elected by the Ministerial Union and the laymen by a laymen's committee, made up of the city committees, chairmen of the district committees, the greater finance committee, chief ushers and assistant chief ushers of the seven districts, thus assuring representation from every church. Every church member is declared a member of the federation.

A fellowship banquet will be given in the assembly room of the Young Women's Christian Association on Thursday evening next, which will be the first gathering of the laymen's committee. Eleven members of the Committee of Fifty will be elected and other important business outlined and discussed. No call for money will be made at this banquet, but a printed report will be furnished every guest showing the splendid financial success of the evangelistic campaign.

There will be speeches by well-known laymen. Rev. William Horace Day, chairman of the committee, will respond to the toast, "Our Church Federation." Each guest is requested to bring a lady.

WILL GO TO KERN.

DECLINES UNANIMOUS CALL.

Here is another preacher who doesn't want an easy job where churches are plenty and where living is a joy.

Rev. Adam Murrman has just declined a unanimous call to be the pastor of Trinity Congregational Church at Thirty-sixth and San Julian streets, which he has served for some months as a supply in order that he may go to a place where baseball and horse races are now the only Sunday entertainment.

Oil Center, in Kern county, has no church except the little one some time ago established there by the Congregationalists, and it has never had a regular preacher, but was supplied by the preacher at Bakersfield occasionally. Mr. Murrman has decided to take up that work, under the wing of the First Congregational Church of this city, which thrifty organization will see to it that he doesn't run out of grub-stake funds.

Oil Center is really the whole of the Kern oil field, with its center about six miles from Bakersfield. Several thousand people are scattered over the field living among the oil wells, and a postoffice named "Oil Center" has been established for their accommodation, but as for a town, there is none.

Mr. Murrman is said to be made of the stuff that goes to stay and gets what it goes after.

EDITOR-PREACHER.

SINGING EVANGELIST.

P. P. Bilhorn of Chicago, who is well known the world over as a composer of gospel music, and as a singing evangelist, will be at the Union Rescue Mission, No. 145 North Main street, on Sunday evening, accompanied by his wife, and a great feast of music is being prepared for by the mission.

E. A. K. Hackett, editor of the Fort Wayne (Ind.) Sentinel, will speak both Sunday morning and evening at the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, Tenth street and Union avenue. A. L. Miller, harpist and soloist, will contribute to the pleasure of the meeting. The same programme will be continued each evening next week.

FROM FOREIGN FIELDS.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURES.

Three special missionary services will be held in Central Methodist Church, Fifteenth and Main streets, on Thursday and Friday evenings and Friday afternoon of next week. The speakers will be Mrs. J. Woodbury, who has been a missionary in China for ten years under the Christian and Missionary Alliance, and Rev. Gerard A. Bailey, superintendent of the Alliance missions in Porto Rico and Venezeula.

The two evening lectures of Mrs. Woodbury will be elaborately illustrated with stereopticon views of the Boxer uprising in China, and up-to-date pictures of Japan and the present war. Mr. Bailey, who will speak on Friday afternoon, is a brother-in-law of Horace Houlding, who went from this city to China as a missionary some months ago, at the head of the Chi-li band.

RELIGIOUS BRIEFS.

WOMAN WILL TALK TO MEN.

Mrs. Mary Teats, national purity evangelist of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, will address the men's meeting at the Young Men's Christian Association, on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Her subject will be: "The Science of Life and Its Relation to Christian and Social Ethics." Mrs. Teats is a good speaker, and there will be special music by the Y.M.C.A. quartette.

The Los Angeles Fellowship has secured the Belasco Theater for its Sunday-morning services, beginning one week from tomorrow. The evening services will continue to be held in Simpson Auditorium, and meantime talk of erecting a building for themselves continues among the members of the organization.

"Was Jesus a Unitarian?" will be the subject of Rev. George W. Tuller of Pomona, who will preach in Unity Church on Sunday morning.

FIREBUGS STILL AT LARGE.

Police Think They Know Who Set the Sunnyside House on Fire but Proof is Lacking.

Although the detectives practically know who set fire to the Sunnyside rooming-house, No. 219 North Broadway, Thursday morning, causing a blaze which endangered the lives of a score or more of persons, there is little probability that any arrest will be made. The officers are thoroughly convinced as to the guilt of the person they suspect, but they admit that their evidence is not sufficient to secure a conviction. Until a stronger case is made out the District Attorney will not issue a complaint in the case.

A more glaring case of incendiarism was never presented to the detective department for investigation, but they can positively prove nothing. They have not abandoned work on the case, however.

Representatives of the Board of Underwriters are conducting an investigation on their own account, and such have been their discoveries that before the $1500 insurance is paid the matter may be carried to the courts.

The theory that the fire was started by two men who were reported to have been admitted to the house very late on the night before the fire, was never seriously considered. When the fire was discovered, the room which one of the men is alleged to have occupied, was forced open and no bedding was seen on the bed, nor was there any in the room. It would hardly have been possible for a late comer to break large holes through the laths and plastering without arousing some of the other inmates of the house. It is believed the holes in the walls were made during the day, preceding the night of the fire. In one of them a woman's garment, oil soaked, was found, and the officers are trying to identify it.

About eighteen months ago a mysterious fire occurred at the same house, investigation of which showed that it was of incendiary origin.

FERNANDO WINS.

Gets One Hundred Points in Debate Held at Whittier Last Night—Near Championship.

In the last of the regular debates of the season, held under the Southern California Debating League, the San Fernando Union High School tonight won 100 points from the Whittier High School. The question was, "Resolved, that the law restricting Chinese immigration should be extended to all Europeans."

The affirmative was upheld by Messrs. Williams and Carden of the Whittier High School and the negative by Miss Estelle Porter and Mr. Edwin Ingham of the San Fernando Union High School.

The judges, who were Prof. Mather of Occidental, Prof. Austin of Woodbury Business College, and George Adams, of Los Angeles, decided in favor of Fernando, giving Miss Porter first place and Mr. Ingham second place.

This ties Fernando with Compton for second place in the series for the championship debate.

CHILDREN'S DAY.

Tots and Toddlers See the Wonders of Ring and Menagerie at the Circus.

Yesterday was children's day at the Norris & Rowe circus. More than two hundred were guests of the management from the Los Angeles Orphans' Asylum, and under the guidance of their teachers and the attendants of the circus they saw the various wonders of ring and menagerie.

The last two exhibitions will be given today. Special novelties have been announced for the farewell entertainment, both in a musical and acrobatic way. Special band numbers will alternate with new tricks by the bareback riders. At the conclusion of tonight's performance the Norris & Rowe aggregation will leave for Bakersfield, where two exhibitions will be given on Monday.

FRANCE MOURNS JULES VERNE.

DISTINGUISHED ROMANCER DIES IN HIS DEAR AMIENS.

Novelist Retained Consciousness Until Shortly Before Death and Discussed With Members of His Family His Departure—Telegrams from Many Distinguished Persons.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

AMIENS (France) March 24.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Jules Verne died at 3:10 p.m. His family was at his bedside.

M. Verne had been subjected to chronic diabetes, but the disease did not assume a critical aspect until March 10. He gradually failed, and the end was hastened by a stroke of paralysis covering his right side until the tongue was affected.

JULES VERNE.

The novelist retained consciousness until shortly before his death. He calmly foresaw death, called the members of his family to his bedside and discussed his departure.

Following the announcement of M. Verne's death, telegrams were received from many eminent persons.

It is expected that the burial will be at Amiens, where M. Verne lived for a long time and where his most notable romances were written. The municipality of Amiens, of which the deceased was a counsellor, will participate in the funeral services.

Sketch of His Life.

Jules Verne was born 77 years ago in the half-maritime city of Nantes, 240 miles west of Paris. His father was an attorney, and he gave his son an education and started him in the legal profession, but the boy's mind did not take a trend in that direction. He went up to Paris and lost a small fortune in the Bourse. Chance started him on dramatic work, but while he earned an indifferent livelihood in that line, he acquired no fame.

One day in the early sixties he saw a balloon ascension and conceived the idea of describing an imaginary balloon voyage. Starting at Zanzibar, his party made an adventurous trip across the African continent, and the story, abounding in picturesque descriptions, made Jules Verne famous. Other romances in the same vein rapidly followed, each containing a mixture of adventure and science in enticing garb.

Some of his stories were masterly previsions of subsequent triumphs in invention and the mechanic arts. "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea—" has it not been partially realized in Holland's submarine boats? "Round the World in Eighty Days"—we do even better than that now. And "The City of Steel"—have not the Cramps and Andrew Carnegie been building them?

Verne continued to follow his bent till he had produced ninety-nine volumes, attesting at once his fertility of mind and his untiring industry. Yet his income was not large. It never exceeded $5000 a year. But his tastes were simple, and he was content to work for the very love of producing. His principal recreation was yachting, of which he was very fond. In these excursions he visited the shores of France and North Africa, but visited very few of the scenes he had depicted in other lands. It is true he made one voyage to America in the Great Eastern, and the trip suggested his story of "A Floating City," with a delightful mingling of romance and reality.

Though he ardently longed to become a member of the French Academy, his wish was never gratified. The younger Dumas said that that honor was withheld from the most eminent Frenchmen from motives of jealousy. The most active years of Verne's literary career were passed in a truly patriarchical home in the historical city of Amiens, about forty miles north of Paris, where, surrounded by a retinue of children and grandchildren, he entered with zest into the enjoyments of their young lives.

Jules Verne lived long enough to reap the pecuniary benefit of his literary successes, and to enjoy his world-wide fame. His books are to be found in every public library in the civilized world, and what is more, they do not lie idle upon the shelves, but are in constant demand. They are unique and no one else has successfully imitated them.

MAY BUILD SMELTER.

W. R. Nicholson and J. R. Beatty of Philadelphia, who are interested in mining on Cedros Island, off the coast of Lower California, were in the city yesterday, returning from an inspection of the properties. It is reported that they contemplate putting in a smelter.

NEW YORK SCHOOL OF MUSIC.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Plans are rapidly maturing for the establishment here of a school of music, endowed by James Loeb, the banker, in memory of his mother. The fund to be furnished will be $500,000, on which the donor guarantees an income of 5 per cent. Another gift has been announced of $4000 annually for ten years, and the trustees have decided to invite further subscriptions to a guarantee fund of $25,000 for three years, to be called in case of a deficit. A complete library of music and musical literature has been donated, and Frank Damrosch, the conductor and teacher, will act as director of the school. Members of the Kneisel Quartette will remove to this city from Boston, and all the members will take charge of departments. Negotiations are now pending with distinguished musicians and teachers for the branches of harmony and composition, singing and piano playing. The school will be opened next October.

WOMEN'S CLUBS.

Barry at Friday Morning.

"Nothing is very remarkable when you come close to it." This was Richard Barry's comment upon some of the great things that he told of in his plain terse story of surpassing achievement, "The Seige of Port Arthur," yesterday, at the Friday Morning Club.

The audience was one of the largest that the club has ever seen. Men came in numbers to hear this striking boyish war correspondent. Many press men were there, and they never wavered in their attention for one moment of the hour and forty-five minutes required to skim the great events witnessed by Mr. Barry.

Stereoptican views were shown that carried one through every step taken from Dalny to Port Arthur by the little brown men who have astonished the world. The explanatory talk was clear and plain, therefore forceful.

Mr. Barry was introduced by Mrs. Roy Jones. He said in beginning, "We are going to Manchuria to see how the Japanese soldiers took Port Arthur." He caused his hearers to stop awhile in Japan to see the two classes of men who are doing these marvelous things, the men who fight, and the men who pay the bills.

"In these days" said he, "to win great battles science is not enough, numbers are not enough, bravery is not enough, money is the essential thing, and in the Japanese empire there are only 180 men with an income over $5000 a year." Mr. Barry told of meeting a son-in-law of Admiral Ito. He had paid his part of the war bonds. He was living and looking like a tramp because he was saving an additional 5000 yen out of his personal expenses for the year to give to the war fund. "That is how Japan is standing the strain," said the speaker.

Mr. Barry then took up the other man, the man in Manchuria fighting the battles.

From Dalny, the starting point, the Japanese soldier was followed by Mr. Barry, all through the heroic and titanic struggle until the fall of Port Arthur.

Of Dalny, he said, that every one upon beholding it, exclaimed "The Russians came to stay; for the buildings are made with walls four feet thick, and everything is on a permanent plan." The Japanese possessed it when Mr. Barry arrived with a detachment of the army. At the street corners were the water stands, and the soldiers were allowed to drink only boiled water, "hence only 2 per cent mortality for this war, compared with 40 per cent. mortality for the Spanish American war," said Mr. Barry.

This business-like manner of caring for life, whenever possible, and the abandon with which it was sacrificed when the need arose stood out in the speaker's narrative as a striking characteristic.

An officer instructing his troops before going into battle was shown on the screen. "He does not tell them to be calm, and not to run away" said Mr. Barry, he is telling them how to do things, to guard arms and ammunition from moisture, how to bind up a fractured limb with the materials which each one carries in his pocket, how to scupper an adversary in a hand to hand conflict, how to escape beri-beri, and many more practical suggestions."

Much of mature philosophy was evinced by Mr. Barry in the course of the lecture. The Chinese were shown, in the villages in the very heart of the war, plowing in October in the fire zone, and with an old-world supreme indifference to the fortunes and pains of the hell about them. "Fifty kopeks a day, for gathering the bodies of dead Russians together," said the lecturer, "and fifty sen afterward for gathering the dead Japanese, with little concern apparently as to which nation should be the one to wrest them away from him."

"Nogi," was the brief explanation of the grizzled warrior portrait, and a wave of applause swept over the crowded auditorium.

"He has lost two sons, since the beginning of the war" said the speaker. "Shoten was killed on Nanshan hill. On the day that Nogi left Tokio, the corpse arrived, and the father said to his wife, 'delay funeral services until Hoten and I are brought back to lie with Shoten.'"

Mr. Barry had tiffin with Nogi in his garden. The best dressed man of the company wore a white collar, the last rag of civilization left, which he had ironed around the outside of a skillet. The speaker told the club and its guests that he could have worn a white shirt, but his cook had by an exercise of creative ability converted it into a tablecloth.

Oshima was shown on the screen. Oshima who lived for six months with his command in the ravine over which twenty tons of bursting steel passed. From the men, the speaker passed to the instruments and ordnance of war. Mr. Barry explained the hyperscope, and the part it played in the pointing of guns toward an invisible enemy, over mountain peaks and valleys many miles away. The use that was made of it and of the great naval guns in destroying the fleet was one of the most impressive and spectacular points in the lecture.

The placing of the guns high up on the bleak hills, with their barrels weighing eight tons apiece, was done, the speaker explained, by men, at night, in the rain, within the range of the enemy's guns, and without the aid of engines, beasts of burden, or anything else but the united strength of nine hundred men tugging on a cable for three months.

Unlike anything ever known before was the final advance of the Japanese troops, as pictured and narrated by Mr. Barry. Ordnance and men could not avail and sapping was resorted to. He told of the night work. Of the digging of depressions, large enough for one man, for two men, and finally large enough for a regiment, then another night, and another depression, a parallel line in advance of the former. Finally the tunnelling of the mountain sides, the placing of gun cotton, of dynamite, and the blowing up of four great forts at one time, and the fall of Port Arthur.

With the wounded back to Dalny, and Mr. Barry said "Sayor nara," to the Japanese soldier and the Friday Morning Club.

Many Japs were in the audience, and they never ceased to smile. The visiting Chinese potentate was also present.

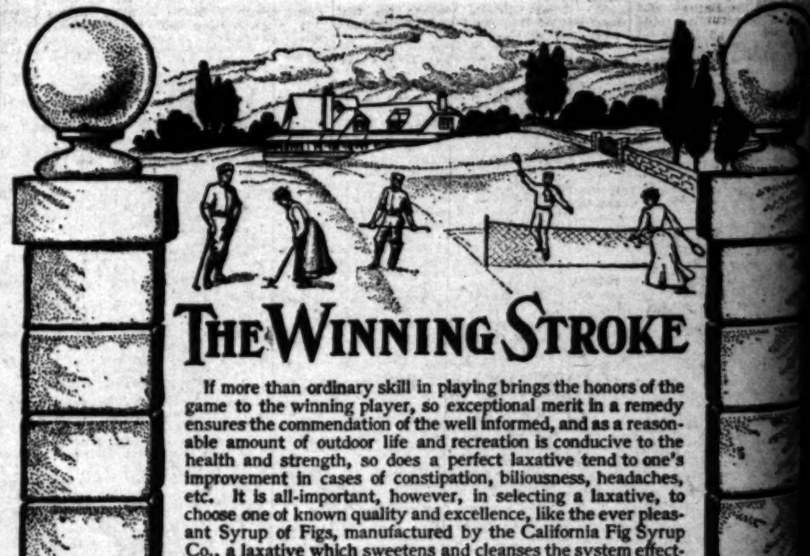
Coronado Beach

The Queen of all the California resorts is now at the top of the season.

People who are anybody anywhere are there.

The presence of the Pacific Squadron, of the U. S. Navy, adds to the social brilliancy of the season, and then it has every form of outdoor sport or recreation.

Mr. T. Morgan Ross, the new manager, has made a great success with all the guests of Coronado.



THE WINNING STROKE

If more than ordinary skill in playing brings the honors of the game to the winning player, so exceptional merit in a remedy ensures the commendation of the well informed, and as a reasonable amount of outdoor life and recreation is conducive to the health and strength, so does a perfect laxative tend to one's improvement in cases of constipation, biliousness, headaches, etc. It is all-important, however, in selecting a laxative, to choose one of known quality and excellence, like the ever pleasant Syrup of Figs, manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., a laxative which sweetens and cleanses the system effectually, when a laxative is needed, without any unpleasant after effects, as it acts naturally and gently on the internal organs, simply assisting nature when nature needs assistance, without griping, irritating, or debilitating the internal organs in any way, as it contains nothing of an objectionable or injurious nature. As the plants which are combined with the figs in the manufacture of Syrup of Figs are known to physicians to act most beneficially upon the system, the remedy has met with their general approval as a family laxative, a fact well worth considering in making purchases.

It is because of the fact that SYRUP OF FIGS is a remedy of known quality and excellence, and approved by physicians that has led to its use by so many millions of well informed people, who would not use any remedy of uncertain quality or inferior reputation. Every family should have a bottle of the genuine on hand at all times, to use when a laxative remedy is required. Please to remember that the genuine Syrup of Figs is for sale in bottles of one size only, by all reputable druggists and that full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co., is plainly printed on the front of every package. Regular price, 50c per bottle.

THE LESSON.

I.

(I.) Christ's preëxistence.

We learn this in lesson 1 on "Christ the Life and Light of Men." John i: 1. Here we learn that Christ existed from eternity and was God; that He came was the word or revealer. In another place John tells us that He was also called Son of God, because of the relation existing between Him and the Father from the beginning, that as His function from the beginning was to reveal God, His words and His feelings, he revealed His thought about creation by creating all things, every single thing that has been created at all. He did this afterward, when He came into the world on the mission of recreation, was called Jesus by personal name, and Christ or Messiah, which is translated, or set apart, for He was sent court to this work.

In Him was the life that was in him and back there is the life that broke forth in luminous manifestations in men and yet that light has been darkened by sin. Now it comes again in the person of Him who was its originator. He has His herald tell of Him. Yet all the light John the Baptist has is derived from him.

Still further, the eternal word or revealer is here to reveal still more to men and bestow gifts upon them. He came in the flesh, shows His glory, full of His grace and rises superior to Moses and all earthly teachers, by bringing grace and truth.

(2.) His sacrificial purpose.

The witness of John the Baptist" when that, i, 19-34.

No one knew that He was to be the Messiah and so did Joseph, but John was the next to divine His mission. The person of Jesus attracted him, and within the voice of God directed John saw a difference between Jesus and himself. He felt conscious of his own rightness in preaching, but knew that Jesus was above him. He believed that the kingdom of God was at hand; that repentance was necessary in order to be in that kingdom; that baptism was required as a pledge of repentance. When Jesus came, John saw in His outshining spirit that there was nothing to repent of and that baptism would imply something wrong. Hence Jesus told him that he, as man, must obey every righteous command. So the committee sent down a little later from Jerusalem, John said he was not worthy to be the most menial servant to Jesus, and the next day he pointed Him out to them and to Him the Lamb of God, who, by His purity and sacrifice of Himself, would take away the world's sins. So John gives a complete testimony to Jesus as the incomparable, preëminent, unique son of God, source of all power of salvation.

(3.) His first conquest.

Then he "wins his first disciples" and he has begun that conquest which is to end in His gathering a host whom no man can number. We can imagine something of His joy. He had listened to John the Baptist, His friend and forerunner, for whom He had not only aroused an interest but had won some choice souls, turning away from sin and with contrite hearts toward the Lamb. He pointed out Jesus to them and they made deliberate and earnest choice of Him as the Son of God. That gave Jesus the power to discern several points of great importance—the power of faith in man and hold, so that we can hesitate to point men to Him; the way in which those two followed of him, so as to become brave, and its lesson to us as Christian life should be entered prayerfully and that it will bear the critical inquiry; the method which Jesus is to gain the rulership of mankind. It is through the association of disciples; it is through individual work with individuals. As the work spreads. The first two believe and one more—presumably the one who wrote this gospel—the evangelist. Then three more, Peter and Nathaniel, and probably the brother of John.

(4.) "In Cana" (ii, 1-11,) and the first miracle.

Here winning his disciples were confirmed. These disciples were not had been filled with the Spirit, but had a special equipment of power for as he entered his public life at his baptism. The use of this power is of great interest. The devil had tried to tempt Him to make wrong use of that power which he had yielded. Now we watch Him to see what He will do. He does not relieve embarrassment in worldly ways well. It was done, to be sure, but it was done, to show how he loved pleasure of a wedding occasion and looked with tender concern on the home making. It was transforming the common into the uncommon, and that is the way He was doing. It was done, not with sinners, but only with those who had bestowed the power. It was not wholly for its own sake, but might be "a sign" of better things he could do for their spirits as well as for bodies. It served His purpose, and increased the faith of His disciples.

(5.) His first visit to Jerusalem, with Nicodemus (iii. 1-15.)

Here is that the wise cultured world not dreamed of, though should have known them at that visit. Jesus scourged the men were using the temple for base facts, not as occasions for fellowship and holy worship, but as a means of personal gain, in spite of brotherhood and love. At that visit, He taught him who sought Jesus out, that salvation was spiritual, a change of the affections of men; that one must have a birth from above, by the Spirit in order to enter that kingdom; that this will cleanse out sin and bring in the new. All these Jesus calls earthly truths, as known on earth though from heaven. Now Jesus knows things known heretofore which He calls heavenly truths. He is the divine Son of God. He is now incarnated and has come up to their view, like Moses in the pole, about which they knew so well.

(6.) The great claim of Messiahship.

At the well of Jacob's Well" (iv: 5-14.) Here, on account of such a claim so early since His baptism, and into a world had been rather quiet for Him. Now He goes up into Judea, striking things come out. Then through Samaria, where He had gone around, and talked to the woman, and revealed Himself as the Christ. He did so, after awakening in her a thirst for the water of life, and when that thirst by believing that which she already knew, starting with what she already knew.

(7.) His "Second Miracle in Cana."

We have this in iv: 43-54, and it was a very different occasion from that on which He turned the water into wine. He was just in the beginning of His growing popularity in Galilee, and this nobleman came twenty-five miles from Capernaum to get Him to heal his son. Note some of the facts in this case. He did this for a Gentile and not a Jew; cured this boy at a distance instead of in His presence; first trained the faith of the father from credulity about a mere miracle monger to faith in His divine might. It was a greater manifestation of His glory than the first miracle.

(8.) His care for the sinfully sick.

"At the pool of Bethesda," in Jerusalem, is the instance (v: 1-15.) There were some distressing features about this case—his helplessness, so that he could not get the benefit of this intermittent flow of the mineral spring; his long experience of it—thirty-eight years; his credulous superstition, for he shared the superstition that an angel stirred the water, and some copyists even inserted that explanation into the scriptures; his sins which had brought on the disease, as we learn from the words of Jesus later; the blind prejudice of the Jewish rulers that complained of his carrying his couch on the Sabbath day.

(9.) His loss of popularity.

When He fed the five thousand with the "loaves and fishes" His popularity was at its height and soon subsided (vi: 1-14.) They broke in on His rest, and He came forth to heal and teach and finally to feed them. That tested them, for in their excitement they wanted Him to be a king, but not in the realm of their spirits. He was not the man they wanted, and it did not take them very long after that to tell Him so, especially when He held the mirror to their view the next day and showed them that they only wanted Him to feed them.

(10.) Proclamation of Himself at Jerusalem.

It was "at the Feast of the Tabernacle" (vii: 37-46,) and seems to have been the most public claim of power He had made. It was in October, A.D. 29, and they had plotted His death. He claimed to be the water to supply their wants and flow forth in blessing others. The people were impressed, and the policemen sent to arrest Him were unnerved. But the opposers grew more furious.

(11.) His power to set free.

"The slavery of sin" (viii: 31-40) is universal. No one is free because he is politically or civilly a freeman. Everyone is a slave to sin who yields to sin. No one is free till he has truth "in the inward parts" and loves righteousness more than unrighteousness. Christ sets us free by imparting that truth, and He does that by imparting Himself to us.

(12.) The light of men.

In opening the eyes of "the man born blind" (ix: 1-11 He makes good John's claim that He was "the light of men." The power that fashioned the eye and adapted it to the light, now opens the eye and pours in the soft delightful sunbeams.

LESSONS FROM THE LESSONS.

(1.) That the interest God has in us is unspeakably great.

(2.) That, since Christ has arranged, by infinite sacrifice, to save us, it is moral insanity to seek salvation any other way.

(3.) That Christ's method for the conquest of the world is by individual work for individuals.

(4.) That Christ comes into our lives at every point, and comes with blessings.

(5.) That God's love which sends Jesus is to be met by our faith which sees and believes Him.

(6.) That the greater the degradation, the greater must be our desire and effort to help.

(7.) That Christ's sympathy is not limited by blood or distance.

(8.) That righteousness and purity are the essential things.

(9.) That Jesus has something better for us than merely material blessings.

(10.) That He answers every want and overcomes all scruples against Him.

(11.) That bondage to Christ is freedom, for it is liberty to do right.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

A CHRISTIAN'S OUTLOOK.

Terse Comments Upon the Uniform Prayer-meeting Topic of the Young People's Societies, Christian Endeavor, Baptist Young People's Union, etc., for April 2: "The Making of a Christian; His Food."—II Tim. iii, 14-17; John vi, 47-58. The Epworth League Topic Is "The Missionary Call."—(Matt. xxviii, 19; Acts i, 8; I Cor. xvi, 9.

By William T. Ellis.

In three directions a Christian life must grow, to attain symmetry—upward, downward and outward. Grasp of God, depth of conviction and width of vision are essential to completeness of character. Without all three a person is likely to become a lop-sided saint; for spirituality may lack steadiness, and both spirituality and steadiness may lack sympathy.

For the moment we are concerned with the third side of development—relation to the world about us. This is the avenue through which the other two virtues must express themselves. If a Christian towers spiritually, and has depth of character, he is bound to take large views and be concerned for great causes and many people. His very height and depth constrain him to large fellowships. A narrow life is not likely to be as deep as a mine or as high as a church steeple. Smallness is generally a well-proportioned failing.

The spirit that is right with its true center is right also with its other parts. Fellowship with Christ makes obligatory fellowship with all others who are in fellowship with him. As John Watson points out in his exquisite book, "The Upper Room," no one could have Jesus for a guest without having His twelve disciples also.

Small saints are big sinners.

The spirit of this age has become so leavened by the broadening spirit of the gospel that it is impatient of provincialism, intolerance and all narrowness. We have the good fortune to live in a liberal and cosmopolitan era. High fences are no longer in fashion. The world has become too small to hold the petty prejudices and insularities which once kept man from fellowship with man. That "all we are brethren" is truly a sign that "One is our Master, ever Christ."

As a geologist can read the history of an era in a single bit of fossil, so a careful observer can discern the trend of the church's thought by an examination of any era of her departments of interest or service. Take the hymn books, for instance. We have dropped many of the hymns our grandfathers sang, because they are of too small caliber for us. Today many of the same selections are to be found in the hymnals of all the most widely-differing denominations. It is a poor book that cannot show hymns by Methodists, Catholics, Presbyterians, Unitarians, Episcopalians and Quakers. "Blest be the tie that binds" is common to all churches and all tongues. Christians are magnifying their fellowship, and minimizing their disagreements. There is a spirit of Christian unity abroad which is nothing less than the Spirit of God.

The genuine spirit of fellowship and tolerance is not a nerveless, characterless thing that is so "liberal" that it gives away everything worth having in the way of convictions. The easiest and most satisfactory man to keep company with is the one who knows where he is going, but is willing to modify his route, while adhering to the same direction and destination, for the sake of comradeship with you.

"In essentials unity; in non-essentials, liberty; in all things, charity."

Christian Endeavor, and the young people's movement of which it is a part, have had a great deal to do with ushering in a broader spirit of fellowship among Christians, and a practical exemplification of that spirit. The get-together idea has been strongly manifest in these young people, who, free from a past, with its prejudices and memories, were able to fraternize on a basis of simple fidelity to Jesus and desire to do His will. The educational value of this Christian Endeavor fellowship has been immeasurable. It has unquestionably widened youth's horizon, and given it broader, clearer views of the present world and of the coming kingdom. There are thousands of alert Endeavorers today who are as deeply interested in, and as familiar with, the remote regions of the earth as they are with the country that adjoins their own. It is no remarkable thing for an Endeavorer to receive a wedding announcement like that which came to me not long since, in substance, as follows: "John Smith and Mary Jones; married in St. Louis; at home, after January 1, Peking, China." The tide of missionary interest that has swept through the young people's societies has given the latter personal acquaintance with fellow-workers in the ends of the earth.

The kingdom of heaven is the only perfect democracy.

THE EPWORTH LEAGUE TOPIC.

There's a call comes ringing o'er the restless wave:
"Send the Light! Send the Light!"
There are souls who perish, there are souls to save;
"Send the Light! Send the Light!"

Every need is an invitation. The missionary call is the call of the world's spiritual blindness and heart-hunger for the Light and Bread of life. The voices that summon the church to a fulfillment of her divinely-enjoined mission are the inarticulate voices of human hearts that can never be satisfied until they have been satisfied with Christ.

The missionary call is the call of Calvary. Every motive that constrained Jesus to die for mankind constrains His disciples to bear the news of that sacrifice to those in whose behalf it was wrought. Christ "died for all, that they would live, should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto Him who died for them, and rose again."

The Master's "Follow Me" leads inevitably to the mission field.

All who are called to the discipleship of Christ are called to surrender, sacrifice and service.

Swear at Oxen Only.

When Gen. Fremont was trying to capture Stonewall Jackson in the Valley of Virginia, the latter, to prevent further pursuit, destroyed the bridge across the Shenandoah at Mount Jackson. The pontoon train was hurried forward, and while the pontoon was being put down the wagon train filed out into a large field near by. Most of the teams were composed of green mules and were a great annoyance to the drivers, who gave vent to their feelings by volleys of oaths, swearing only as army teamsters can. Just then Gen. Fremont came riding by and on hearing the swearing of the men he ordered the wagon master to instruct all the men of his command that "hereafter there will be no swearing allowed to any of the drivers except those who drive oxen."—[Chicago News.

GRAND ARMY COMMITTEES.

TWO IMPORTANT MEETINGS ARE HELD IN STANTON POST HALL.

Arrangements Outlined for a Reception to Commander-in-Chief Blackmar of the Grand Army. Committees Appointed for the Observance of Memorial Day.

Representatives of the various Grand Army posts, Ladies' Auxiliaries and Sons of Veterans held joint meetings at Stanton Post Hall, No. 139 West Fifth street, last night, to take action in regard to a reception to Gen. Blackmar, Commander-in-Chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, who will arrive here May 8, and to arrange for the proper and customary observance of Memorial Day.

The joint committee on reception to Commander-in-Chief Blackmar was presided over by Past Commander C. W. Hyatt, Dr. R. F. Clark Secretary, and various committees were appointed. The Department Commander will be requested to notify the posts and corps outside of Los Angeles, in order that they may also participate in the reception of Gen. Blackmar. Camp Commander Fred E. Munsey of W. S. Rosecrans Camp, No. 2, Sons of Veterans, U.S.A. will appoint the committee on behalf of the Sons of Veterans of this city.

Through Past Division Commander C. E. Washburn of the Sons of Veterans of California an informal invitation was extended to the posts and corps to attend a reception to Commander-in-Chief Dustin of the Sons of Veterans, U. S. A., to be held at the time of his arrival in Los Angeles at a date in April hereafter to be announced. The invitation was accepted on behalf of the Grand Army posts and auxiliaries on motion of Commander Whims of Stanton Post No. 55.

The joint meeting on arrangements for Memorial Day was presided over by Capt. F. J. Cressey of Stanton Post No. 55, as acting chairman, and he was subsequently elected permanent chairman. Charles Plaze of W. S. Rosecrans Camp No. 2, Sons of Veterans, U. S. A., was chosen as secretary. Capt. Cressey stated that he had two objects in view, one the selection of Gen. David B. Henderson, formerly Speaker of the National House of Representatives, and now a resident of Long Beach, as orator of the day, and the appointment of a committee to make a complete roll of all deceased Union and ex-Union soldiers buried in the cemeteries of the city. A motion was made that a committee of three be appointed to wait upon Gen. Henderson and ascertain if he would accept the post of orator for Memorial Day, but this was later withdrawn, and a committee composed of Comrades Sumners of Stanton Post, E. W. Clarke of Kennesaw and F. W. Stein of Bartlett-Logan was appointed, with power to choose a speaker.

A committee to secure a hall for Memorial Day was appointed, consisting of J. F. Greenough of Bartlett-Logan Post, F. W. Hurlburt of Kenesaw and Chairman Cressey; and a Committee on Music and Programme was made up of the following representatives of the bodies named: Stanton Post, D. L. Durand, chairman; Bartlett-Logan Post, Comrade Alverson; Kenesaw Post, W. H. Stein; Bartlett-Logan Corps, Mrs. Sherer; Kenesaw Corps, Mrs. Mary Weeks; Stanton Corps, Mrs. Coleman; Uncle Sam Corps, Mrs. Ida Carpenter; Union Circle, Mrs. H. A. Gibson; Columbia Circle, Mrs. Cordelia Spence; Lawton Circle, Mrs. Marsh; Sons of Veterans, Senior Vice Camp Commander Christian Haag; Union Veterans' Legion, Mrs. Anna Manning. On motion, it was decided to invite the members of the Society of the Army of the Philippines in this city to participate in the public exercises. Comrade Durand declined the chairmanship of the Music and Programme Committee, and the committee was empowered to select its own chairman.

Adjournment was taken to the fourth Friday in April.

ROLAND and Oliver are its heroes, and when has a romance offered any that equal them in honor, gallantry, and bravery!

As a worthy setting of a great and powerful story the publishers offer an example of bookmaking that has never been equalled in "regular-price" fiction.

The full-page pictures are reproduced in full color from the original paintings by the Kinneys, each page has a border in tint, and not one detail has been overlooked that would complete a consistent scheme, suitable to the period pictured in the book.

As a matter of fact no description can be adequate to the striking originality of the story, or the appearance of the book, and we can only assure you that you will find it well worth while to ask your bookseller to show it to you—before his stock is sold out.

Fell Down Stairs.

"Paddy" Stack was found in front of No. 1333 West Seventh street last night, drunk, almost unconscious and bleeding from a severe scalp wound. He had fallen the length of a stone stairway leading into one of the residences and for a time it was thought he was seriously injured. After he had been examined at the Receiving Hospital he was placed in the "drunk cell" of the City Jail. Stack made a bid for fame several years ago by engaging in a pistol duel with a posse of policemen in a South Main-street rooming-house. He shot a lamp out of Patrolman Ross Phillips's hands and later tried to kill Patrolman Rico, the bullet being stopped by a button on the officer's coat. He was finally captured but was not prosecuted, having claimed that he did not know the men who were trying to enter his room were policemen.

SANTA BARBARA.

COAL CRASHES THROUGH PIER.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.)

SANTA BARBARA, March 24.—Stearn's Wharf caved in under ten tons of coal yesterday afternoon. The four-masted Barkentine Kohala was discharging coal into a large hopper on the wharf. The hopper was full and a team had just driven out from under it with a wagon load of coal, when with a loud crash the wharf gave way under the weight and the whole mass plunged into the ocean. A hole fifteen feet square was cut through the wharf and big beams and piles were snapped off as if they had been pipe stems. Ten tons of coal went down with the broken timbers.

OUTFALL DELAYED.

Work on the outfall sewer is beset with greater difficulties than were anticipated. With the old sewer pipe buried many feet below the ground while Mission creek has been sending a torrent of water down over it, and with storms and high tides washing in from the ocean, it has proved to be far more laborious and expensive than was at first expected. It is thought that within a fortnight the outfall will have been extended into the ocean and connected with the street sewer system.

BARBARA BRIEFS.

Leonardo Cota, a young man employed by Cornelius Carter, at the Tally-ho stables had his left leg broken above the knee yesterday afternoon by a kick from a horse in the stable.

Several old anchors have been recovered from the bottom of the ocean by those who are dragging for the engines of wrecked launches.

It has been figured out by the Park Commissioners that repairs on the east boulevard, that was torn up over fifteen hundred feet during the recent storm, will cost much more than was at first contemplated. It will cost about $10,000.

WRIGHT SAYS HOT AIR HURT.

HOTEL-KEEPER SUES OCCIDENTAL CLUB DIRECTORS.

Alleges Malicious Publication of Story Last August That Club Had Bought Arcadia Hotel Hurt His Business Seriously — The Pipe Dream.

A. D. Wright, proprietor of the Hotel Arcadia, Santa Monica, has begun suit against the nine men who composed the first board of directors of the Occidental Club, charging them with maliciously injuring his business as an innkeeper, by causing to be published in a local and a Santa Monica paper, last August, articles to the effect that the club had purchased the hotel, and would occupy it. J. C. Coules, O. P. Steen, William Mackie, G. Coules, F. W. Howland, M. M. Meyers, F. Lattimer and G. H. Lightfoot are named in the complaint.

Mr. Wright, through his attorney, alleges that this publication was false and malicious, and that it has injured his business to the extent of $4000, by causing persons to stay away who otherwise would have been guests at the hotel, and would have spent their money in it.

Mr. Wright recites that his business is worth about $2000 a month.

The articles in question set forth with laborious attention to detail, the alleged plans of the club for transforming the Arcadia into a clubhouse, with grill, et cetera, also in choicely indefinite terminology, the features of a sale that was never made.

KILLS WIFE, SLAYS SELF.

Jealousy Led Charles Rogers to Desperate Deed.

Murdered Woman Descended from Louis XIV.

Tragedy Enacted in Harvard Boulevard Home.

Insanely jealous of his handsome wife, through whose veins coursed the blood of a Bourbon King of France, Charles Stevens Rogers, a patent attorney, murdered her by shooting a bullet through her head and then turned the weapon upon his own miserable self and ended his existence.

The murder and suicide occurred presumably Thursday night in the home of Rogers and his wife, No. 1807 Harvard boulevard; but not until 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon were the facts known; and then only after the door leading into the bedroom where the tragedy took place, had been broken down by Police Detectives Steele and Craig.

DISCOVERY OF BODIES.

Lying side by side, attired in their night clothes and partially covered by the bed clothing, the two bodies were found. There were no signs of a struggle and nothing in the nature of writing that could explain the motive for the terrible crime of the husband. Mrs. Rogers, lying with one arm extended above her head and the hand grasping the head of the bedstead, appeared as if she were simply sleeping. She had apparently been shot while she slumbered.

Not so with the murderer. His body, which in life appeared distorted by disease, was twisted and drawn as if the man had writhed in great agony before death claimed him. In his right hand he clutched a 32-caliber revolver containing three loaded and two empty shells. A loaded shell between the two empty ones had been snapped, indicating that after he had murdered his wife a cartridge failed to explode when Rogers turned the weapon on himself the first time; but the second attempt proved successful.

NONE HEARD SHOTS.

Though a servant, Anita Monroy, and Rogers's ten-year-old son, Henry, occupied rooms on the same floor and only a few feet distant from Mr. and Mrs. Rogers's chamber, neither heard the reports from the pistol.

Thursday afternoon Mrs. Rogers went downtown for a few hours. She returned to her home about 5 o'clock. An hour later Rogers came back from his office in the Heilman building, where he had been busily engaged throughout the day. According to the maid, Rogers and his wife passed some words in angry tones at the dinner table, but they soon relapsed into silence and left the table apparently on friendly terms.

They retired at 8:30 o'clock and shortly afterward the maid went to bed. At 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning the maid rapped on the door of the Rogers's room, but she received no response. Thinking the couple might desire to sleep late, Miss Monroy prepared breakfast for herself and the son. As the morning wore on the girl began to suspect all was not right, and at noon she made an effort to enter the room, but found the door locked—an unusual occurrence.

Some of Rogers's business acquaintances in the Heliman building were notified and Miss Ford, the attorney's stenographer, went to the residence and through the keyhole she dimly perceived a form on the bed within. Then the police were called upon and the door was broken in. While the door was locked, no key was found on the inside. The detectives think Rogers locked the door and threw the key from the window.

BOTH HAD BEEN DIVORCED.

Rogers had lived in Los Angeles about five years. He was the son of James R. Rogers, also a patent attorney, with offices in the Byrne building. Formerly father and son were in copartnership, but a disagreement arose between them and separate offices were maintained. The father had not seen the son for six months prior to his death. In February, 1903, Rogers's first wife, who resided in Catlett Station, Va., secured a divorce from him on the ground of non-support and failure to provide. The case was bitterly contested by Rogers in the Superior Court before Judge York, but the decree was granted in favor of the wife.

The murdered wife had also been divorced. She was formerly married to Judah Bloomstin, a druggist of Nashville, Tenn., but domestic infelicities, her friends say, drove her to California with her little girl, Josephine. In November, 1903, Mrs. Bloomstin secured an interlocutory decree of divorce from her husband, and a year later the final decree was secured and the woman was free to marry once more.

DIDN'T PROMISE TO OBEY.

Rogers and Mrs. Bloomstin were married in San Bernardino by Judge E. F. Oster in the Superior Court chambers November 25 last, only a few days after the final decree of divorce had been granted Mrs. Bloomstin in Los Angeles.

The court took the opportunity afforded by the occasion to deliver a brief lecture embodying his views on the marriage state. Judge Oster said that he would not ask the bride to say that she would obey her husband. This entailed a species of slavery that should never be in the home, and that where there was true love the wife should be ever ready to share her husband's burdens and seek his advice, while his behests would never be in the nature of peremptory orders. Judge Oster laid stress upon the necessity of the husband and wife cooperating with and loving each other, bearing with each other's failings without resentment, saying that the home was the very foundation of society and that without love the home must fall.

DESCENDED FROM ROYALTY.

Mrs. Rogers, whose father was a professor of ancient languages in Vanderbilt University, Nashville, Tenn., was descended from the old Bourbon Kings of France—her great-great-grandfather having been a son of Louis XIV and Mme. de Maintenon, the uncrowned Queen of France. King Louis was secretly married at midnight to Mme. de Maintenon in one of the cabinets at Versailles, but the children by this marriage were not legitimate.

She was born in Vienna and received a splendid education in this country and abroad. Reverses in her fortunes after she came to Los Angeles, several years ago, caused her to take up the work of teaching, and for three years she taught German and French in the Girls' Collegiate School (Casa de Rosas,) at Hoover and West Adams streets.

WILDLY JEALOUS.

Rogers, who was of an irascible disposition, was insanely jealous of his wife. It is said he threatened to murder her if she refused to marry him when her probationary term of divorce expired.

The bodies were sent to Pierce Bros.' morgue, where an inquest will be held this afternoon. Coroner Trout considers it a clear case of murder and suicide and he has decided that an autopsy is unnecessary.

INDIANS AWED BY CITY'S SIGHTS.

TEN RED MEN HERE AS MURDER TRIAL WITNESSES.

Some Have Their First Sight of Trolley Cars, While All Run the Gauntlet of Firewater Pitfalls—To Testify in Trial of Man Accused of Killing Saboba Policeman.

Ten scared Indians from the Saboba Reservation near San Jacinto, were herded in an East Second-street lodging house yesterday to await their calling as witnesses today in the Federal Court in the case of Pauline Resboloso, a member of their race, who is charged with the murder last week of Martine Jauro, an Indian policeman.

Most of the Indians never before had seen a trolley car or an automobile, and the rush and clatter of the city streets almost terrified them. The greatest concern of Dr. L. A. Wright, the Indian agent, who had charge of the party, was that some of the men would stray away and become mixed up with large quantities of fire water, to the detriment of their value as witnesses on the witness stand.

Once before, when an Indian came here as a witness, he could not be found when wanted in court. After a long search he was located in the City jail, where he had been imprisoned for intoxication.

Chief among the Indians is Agustin Majado, the native judge at Saboba, whose brother was shot in the scrimmage that resulted in Jauro's death.

With the Indians came Dr. Wright, Mrs. Mary Matthews, his office assistant; W. H. Stanley, the Indian school teacher at Saboba, and J. K. Munn, the agency farmer.

The crime for which Resboloso is awaiting trial occurred in the early morning of March 14. The Indians were holding a ceremony to mark the anniversary of the death of a leading man of their tribe. They had prayed all night and were still at their devotions when Resboloso appeared and created a disturbance.

Someone ran to the home of Jauro, the policeman, and asked his assistance. Martine, who had the reputation of being the best Indian on the reservation, demanded that the disturber cease his interruption of the meeting.

Without a word, it is declared that Resboloso fired a 44 caliber rifle at close range at the policeman, who fell with a bullet wound in his leg. Again Resboloso fired, the second bullet striking Avaristo Majado in the arm.

Though badly wounded, Jauro drew his revolver and fired at the fleeing assassin but missed him. Resboloso was captured later and was locked up at San Jacinto. When Jauro died two days later, the feeling against the prisoner ran so high that he was removed secretly to Riverside to prevent a lynching.

Friends of the dead policeman collected $75 with which to retain an attorney to assist in the prosecution of Resboloso, while one of the more prosperous of the Indians declared that he would contribute his entire fortune of $500 if it was needed in the cause.

BANDITS HOLD UP IN OFFICE.

Bloody and Startling Job in Frost Building.

Realty Man and Customer Given No Chance.

C. A. Thomas Cornered, E. D. Lent's Head Cut.

Two heavily-armed masked robbers entered the office of C. A. Thomas, a real estate dealer, 504 Frost building, Second and Broadway, shortly before 8 o'clock last night, compelled Thomas to stand in a corner with his face to the wall, and while they had him in that position one of the robbers almost murdered E. D. Lent, who happened to enter on business. Then they robbed both Thomas and Lent, securing nearly $150 and a revolver. They escaped, and so excited were the victims that they could not even give the police a description.

Thomas does an extensive business, and, among other things, sells houses on the installment plan, many of his customers being working people. To receive their payments it has been Thomas's custom to keep his office open evenings. Last night he was there working on his books. He was behind a low railing with his back to the door. When he heard the door open he did not immediately turn from his work. When he did, he was looking into the muzzles of two revolvers, held by masked men.

ELOQUENT REVOLVERS.

The visitors did not have to tell their business. Their revolvers eloquently disclosed their purpose. They simply commanded Thomas to get up and stand in a corner. He tried to get a good look at them. They seemingly divined his purpose, and gruffly ordered him to turn his back.

One of the robbers thrust a revolver against the back of Thomas's head, pushed him into a corner and held him with his face against the wall. The other searched the office for money and valuables. Hardly had he begun the search when Lent, who is a Southern Pacific Machinist, living at No. 1111 East Eighteenth street, entered to pay Thomas $40 on a contract.

LENT STRUCK DOWN.

The robber who was looking for money sprang toward Lent, covered him with his revolver, and ordered "hands up." Lent did not obey instantly and the desperate outlaw struck him violently on the head either with a club or with his gun. The weapon cut a gash through Lent's ear and scalp, knocking him to his knees. Lent struggled, and the bandit rained blow after blow upon him. In their struggle the two men went around the room, sprinkling the floor with blood and overturning chairs. During the fight the mask dropped off the robber's face, and Thomas turned to get a look at him, but the other man jabbed a revolver against his head and told him to keep quiet.

A well-directed blow caught Lent on the back of the head and he fell to the floor unconscious. The robber then locked the door and coolly searched Lent's pockets, taking the $40 intended for Thomas. Then at his leisure he took the contents of the cash drawer on Thomas's desk—upwards of $100 and a fine revolver.

ROBBERS BACK OUT.

Then the robbers backed out of the room, first telling Thomas to remain where he was for five minutes, threatening to shoot him if he appeared in the hallway. Thomas remained in the office perhaps a minute and then ran to give the alarm. The robbers had disappeared. They had been seen by the janitor of the building running downstairs. At the entrance to the building they dropped a cap, which was turned over to the police.

Thomas called assistance because he supposed Lent seriously injured. Lent soon revived and was taken to the Receiving Hospital, where it was necessary to take several stitches in the wound in his ear.

Thomas was wearing two large diamonds, but as the robbers turned him toward the wall they failed to see his jewelry. They did not search his pockets.

WOULDN'T HAVE A NURSE.

Sick Woman at Hotel Willoughby Routs Four Angels of Mercy in One Day.

Mrs. M. A. McKaffer, a roomer at the Willoughby, No. 506 South Hill street, is confined to her bed, but Mrs. McKaffer doesn't propose letting a little thing like that interfere with her managing her own affairs without help—as she proceeded to demonstrate yesterday.

Mrs. McKaffer was taken ill two days ago, and the services of a physician were summoned. The doctor prescribed for her, and said that she must have a nurse. The patient protested that she didn't need a nurse, and would not have any. The doctor left and in a short while a woman in the nurse's garb entered the sick room, and made herself at home.

Mrs. McKaffer protested, but the nurse remained. Then the patient got excited, and called on her thirteen-year-old son for help. When the nurse was out of the room after something for her unwilling charge, the boy locked and barricaded the door.

The nurse thought this wasn't according to the ethics of the profession, and gave up the case. But her grip was inside the barricaded room, and she couldn't get it. She departed and informed the doctor of her troubles.

Then the doctor sent down another nurse, but Mrs. McKaffer was not at home to nurses, and would not let her enter the room. Another was tried, with like result, and finally a man nurse was sent to the Willoughby, as the women began to be afraid of a patient with such strong determination.

All the satisfaction the man got was the opening of the sick woman's door and the shaving out of the first nurse's grip. Then the door closed with a bang and the lock clicked with a vim.

Last night the patient was resting well, without any nurse, and her friends declared that she would soon be well.

LECTURES ON BROWNING.

Dr. James W. Strong, president emeritus of Carlton College, Northfield, Minn., delivered a lecture to the guests of the Cresthoime Hotel on Tuesday evening, on the subject of Browning, with whom he enjoyed a personal acquaintance having traveled with him on the Mediterranean. There was mandolin and guitar music by Messrs. Hibbard, Wyatt, Finley and Wheeler, of the High School, and vocal solos by Mrs. Chares Gordon. Dr. Strong will deliver a lecture on the same subject before the ladies of the First Methodist Church on Monday afternoon at 2:30. He has spent the winter at Pasadena.

SALT LAKE'S FIRST IN RACE.

Makes Header for Glowing Goldfield Region.

To Connect With Borax Line at an Early Day.

Negotiations Completed With Company Yesterday.

The bargain was practically cinched yesterday for a railroad to connect Los Angeles with the gold fields of Nevada where a big trade awaits the picking.

It is the Salt Lake road that will be the inlet for civilization to pour into this vacant empire, rich with ore.

Every time the newspapers have mentioned branch roads into the gold country, the railroad people, heretofore, have looked scared and maintained a loud silence.

Yesterday, J. Ross Clark, vice-president of the Salt Lake system, frankly stated that negotiations are in progress for a deal with the owners of the Death Valley borax mines who are projecting a line from Soda Lake to Death Valley.

Mr. Clark stated that the Salt Lake road will make a traffic arangement with the borax road and there will be an official connection between the two lines.

The borax road will connect its rails with the Salt Lake line at Soda Lake.

"The owners of the borax mines seem to be very much in earnest about this line; I am convinced that it will go through; we have negotiations well under way, looking toward their connection with us."

Mr. Clark was asked just what "connection" signified in this case.

"It would be more than the physical joining of the two tracks. There will also be some traffic arrangement. We will haul their supplies and freight out from Los Angeles and other points and deliver it to them at Soda Lake for transmission to the gold country. On the other hand, they will deliver their ore cars to us at Soda Lake to be taken to points of consignment.

"For the present," said Mr. Clark, "the borax people are only planning to build a railroad to their own mines.

"These are located at the edge of Death Valley. I understand the surveyed road is about 180 miles long. I believe they do not intend to build on into the Bullfrog at once. They have abundant quantities of ore to make a railroad worth while in their own borax mines.

"They used to haul it out with wagons into Ivanpah and Daggett but for some time have not been shipping at all.

"Completion of the road to the Death Valley mines will, however, open up a great territory of other latent mines; it would make a comparatively short haul to the Bullfrog. In time I suppose they will build on from Death Valley into these gold fields. The route into Death Valley is so situated as to make the projection of the line into the Bullfrog a very easy matter.

"This continuation, I presume depends largely on the tonnage that develops in the Bullfrog. If the mines there develop enough ore to make them a strong freighting consideration the road will undoubtedly be put clear through. I am assured that the rates will be such as to make it possible to send out vast quantities of the low grade ore that now lies dormant in these Nevada Mountains. Aside from the ore, a railroad will open a field of almost boundless possibilites.

"We feel that the building of the Salt Lake road has awakened a wonderful country that might not have been opened up for a long time. We have given them a chance to send out their ore and ship in their merchandise. We shall certainly welcome this branch road as a "feeder" that will enable us to get into the heart of this country.

"The people behind this railroad are the surety for its earnest purpose. Their financial standing is of the strongest."

In confirmation of Mr. Clark's idea, it may be stated that the borax concern is very rich; its head is the far-famed Borax Smith of Oakland; the money comes mostly from a syndicate of rich Englishmen.

As the road is already surveyed and the grade practically established already where the grade was made for the old traction engine line that never ran, it is believed that the construction will be rushed through. No date can be given, however, at this early stage of the game for its completion.

Its extension to Bullfrog land is only a matter of time and then via the Salt Lake and the borax roads, the Los Angeles jobbing trade will be at the door of the new Nevada mining kingdom.

GEN. SHAW'S FUNERAL.

Man Prominant in Fraternal Circles Laid to Rest With Honors from Brethren.

Gen. John Kent Shaw, who fell dead upon the street on Wednesday from what is supposed to have been heart trouble, was buried yesterday afternoon in Rosedale cemetery, under the auspices of the Knights of Pythias, of which order he had long been an enthusiastic member, and in which he had held the office of Brigadier-General of the Uniform Rank of Minnesota.

The religious services were conducted at the family residence No. 2813 Ellendale Place, by Rev. A. C. Smithers and Rev. Mr. McKnight of the Christian Church.

The Pythian services were conducted by Col. G. S. Adolph, assisted by Col. J. L. Jones, who represented Maj.-Gen. Carnahan, commanding the military branch of the order.

The honorary pall bearers were: Col. J. L. Jones, Col. G. S. Adolph, James Murray, Past Grand Chancellor of Nevada; W. T. Meyers, Past Grand Chancellor of Indiana; Capt. W. H. Routzahn and G. B. Schaffer.

There were many beautiful floral offerings and members of the family were present from distant points.

BEGINNING YOUNG.

George Bonnettio, Lyman Bonnettio, Robert Heywood, Luther Hammock and Samuel Wright compose a quintette of young burglars who were arrested yesterday by Detectives Davis and Roberts. PUBLIC SERVICE—OFFICIAL DOINGS.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Property owners in almost every section of the city have petitioned their Councilmen for the return of the water sprinkling carts.

Miss Emily Lytton, the actress, has begun a suit against the Los Angeles Jockey Club, alleging that she was buncoed in playing the races.

H. H. Rose, the judge of the new city court, qualified and was sworn yesterday.

The Malolings, fine art thieves, were bound over in the Police Court.

AT THE CITY HALL.

"OIL STREETS, BUT NOT OURS."

CLAMOR FOR RESURRECTION OF SPRINKLING CARTS.

Property Owners Willing That Experiments With Greased Thoroughfares Shall be Continued, but Not in Their Immediate Neighborhoods—Hanley to the Rescue.

Uneasy rests the head of the Councilman whose ward is "under consideration" for the next experiments in oiled streets.

The use of oil in place of water for laying the dust on improved streets has been recommended by all the local commercial bodies; not because the thoroughfares so treated are superior to those still subjected to the daily ministrations of the watering cart, but as a matter of economy.

Property owners in residence districts are willing that the substitution of oil for water shall continue, so long as the substitution is not made on the streets in their immediate neighborhood.

A year ago Councilmen were warring with each other for the possession of the oilers and sanders. Now they are clamoring for the return of the time-honored sprinkling carts. Each is willing that the experiments in oil shall be continued, but the continuation must be in the other fellow's bailiwick.

San Pedro street, Central avenue and West Seventh street were last fall done in oil. The present condition of those thoroughfares and the big deficit in the oiling fund seem to indicate that the city was "done in oil" at the same time.

Street Superintendent Hanley is one of the original "oiled-roads" promoters. It was largely through his instrumentality that the first tests of oil as a dust eradicator were made in the country districts.

Hanley is still of the opinion that oil can be used successfully on city streets, provided the right streets are selected and the oil is properly distributed.

City Oil Inspector Blackmar says that he is still waiting to be shown. If the oil is to be applied to the streets in the same manner as last year," said Mr. Blackmar, "it would be cheaper all around to take it over and dump it in the river. The present condition of Seventh street and Central avenue is in my opinion an unanswerable argument against the use of oil on streets that are in general use.

Superintendent Hanley admits that the condition of the streets named furnishes an awful example of how not to improve streets by the use of oil. "The mistake made in oiling those streets," argues Mr. Hanley, "was that too much oil was used at a time and the surface of the streets was not loosened up to a sufficient depth. Oiling main traveled thoroughfares will always be a speculative proposition. The best results are obtained on purely residence streets where there is but little heavy teaming.

"The city should be able to save considerable money during the next year in substituting oil for water."

But the main reason that prompted the former Council to rush into the oiled streets has proved to be a delusion and a snare. The street railway companies expressed a willingness to oil their right of way on all streets where the Council would oil the remaining portion. They fought through the courts an attempt to compel them to sprinkle with water.

It was this that prompted the Oiling Committee to make the first experiments on San Pedro street, Central avenue and West Seventh street. The people living along those thoroughfares had enough of oiling in one season. Some of them are threatening to take the crew of the next oiler that appears on their streets and douse them in the tank.

The cost of applying the first coat of oil to improved streets last fall averaged almost $1000 a mile.

A number of Councilmen are of the opinion that oil can never be applied successfully to improved streets. They say that it should only be used when a street is being graded.

If the plans of the old Oiling Committee are carried out the sprinklers and sanders will be placed back on the streets May 1.

The chief objection to the continued use of the sprinkling carts is the enormous waste of water entailed. The water department has figured that to lay the dust on the improved streets during the summer season would require at least 4,000,000 gallons of water daily.

Estimates made by the former Council indicated that the expense of laying the dust with oil would be cheaper than with water; the saving was to be made in teams and men as a street sprinkled daily with water was to be sprinkled but once in six months with oil.

But the practical knowledge gained by experiments continued through a number of months effectually exploded the economic theory. It is now a question of water supply.

MORE CHUG CARTS.

AUTO FOR CHIEF OF POLICE.

It required an executive session of the Council Finance Committee to pass upon a recommendation of the Police Commission that Chief Hammel and Capt. Bradish be placed on the waiting list for an automobile.

In municipal circles benzine buggies are considered to be unlucky.

Behind barred doors, in the secrecy of the Council committee-room, the members of the Committee on Finance considered whether the city could afford to take such long chances on losing its Chief of Police and captain of detectives, and incidentally talked economy. But the upshot of it was a supplemental report to the Council recommending advertisement for bids for supplying the Police Department with an automobile.

The experience of the heads of other departments with chug wagons has not been reassuring. The City Engineer has one which proved very popular for a time and was largely patronized by field crews working along the line of the outfall sewer. But a few prosaic walks home abated their enthusiasm, and the machine now spends most of its time in its stall.

Street Superintendent Hanley has a fine yearling automobile for sale. He inherited it along with the Arroyo de Los Reyes storm-drain from his predecessor.

On Trail of Deserters.

The Mayor yesterday received official communications from the Navy Department that three Los Angeles youths have within the last five days deserted from the navy. R. B. Brown, whose address is given to be No. 1110 El Molino street, is a deserter from the U.S.S. Buffalo; Harry P. and William Cornell from the United States training ship Independence.

President Summerland Happy.

President Summerland yesterday afternoon appeared at the City Hall clad in a new red vest and an expansive smile. He had just come from the office of the manager of the Los Angeles Railway Company, and brought with him the assurance that work on the Eleventh-street line will be commenced Monday. A franchise for this road was purchased six months ago by property owners along the route.

Tunnel Tribulations.

For nearly an hour yesterday afternoon the Board of Public Works listened to arguments for and against placing a sidewalk on the north side of the Third-street tunnel. The protestants were backed by a petition signed by over four hundred persons and firms who use the tunnel. The petitioners were chiefly pedestrians. The board finally recommended to the Council that a five-foot walk be built on the north side of the tunnel roadway.

AT THE COURTHOUSE.

ASCOT CROOKED, SAYS ACTRESS.

MISS LYTTON SUES JOCKEY CLUB AND BOOKMAKER.

Declares She Was Buncoed Out of Several Hundred Dollars Which She Thought She Was Betting, and Shows up the Methods of the Race Touts.

Miss Emily Lytton, an actress, has been varying the monotony of a holiday she is passing here with her mother, Mrs. A. Barchus, by playing the races at Ascot Park. She has lost a nice-sized roll of money.

But this has not worried Miss Lytton so much as the thought that after all the experience gained behind the footlights she has proved an easy mark. She is convinced she was buncoed out of several hundred dollars by a bookmaker at the track, and was roped into a "dead-sure thing" by his wife, who filled the role of "steerer."

Yesterday Miss Lytton sued the Los Angeles Jockey Club and Eddie McNamara to recover $320. None of the facts behind the claim were stated, but this actress with sporting proclivities had made an affidavit setting out her experiences as a plunger in the "maidens' row" at Ascot Park; and it is claimed that the day after her final round-up no woman's money appeared good to the bookmakers, and all such bets were barred.

Miss Lytton frankly states that she played the ponies, and sent bank checks to George Rose, one of the bookies at the track, to place the bets. Last Monday she sent a check for $160 to be placed on Bronzewing, but received word back that he was holding the horse out, and wouldn't accept any more money on him. That seemed a good tip to the sprightly footlight favorite, so she sent down cash and placed a bet for $250 on Bronzewing. Rose didn't turn up his nose at the cash, though he had at the check.

In the following race, Miss Lytton says, she sent a messenger boy from her place in the balcony with a commission for $320 to be placed on Gene Handlon. After waiting for the bugle to call the horses to the post, the boy reported that he had boys in the ring placing the money at 7 to 5, and would return with the tickets when he had gathered them in. Miss Lytton went to the grand stand to witness the race, and says she never received her tickets for that $320 or been able to discover what became of the money.

"At the first meeting I was a stranger, and bet anywhere from $5 to $100, and this appeared to cause comment," pathetically says Miss Lytton in her affidavit. "I was approached by the wife of the 'look-out' of George Rose's book, who claimed acquaintance with me and gave me a pass. She suggested that I place my bets with Rose's book, and stated that an arrangement could be made whereby Rose would accept my check in the event of my running short of cash.

"I noticed on several occasions," continues the complainant, "that her husband would designate the number of the horse that she was to bet on by holding up his fingers, and many times I have been induced to place my bets according to her information obtained from him. On various occasions when two or three of these bets would be lost she would send her money downstairs to her husband to be placed, and on such occasions she invariably won—according to her statements. I never at such times received any information at all."

It occurred to Miss Lytton that it was rather odd that when her "friend" tipped her off, some old skate would carry her money, and never give her even a fair run for it; but when the "friend" bet single-handed she inevitably won in a canter. Just to test existing conditions the actress lay back for ten days and never put down a dollar for a bet. According to her story the "bookie" who had marked her down as his particular perquisite tried to entice her back to the betting ring.

"I was approached by a man and his wife, both of whom I supposed were emissaries of Rose," continues the affidavit, "and they spoke to me regarding a horse named Pelham. I was told that this horse was the sure thing of the meet, and that it couldn't lose."

Miss Lytton listened to the siren song when piped off to a "dead-sure thing." She bet $50 on Pelham, and then was persuaded by the couple of sugar-tongued touts to put up a check for $150. Shortly afterward she watched the horse carrying her money slithering down the home stretch—lengths to the bad. And still they kept after her.

In a mild way of summing up the existing condition, Miss Lytton says: "The failure to return to me either the tickets or render any information regarding the $320 makes it look to me like a nice warm-blooded misappropriation of funds, to say the least."

It is claimed that the day after Miss Lytton made complaint about the disappearance of her money, women's bets were turned down by all the bookies in the row; and that, later, the admission was made that it was a raw bit of work, and that she had not been given a show.

DIVORCE GRIST.

DAILY RECORD BROKEN.

The daily record for divorce cases set for hearing was broken yesterday with twelve in the several departments of the Superior Court.

Mrs. Alvarado Peters was granted an annulment of her marriage to S. W. Peters, which took place last November.

Judge York also granted a divorce to Louise Hull from William Hull, on the ground of desertion. The parties were married in September 1897. A decree was also granted to Belle F. Graham from Robert Graham, on the ground of cruelty.

Theron L. Huribut was divorced from Sadie Huribut by Judge Allen, on the ground of desertion. The parties were married in October, 1891.

In the same court Annie H. Maddux was granted a divorce from William T. Maddux, on the ground of desertion. The two were married at Ventura in November, 1892, and in 1903 the husband went to Oregon and refused from that time on to support or live with his wife.

Mrs. Cora L. Davis married Walter L. Davis in 1898 in the East and was deserted there. She had a crippled child and didn't know what to do or where to turn. She had worked for H. F. Lehman, who runs the Parker House on East Fifth street, before he came West, and wrote to him asking for money to bring her child to Los Angeles. With the money forwarded she came and worked in the hotel to repay the loan. Judge Willar gave her a divorce.

The same judge granted a decree to Lucy A. Peirce from William Peirce, on the ground of cruelty. Mrs. Peirce was married in December 1875, and when her father died in 1888, she inherited $40,000. All of this money her husband controlled and squandered without telling his wife where any of it went.

Judge Conrey heard the divorce suit of G. B. Rice against Dora D. Rice, but the evidence was rather meager and the court took it under advisement. The wife was alleged to be profane and insanely jealous. The suit of D. P. Wiley against Mary J. Wiley was of a similar character and was also taken under advisement.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

PROOF LACKING. Alfred Jorgenson was brought to trial before Judge Smith and a jury yesterday on a burglary charge. Merely because a pair of shoes that were identified as stolen property were found in possession of the defendant he was arrested. The jury quickly acquitted.

MELROSE MUST PAY. Mrs. Smith yesterday won her suit against Norman Melrose to recover money loaned him at Acton when he was to be tried for his life for the killing of Broome. Justice Pierce gave her judgment for $158.75 and $25 attorney's fees, less a claim of $30 for rent.

MINIMUM TERM. Frank Wilson and Albert Smith were yesterday sent to Folsom for one year each by Judge Smith. They burglarized the store of C. C. Petzer, outside the city.

CHURCH INCORPORATES. The First United Presbyterian Church of this city incorporated with S. S. Wallace, H. G. Dean, G. C. Hill, E. W. Sewell, C. P. Kirk, F. H. Covey and V. A. Campbell as trustees.

PHARMACY COMPANY. Metcalf's Pharmacy of Pasadena has incorporated with a capital stock of $25,000, of which $15,000 has been subscribed. The directors are: H. F. Metcalf, Claire H. Metcalf and Grace Metcalf, Mary M. Crawford and H. H. Klamroth, all of Pasadena.

JUDGE ROSE NEXT WEEK. Yesterday afternoon H. H. Rose qualified as judge of the new city court and was sworn in. As it will be a month before the new courtroom in the police building will be ready, Justice Rose will not begin his duties there. Justice Austin is anxious to get away for a short time and Justice Rose will occupy the bench as relief. For clerk of the new court there are three Richmonds in the field: Tom Simpson, clerk in Justice Young's court; P. P. O'Brien, a Southern Pacific employé, and Robert Bell, on the staff of the County Auditor.

ORE CONCENTRATORS. The National Machinery Company has incorporated with a capital stock of $250,000, with $5000 subscribed. T. N. Stebbins, F. E. Trask, V. C. Miller, R. C. P. Smith and J. J. Mann, all of this city, are the directors.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

MALOLINGS ARE TO ANSWER.

ART THIEVES MUST FACE JURY IN SUPERIOR COURT.

Accused Couple Offered No Testimony at the Preliminary Examination, Apparently Preferring to Submit Their Case to a Higher Court—Examination Deferred.

A. W. Maloling and his wife, Aimee, the fine-art burglars, preferred to make no defense yesterday in the Police Court when they were called upon to face the charge of burglary preferred against them by Mrs. H. H. Miller.

Justice Austin held the two defendants to answer to the Superior Court and fixed bail in the sum of $1500 each. Failing to give bond they went back to jail to await a second preliminary examination on the charge of burglary preferred by Dr. G. W. Robinson. This examination will be held next Wednesday morning.

The accused couple faced a crowded courtroom yesterday afternoon. Detectives Ritch and Talamantes, who arrested the Malolings and recovered many stolen articles belonging to Mrs. Miller, exhibited the goods in court and told of the arrest. Mrs. Miller identified the property as her own.

The Malolings offered no objections through their attorneys, Hubert T. Morrow and Earl Rogers, and the examination was quickly closed by the court who ordered the defendants be held to answer.

Policelets.

August Paulson insisted on driving a horse that was too decrepit for use as a draught animal. He was warned by officers of the S.P.C.A., but he paid no heed. Yesterday in the Police Court Paulson paid $15 for his lack of attention.

Fifteen wheel riders, who rode on sidewalks and paid no attention to the city ordinances requiring all wheelmen to provide themselves with a bell, paid fines ranging from $1 to $3 in the Police Court.

Benjamin F. McVey, charged with assault with intent to murder his wife by hitting her over the head with an ax, was arraigned. His examination was deferred until next Wednesday.

Trouble at Bennings—Jockey McCafferty Injured.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Owner Frank Farrell of the Highlanders does not believe that the Pacific Coast League will still attempt to hold Chase, if confronted with the prospects of a league wreck at the hands of clubs which will stick to the national agreement.

"They are simply causing us a lot of vexation," says Farrell, "because they know we need Chase now to get him properly started. I think he will be with us by the time the season starts, but of course, he will be handicapped if he reports a day or two before the season opens.

"Chase is not to be blamed, so much as Morley. I believe that if Griffith had gone out there a week ago and talked to Chase five minutes, he would have signed the team without further parley."

Rumors of a minor league being foisted upon the major leagues by men connected with the Eastern League clubs, has proved a boomerang. During the years of a minor league war, which has raged upon the major leagues by clubs connected with the Eastern League there has proved a boomerang. They are being offered what they consider insufficient salaries by the clubs which are complaining of the injustice of the drafting system.

The minor league players can bat .300 when it comes to putting up a salary bluff. Therefore, when the men who employ them travel about the country inciting the minor leagues to rebellion and trying to start trouble, these players simply refuse to sign contracts, believing that they can ignore the reserve rule and be objects of spirited bidding. This, of course, would boost their salaries above what the Eastern League is now paying. The minor leagues are getting the worst of it so far. The players in the big leagues have nearly all signed contracts. The minor league does not open for a month yet, and the men are waiting to see if they cannot secure possession of the lever which will boost salaries away above the present market prices.

In this respect the major leagues are far better prepared for trouble. In addition, they own the sinews of war—money—in large quantities, while the minor leaguers are on rather a shaky footing.

TROUBLE AT BENNINGS.

RIGHT AND TRUE PLACED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BENNINGS, March 24.—Toscan, which finished first in the Bennings Handicap yesterday, was disqualified today by the stewards. Some time ago Toscan was sold by S. A. P. Humphrey to E. A. Whitney, but all the purchase price and other conditions of the sale, it is said, have not been met, so Humphrey requested the Jockey Club to withhold any money that Toscan might win. Acting on rule 55 of the racing code, Toscan was set out of the race, and Right and True was placed first, Buttons second and Sais third.

Six furlongs: Brush Up won, Dance Music second, Liberia third; time 1:15 2-5.

HENDRICK AT TOP OF GAME.

In Rare Match, He Defeats Ex-Champion Bell.

Swift Smashing Strokes and Placing Win the Day.

High-class Tennis Feature of Tournament.

"Trow" Hendrick is now "midwinter tennis champion of Southern California."

Playing in magnificent form, pounding out point after point against the sensational, snappy strokes of the past master, Alfonso Bell, driving like a devil and placing the ball with accuracy little inferior to that of a well-handled rifle, the young star of the Boyle Heights courts yesterday demonstrated his class in a manner so striking and under conditions so difficult that none can longer deny his right to the title of the best racket wielder in this end of the State.

It is not extravagant to state that few men in America could take Bell down the line five love as Hendrick yesterday afternoon did in the first set. The Apollo Belvedere of local courts went East last summer and beat more of the top-notchers than trimmed him, although not at his best. Perhaps he was hardly fit yesterday, but Bell sick can beat most men well, and after such a showing as Hendrick's it is hardly quite fair to question the condition of the wonderful player whom he finally vanquished, 6-4, 9-7, after two of the most brilliant sets of tennis ever seen on any court here or elsewhere.

Hendrick at the top of his game plays a terrific pace, smashing every ball he can get near, and pasting them apparently as hard backhand as forehand. Yesterday he had one of those afternoons when everything he hit seemed to go in by inches, and the harder he swung, the surer was the shot. Bell was treed from the first; he played as good an uphill game as he ever does, but could not pull out from five love in the first set, though he won four straight games.

The second set was nothing if not a treat to tennis fans. It is too bad more of them were not present to enjoy it. Such matches do not grow on every tournament bush. A nip-and-tuck tussle from the first, the games went to deuce and Hendrick had to win the sixteenth before the Greek God was put out of commission for good. The pair furnished by long odds the sensation of the day and the tournament thus far, though other hot contests were by no means lacking, particularly in doubles.

For the benefit of Messrs. Elliott and Braly, and Way and Bell, the association is considering the erection of some arc-light masts. The moon will not always be available to the nocturnal diversions of these worthies for whom on yesterday evening's showing the days are not long enough. It was long past the dinner hour before these veterans from sheer inability to see the ball were forced to postpone settling their differences until today. Bell and Way took the first set in 6-3, but the scorer went out to hunt a lantern before beginning the second, and out of consideration for a long-suffering if patient public, the agony was curtailed.

Hendrick and Sinsabaugh only a few minutes before had left the court with Bundy and Rising, scores set all at 6-0, 2-6. Rubbers will be played off this afternoon in both matches.

Hot contests were quite the rule in the open doubles, and the event proved quite as interesting as usual. Grant and Hopper had their hands full killing off the aspirations of Hal Gorham and Ton. Hammond, but finally did it, 8-6, 4-6, 6-2. Elliott and Braly made short work of Rob Rowan and Lee in 6-1, 6-2, but it didn't seem to hurt Rowan a bit. Craig and Browne gave Hendrick and Sinsabaugh quite a game for awhile, losing in 6-4, 6-3, after some lively tennis. The concluding matches can easily be played off today.

By virtue of two contests in the ladies' event yesterday, Misses May and Florence Sutton will repeat their famous duel of last summer at Santa Barbara on Central Courts this afternoon. Enthusiasts, and tourists in particular, will do well not to miss it; the previous meeting of the sisters was beyond any question the finest exhibition of women's tennis ever seen since the game began. Those fortunate enough to have witnessed it came away firm in the conviction that the sport as played by women had nothing further left to show.

Yesterday's Sutton victims were Miss E. Ryan of Santa Monica, who took a game in each set from Miss May; and Miss Eleanor Peralta, who captured one in the thirteen from Miss Florence. The other girls now realize that they are "up against it" in drawing the Suttons, but make the best of a bad bargain.

A pair of pretty matches started the mixed doubles auspiciously when Miss May Sutton and Way beat Miss Murray and Wallace, 6-0, 6-1, and Miss Florence and Gorham beat Miss Peralta and Hammond by a similar score. If the players are on hand, some of the doubles matches may be run off this morning, leaving only the finals for the afternoon.

HORSE WINS BY CHEWING.

GOLDEN LIGHT SCARES OTHER NAGS INTO DEFEAT.

Tipped to Run First He Makes It Sure by Showing His Teeth. Strange Form Reversal by Racer Earl Rogers, Who Wins After Running Last.

Golden Light won the fourth race at Ascot yesterday by a bite.

To be more exact this aged beast won it by two bites.

He bit the leader Dutiful into submission in the stretch run and then seeing that he might lose the race at the finish, he snapped at the then second horse, Golden Ivy, who, to save herself, turned her head, a fatal thing for her, as in the turn Golden Light, the biter, got his nose in front and led as the two galloped under the imaginary wire.

It is a common thing on race tracks to hear of a horse being beaten out of a race "by a city block," or "an eyelash" or "a head," but this fourth race furnished the only known instance of a horse being skinned out of the big end of a purse by a "bite." It is a new way to win races, and the fact that the winner bit these two rivals in order to make them drop back, leads one to imagine that race horses may have some sense after all. Golden Light was tipped to win the race in the morning, and while he ran a cracking good contest as it was, he doubtless would not have won had he not chewed his way to victory past the cringing bodies of other horses.

Aside from this feature of the card was the startling form reversal victory of the horse Earl Rogers in the first race. Previous to yesterday he has started four times here and the last time out was beaten over twenty-two lengths. In his previous starts he was beaten over twenty lengths, twelve lengths and forty-seven lengths, the latter on his first appearance. He has always been a slow starter, and has never shown any more speed than a sack of coal, but yesterday, starting in ninth place in a field of eleven, he shot to the front like an arrow, led into the stretch by eight lengths and won by almost five lengths from J. K. F., the favorite La Chata, Ila and Search Me being behind him. The books lost on the race, for this beast was strongly played from 10 to 1 down to 7 to 1. After the race it was what the horsemen around the paddock called a "shoo-in."

Two favorites won in Mart Gentry in the second at 7 to 5 and even, and Mal Lowery at 2 to 2 in the fifth. The other events went to Flora Bright at 6 in the third, and St. Winifride at 12 to 5 in the last. Golden Light closed at 8 to 1.

McDaniel, the once-popular, was on three strongly-played horses, in Hersain, Dungannon and Jardin de Paris, but like other "smart" riders, such as Miller, Fuller and others, he couldn't get them into the money.

A crowd of about two thousand people saw the sport.

CHASE GOES TO NEW YORK.

STARTED YESTERDAY TO JOIN THE HIGHLANDERS.

Failed to Report for Practice at the Chutes Park and Eager Announced the Player Had Gone—Morley Will Prevent Him from Playing Again With Coast League.

Chase "has went."

After long days and nights of sighing and denying and turning and twisting and he-loves-me-he-loves-me not business, Hallie Chase, the young boy who has Ella Wheeler Pillbox or Julian Ha-Hawthorne green with envy on account of the free advertising he received for nothing, packed up his doll rags yesterday and started for Montgomery, Ala., to join the New York team that was about to plunge the country into a bloody, bloody baseball war, because it couldn't have him.

Worst of all, Chase failed to kiss anyone good-by and even left his ticket from San José to Montgomery that Clark Griffith had sent him.

Chase didn't fool the local fans, however, by his French leave-taking, for after the announcement that Danny Long, the has-been ball player, had a talk with Chase, it was pretty well understood that his young heart had been touched, and now that he has gone every fan will be wanting to tell someone that he knew it would turn out that way.

The news came as a reality when the local team went out to practice at Chutes Park yesterday. All the regular men were there with the exception of Chase and when his absence was noted, Bobby Eager, who has been rooming with Chase, gave out the information that Chase had gone to New York, or he supposed so at least, for the boy had packed his clothes that morning and told Eager he intended going at noon.

None of the fans will wish Chase anything but good luck, but it is the opinion that when he tries to bat the big-league pitchers they will show him up in fine style, for hitting is his weak point. After the first month of the last season he did not do any great hitting and it is said that he finished the season with something about like .236. From the amount of advertising he has received through his own desire to remain on the Coast, the New York fans and Griffith himself will expect the boy to hit to high-salaried form and no one believes he can do this.

Morley of course is out nothing by the departure of Chase except the price of the ticket to Alabama, for which the local manager says he sent Clark Griffith a check a few days ago.

MATINEE TODAY.

DRIVING CLUB MEETS.

Preparations have been made for a record breaking crowd at Agricultural Park today, the occasion being the March matinée of the Driving Club.

Secretary Redpath has programmed seven good races in which the pick of the club's equine membership is to start. No charge is made for admission and the directors hope to see the capacity of the place taxed to overflowing.

The free-for-all trot between Ole and Briney K is declared off. In place of this race these two horses will race to pole to beat the track record of 2:26½ which was made by Bastina and General Wiles several years ago. Ole, it will be remembered, is the horse that "Pop" Henderson brought from the north especially to beat Briney K. At the last matinée Henry Berry claimed that Briney was not in condition to do himself justice and accordingly he did not race against Ole. It would appear now that Briney has improved sufficiently to step by the side of Ole, Mr. Berry's feet evidently have warmed up some with the sudden change of the weather, so that he will permit Briney to start with Ole hitched to the pole so that Ole cannot outrace him.

HOT BASKETBALL.

WON BY ONE POINT.

The Los Angeles High School Boys' Basketball team defeated the Pasadena High School team, on the latter's court yesterday by the score of 29 to 27. The score was tied when the game was called, but play being resumed, Hussey threw the winning goal.

Owens of Pasadena, played a star game, as did M. Mitchell and Capt. Hussey, for High School.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL.

Basketball girls of the University of Southern California will play a match game with the Throop team this morning at 10 o'clock on the new courts at the University of Southern California. The game is in the regular league series and an interesting contest is expected. The Methodist maids are an undefeated team and with the experience they have gained this season they are picked to win.

The Sherman Indian girls and the Los Angeles High lassies will also meet this morning on the High School courts.

CHAMPION BARBARA GOLFER.

CHICAGO MAN WINS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Nathaniel F. Moore of Chicago is now champion golfer of the Santa Barbara Country Club. The first annual tournament for championship honors has been held this week, seven members entering the contest. The finals were played off this afternoon between Moore and E. A. Robinson of Belfast, Ireland. Moore won in a brilliant game. The champion received a fine large gold medal and will have his name engraved on a $250 cup which remains in possession of the club.

TOOTH, LEG AND KICK.

JUST POLO AT RIVERSIDE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RIVERSIDE, March 24.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Riverside polo ists played in hard luck this afternoon. Messervy got a badly-sprained leg, Wright lost a tooth in contact with a flying ball and Redmayne was kicked in the back by a vicious pony.

Notwithstanding these injuries, the injured men pluckily played the game to a finish. The teams were made up as follows: Reds—Wright, Flowers, Redmayne, Messervy and Mackey alternating, Redmayne. Whites—Hazell, Coulson, Pattee and Hudson. The Whites won by a score of 6 to 3, four periods being played. The Misses Bakewell served tea during the afternoon.

LOST HIS VICTORY.

"YOUNG PETER JACKSON."

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BALTIMORE, March 24.—After less than a minute's fighting in the second round, "Young Peter Jackson" tonight knocked out "Philadelphia Jack" O'Brien, and lost the decision by doing it on a foul. The agreement was that the fighters should break clean.

The referee, James O'Hara, was between the men, who had clinched, when Jackson's right shot around O'Hara's body and landed on O'Brien's jaw. O'Brien went down, but made an effort to rise. He was unable to do so, however, and many of the crowd thought he had lost the fight. Jackson was hurried from the ring before the decision was announced.

After the fight, it was announced that the men would meet again in Baltimore April 7.

BUSINESS.

At Chicago, wheat closed weak, at 1.12½ for May and .90¾@.90½ for July. Bears bought stocks at New York to cover short contracts. New York Central, Union Pacific and Northwestern were notably strong. Profit-taking in the last hour was well absorbed and the market closed strong.

THE GOVERNOR'S BIG POCKET.

There has been more or less occasion, since the adjournment of the Legislature, to "cuss" that unpopular aggregation of cheap and subservient political accidents. The Governor also invited criticism because of his acquiescence in some of the vicious measures enacted by this Legislature, of unfragrant remembrance. But he has performed valuable service for the State—and the fact should be freely acknowledged—in refusing to affix his signature to several of the more obnoxious measures, allowing them to die a deserved death through the mediumship of the "pocket veto."

One of the most vicious of these vicious measures was the bill providing for the secession of one portion of a county from another portion, without the consent of the people residing in the portion of the county seceded from. If this measure had received the Governor's signature, it would have led to no end of trouble, litigation, and needless expense. By withholding his signature from the bill, the Governor has obviated all this, and for so doing he is entitled to the thanks of the people at large.

Then there was the so-called Eminent Domain Bill (providing for radical changes in the Civil Code,) under which, if it had received the Governor's approval, no city in the State could have gone outside of the boundaries of the county in which it is situated for the development of water for domestic uses. Los Angeles, in particular, should feel grateful to the Governor for withholding his signature from this iniquitous measure. Had it become a law, it would have put a serious check upon the growth of this city; for it is indispensable to our continued growth and development that we shall be able to go outside the limits of the county to develop an increased water supply.

Another iniquitous measure which reached the Governor was the so-called Municipal Lighting Bill, which provided that any city desiring to erect a municipal lighting plant must first purchase all privately-owned lighting plants in the city. The viciousness of this proposition is too apparent to require comment. It now reposes in the capacious gubernatorial pocket, dead to the world and powerless for evil. The mourners are few.

Still another bad bill lies dead in its iniquity, inside the Governor's roomy and lethal pocket. It was known as Assembly Bill No. 612, and it provided that the minimum wage-rate for common labor on public work throughout the State should be raised from $2 to $3 per day. The evil effects of this measure, had the Governor signed it, would have been apparent in Los Angeles, as in other parts of the State, in a sudden decrease in the number of workmen employed, corresponding with the advanced rate. Where six men were employed at $2 per day, the number would have been cut down to four; where eighteen were employed, the number would have been reduced to twelve, and so on. Only a certain amount of money is available for public purposes. There are unskilled men in abundance who are willing and anxious to work for $2 per day, and good policy demands that the public funds shall be distributed among as large a number as possible without unreasonably lowering the wage-rate. Two dollars per day for unskilled labor, as compared to existing rates for skilled labor, seems a fair rate. The bill was at best but a demagogic sop, and the Governor's big pocket is the place where it belongs.

Many other bills sent to the Governor were placed in his big pocket and never taken out again. Some of these were good, but the majority deserved the quietus which they received. In fact, comparatively few of the bills which passed the Legislature at the late session were without "graft," or ulterior purpose of some kind. The honest, wholesome, disinterested measures were few indeed, and a number of these were voted down—probably because they were good.

But what could we expect? Do men gather grapes of thorns or figs of thistles?

San Francisco capitalists are planning to "reclaim" Chinatown, in that city, and to build "a model oriental city." The plan will probably be all right if John himself can be induced to clean up and become a model citizen of the model city.

RED AND OTHER DEVILS.

A few days ago The Times printed a story of an automobilist who ran over and badly injured a man on Broadway and hurried on without waiting to make any investigation or inquiry. In his pain, the victim declared that if he could learn the name of the automobile man and meet him he would kill him on sight. Who shall blame him?

Such occurrences as this are becoming all too common. There is a class of automobilists who appear to think that the taking of life, the maiming of limbs and the destruction of property by their vehicles is a huge joke, and that the public have no rights which they are bound to respect. They should be disillusioned. They are likely to be so, before long. There is a growing rebellion among the public, in this and other countries, against the brutal selfishness of these propellers of power vehicles. In France, the question became so grave, a short time ago, that it was made the subject of a protracted debate in the legislative body. In a northern county of California it was recently announced that farmers had taken the law into their own hands, and were "laying" for automobilists with shotguns, behind hedges. The following excellent article on this subject appears in the Southern California Practitioner for March:

"The automobile is today doing more to irritate the masses against the classes than all other causes put together.

"Certain automobiles are called red devils and they seem to impart a devilish nature to many of their owners.

"We have heard people, otherwise quite decent, laugh uproariously at the way they had frightened this man or that woman. We also recently heard one of these auto-owners telling with great gusto how a farmer had upset his wagon trying to get out of the way of the machine.

"The automobile is a most important vehicle, especially for physicians, but careful consideration must be shown toward persons on foot or driving horses. A State law was recently urged in the California Legislature greatly restricting the use of automobiles, and a continuation, by owners of automobiles, of the present spirit of haughtiness, disdain and inconsiderateness will result, as it should, in very stringent laws.

"The owner of the automobile is often rich and powerful, but he should be thoughtful and considerate. An examination showing a knowledge of the fundamentals of machinery should be required of all who are licensed to operate automobiles. No license should be issued to a woman under 25 or to a young man under 18."

As a matter of fact the automobile responds more promptly to the driver and can be controlled more readily than the average horse. Nine times out of ten automobile accidents are the direct result of carelessness. It is the chauffeur and not the machine that is at fault. Sensible owners and operators of automobiles will use their best efforts to stop such recklessness. One good step would be to punish by imprisonment those who inflict injury to person or property by reckless driving, without giving them the option of a fine. Most owners of automobiles are wealthy, and a fine of a few dollars means nothing to them. In fact, some young bloods in the East seem to take a sort of pride in recounting the number of times they have been fined. Let us have an end to this foolishness.

WATER SUPPLY.

A correspondent suggests that the Board of Water Commissioners should at once secure options on such water supplies as it may deem wise to consider as worthy of investigation, and then commission a board of engineers to make complete examinations of the proposed sources, gathering all necessary data required in an exhaustive report to the city. Until these data and facts are available, there can be no intelligent discussion of the ultimate solution of the city water problem.

In the annual report of the Board of Water Commissioners for the year ending November 30, 1904, the superintendent says:

"The many recent communications to the press offering suggestions and advice about the water supply, while undoubtedly well meant, are manifestly the contributions of people who are wholly unfamiliar with the hydrography of this part of the State. For instance, the advice so frequently tendered to go to the mountains, implies lack of knowledge of the fact so well known to all old residents that every mountain stream of the slightest importance within a radius of a hundred miles of this city has been appropriated long ago and that as the drouth is prolonged those streams are among the first to dry up, compelling the ranchers who have rights in them to resort to pumping from the detritus of the valleys to keep their orchards from perishing."

If this is true, it makes it all the more important and necessary that a competent and entirely unprejudiced committee should be appointed, without any unnecessary delay, to thoroughly investigate the water situation of Los Angeles city, from every point of view. The bounteous rains of the present season greatly improved the outlook for the immediate future, but they will prove rather a misfortune than otherwise should they induce us to sit down content to let things drift, without making any provision for the future. Don't let us emulate the folly of the Arkansas man.

SCHOOL SAVINGS BANKS.

Now that the citizens have voted the new school bonds by such an overwhelming majority—although the vote recorded was almost ridiculously small—the Board of Education perhaps may find time to settle down to a consideration of some of the details of school management. Among other things, there are many good citizens who believe that it would be an excellent idea to revive the school savings banks, started several years ago, and conducted for some time with much success. No good reason has ever been given why the system was abolished. So far as can be gathered, it was simply because some of the teachers objected to the very slight extra amount of work that the collection of the money entailed. That the system was a complete success in Los Angeles was recognized by the Comptroller of the Currency, who, in his annual report for the year 1904, mentioned that the school children of Los Angeles had on January 1, 1904, $32,399 to their credit in the local savings banks.

J. H. Thiry, the father of the school savings system in the United States, who introduced it in the schools of Long Island city thirteen years ago, has written to J. H. Braly of Los Angeles, expressing surprise that such a progressive city should take a backward step of this kind, and hoping that the system will soon be restored. Almost every intelligent person admits that thrift is a good thing to inculcate in the young, and there are few better means of doing so than to give school children a practical exemplification of the truth of the old adage which says: "Take care of the pennies; the pounds will take care of themselves."

Our renowned fellow-townsman, James J. Jeffries, is to be challenged for the heavyweight championship by an ordinary baseball tosser. Mr. Jeffries recently expressed the opinion, in an interview, that a man at 40 years of age has practically outlived his usefulness, or at least that he "is no good physically." If this view be correct, Mr. Jeffries cannot expect to hold the championship belt much longer; for, accepting his own dictum, he is already entering the sere and yellow period.

There are few cities in the United States where the work of a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals is more needed than in Los Angeles. Especially is this true in regard to horses. The local society is much hampered in its work by lack of funds. Every right-thinking man should feel it a privilege to be permitted to contribute somewhat toward the expenses of guarding our dumb friends from abuse. The office of the society is in the O. T. Johnson building.

Among the measures which were pocket-vetoed by the Governor was Assembly bill No. 531, providing for the publication of the State Blue Book. The Governor's failure to approve this bill is a misfortune. It is a convenient and necessary public record, of far more value than its cost to the State. It should be published regularly after each session of the Legislature. There are hundreds of expense items that would better be cut out than the cost of publishing the Blue Book.

Did it ever occur to you that some day the few old places still remaining in Los Angeles with a wealth of palms and peppers and distinctive trees will be sought for—and the proprietors and boomers who have sacrificed everything to lumber and paint and cement will wake up? The crowning glory of Los Angeles is ruthlessly sacrificed by many crazy-headed builders, who would have this city look just like every other instead of having a charm of its own.

Gov. Hoch of Kansas declares that when the new battleship Kansas is christened, next July, a bottle of crude oil from Kansas will be broken over the prow, instead of a bottle of champagne. This is good. Crude oil will be much cheaper than champagne, for one thing; and it really seems like an awful waste to throw away a good beverage upon the fishes and things that dwell in the salt sea.

In St. Petersburg, Tokio and a few other back towns there may be some interest in the war; the Venezuelan controversy may concern Washington, Paris and several other remote capitals; but what agitates the great metropolis of New York and the glorious City of the Angels seems to be the burning question, "who will get bull-tosser Hal Chase for keeps?"

Buffalo Bill's application for a divorce has been turned down, and there is a prospect that we shall be afforded a much-needed rest for some time to come, from the daily rattling of the Cody family skeleton. In deciding the case, the court sustained Mrs. Cody's side in full, and gave Bill a dressing down that ought to hold him awhile.

Again the Delaware Legislature has agreed to disagree on the question of electing a United States Senator. But it really doesn't matter much. The sort of men who control the Delaware Legislature would not be likely to elect a good man to the Senate, anyhow, and we have enough of the other kind there already.

Now that Castro's troubles are somewhat lessened by reason of the agreements effected with German and English bondholders, he will probably have more time to devote to the revolutionists, with whom he has been obliged to keep up a rear-guard action for some time past.

A ride in the street cars for a dozen blocks almost convinces a fellow that this has been one of the driest seasons on record. It seems three months since we had a drop of rain, and the dust is the same old dust of the Ides of last September. Hurry out the oil cart or the sprinkling wagon!

Our friends, the Belgians, are not to be blamed for desiring to collect the debts due them from Santo Domingo.

WHY WILLIE IS WORRYING.

The "Examiner" Vainly Trying to Hide Its Head in the Sand.

Just a few words to explain why the Examiner is raising all this dust in the form of meaningless "challenges" to The Times.

For fifteen years The Times has been showing its subscription lists and circulation accounts to all inquiring advertisers. It still offers to do this for any advertiser or committee of advertisers. The Examiner is afraid to do it and has refused to do it. To confuse the issue and endeavor to throw merchants off the scent, it has contrived this senseless challenge—defying The Times to do what it is doing every day.

The Times is ready and happy to show its actual subscription lists, names, streets and numbers. It is the only paper in Los Angeles that dares do it. These lists tell the story as nothing else can. Figures may lie, but the actual names of subscribers can be verified. These are what satisfy advertisers. These are what advertisers ask of the Examiner, and which the Examiner dare not give.

The merchants are "on." The Examiner is worried. Hence its wailing and shrieking.

The Times is sawing wood and showing the actual facts to all interested—proving that it has double the genuine paid circulation of any newspaper in Los Angeles.

But they will do well to remember the difficulties attending all attempts to extract blood from turnips and sunshine from cucumbers.

The Illinois Senate has passed a bill prohibiting marriages where the girl is less than 16 and the boy less than 19 years old. Better still, 18 and 21.

It looks as if the Salt Lake road would get into the new Nevada gold country first. It is the natural "camino real" for that region.

The Council is giving almost everybody an automobile. The janitor of the City Hall must be wondering when his turn will come.

Southern California is herself again, with sapphire skies and air full of sunshine, ozone.

Speaking of strenuous Presidents, Mr. Roosevelt is not the only one in the Western Hemisphere. There is Castro, for example—and Mr. Morales.

That flower show will be a dazzler.

THE CAMP.

Then have ye seen the mining camp
They're building over yon?
'Twas suddenly created there
Between the night and dawn.
They built it by the glinting light
Of gold, beside the street,
And they built it on the desert
Where the desolations meet.

And mountain rocks and lesser rocks
Berth the rugged scene,
And some are hard and golden rich
And some are hard and lean.
There's not enough of water there
To bicker down a rill,
But stronger drink, of vicious red,
Flows ever up the hill.

The homes, of mud or canvas—like
The dice of fortune's throw—
Are scattered on the ups and downs
Of rush and fever row.
And fifty hundred men are there,
And twenty hundred mules,
And twenty dozen gambling halls,
And twenty hundred fools.

And have ye seen the fling of chance—
The men that luck will choose—
The tyros here who win the gold,
The pundits there who lose?
And have ye seen the ancient shame
Of women lost to hope
That may not even walk to hell,
But weakly toward it grope?

And have ye counted half the sum
Of pity and applause
The gods record who traffic not
With puny human laws?
And wot ye aught of tragedy
And comedy—the twain,
So fair and dark, and dark and fair,
That march beside the train?

Yet when you see that mining camp,
(You cannot miss the trail;
It's blazed with empty bottles and
With signs of fierce travail,)
Regard the homes—the garden spots—
Then on the desert press
Where men of strength, with woman's aid,
Subdue the wilderness!
—[Philip Verrill Mighels, in Harper's Weekly.

"Thou" and "You."

The St. Petersburg dockyard workmen who have triumphantly secured the right to be addressed as "you" instead of "thou," have once more illustrated the importance of this continental nicety. The only safe rule for the Englishman abroad is to stick to "you" in French or German. "Tutoiement," or "theeing-and-thouing," would imply a deliberate intention to insult, a patronizing assumption of indisputable superiority to the person addressed, or such familiarity as is proper only between lovers, parents and children, and intimate friends. At one time every individual was "thou," but after flatterers began to call Roman Emperors "you" (monarchs remain "we" to this day) the polite plural spread until in Louis XIV's time only servants were "thou" in France. The restoration of "thou" as a pronoun of familiar endearment is due to Rousseau and the Revolution. It has survived throughout the poetry and in addressing the Deity—[London Chronicle.

How "Bat" Fooled Them.

Bat Masterson gave the New Yorkers the surprise of their lives. He entered the city quietly, took a cab to a hotel, registered in modest chirography, without a daring flourish, and called for a room with a bath; nor did he tell the terrorized clerk to be damquick in having him shown to it. He slept quietly through the night, and the chambermaid was not called upon to sweep up the tangled remains of a bellboy next morning. He even snored as sweetly as the Episcopal minister in the next room.—[Denver Post.

TALKS WITH TRAVELERS.

The eyes of both capital and labor are fixed upon John C. Freund, editor of the Musical Trades of New York, who arrived in Los Angeles yesterday.

He has leaped into prominence on account of a remarkable essay on the labor-union situation, written just before he left New York. On his arrival, he found congratulatory letters from Bishop Potter, Hon. Oscar Straus, late Minister to Turkey, and other celebrated men awaiting him at the Angelus.

Mr. Freund is here with his wife on a pleasure trip, having been on the same train with Rider Haggard in the wash-outs.

"The importance of the visit of Rider Haggard here has not been appreciated," said Mr. Freund last night. "It means more than a mission of a bright man to gather data about Salvation Army farms. It means that the hidebound, heavy, slow-thinking phlegmatic old English government has at last awakened with a start to the fact that 750,000 human beings in the city of London have no beds, and do not know where their next meal is coming from; that the agricultural class of England has sunk to be little better than their own vegetables; they eat and sleep, and sometimes consider simple political questions when sufficiently stirred up by an agitator. England has awakened to the fact that building battleships is not all; it has an awful social question to meet. I am a Londoner by birth, and I know."

Mr. Freund had this to say on the labor-union question, his opinions having the weight of a man who has attracted the attention of President Eliot of Harvard:

"The man who attempts to find the 'solution' of the labor-union problem is foolish; it has no more 'solution' than there is to the tariff or anything else that is ever changing. If it were possible to find a 'solution' today, tomorrow it would be no solution. It might as well be recognized that it is not possible to legislate that the stupid men must be bright, the selfish men generous, the incompetent men competent.

"The labor situation will never be any better until the bulldozing stops. It will never be any better until the employer sees that, if he forces men to accept a miserable wage, he is hurting himself in the end; until the labor leaders see that, when they bring harassing conditions upon any firm, even though it employs but three men, they are hurting themselves more than the firm.

"Some employers take a shallow view of the situation. A man can put off his butcher, get time from his bank, get grace from the manufacturer who sells him goods, but that Saturday pay roll hangs over his head like a nightmare. Consequently, his impulse is to cut it down. He does not see that in the end he is cutting into his own profits.

"The good times of this country depend directly on the consuming power. When the piano manufacturer cuts down the wages of his men to an unfair scale, then the butcher, who wants to buy his wife a new dress, suffers, because the workmen stop buying so much meat; the dry-goods merchant who intended buying a piano suffers, and he does not buy the piano because the butcher's wife couldn't buy the new dress; so in the end the piano maker's injustice has cut himself.

"The reverse of this is exactly as true. When the workmen drive or force an employer into paying wages he cannot afford, they are the ones who suffer in the end for it.

"I am a member of the great Civic Federation of New York, where this question is being quietly discussed by representatives of workmen and employers, an organization earnestly trying to do a little good in the world. It includes most of the great 'captains of industry,' all the most prominent labor men in the country, and such men as President Hadley of Yale and Eliot of Harvard.

"At the last meeting, one of the labor-union men made a fiery speech, to the effect that, whatever the way out of the labor-union difficulty is found, it must be 'with honor to labor.'

"President Eliot got up and made a splendid reply, in which he stated that honor to the laboring man was not all; that it must be 'with liberty to both sides.'

"In reply to these statements I published my 'open letter,' which has attracted these letters.

"In my opinion they are both wrong; honor is a fine thing, but men pay debts of 'honor' and let their butcher bills run. No two men can be found to agree upon what the 'honorable' course is.

"Liberty is also a fine thing, but some of the greatest tyrants in history have howled liberty while they cut people's heads off for not thinking the same as they did.

"In my opinion the right of it is 'with justice to both sides.'

"Bishop Potter says in his letter I received today that 'because the laboring man has had to serve practical slavery in times gone by, does not give him license to practice anarchy now.'

"It seems plain to me that the employer who forces some measure down the throats of his men is a public enemy, and his works shall not stand; on the other hand, the labor leader who flaunts the strike and the boycott to bring about some stricture or unjust labor law is cutting his own throat.

"The man who has a 'smug remedy' for this unrest is a fool.

"Jesus Christ provided the only 'remedy' for the situation that will ever be found: 'Love thy neighbor as thyself.' And that does not mean that the employer should be expected to stand and pay out whatever labor unions selfishly want for wage; there are two sides to loving.

"In my opinion, there should be a commission of some sort, composed of the capital, the labor, and the brains, managers and such, who are neither in the capital class or in the labor class, and who have never been given a voice in the hearing for themselves. Such a commission is as necessary as a tariff commission to meet the ever-changing conditions."

The Chef and the Duchess.

To his fiancé, the Duchess Cecilia of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, Crown Prince Frederick William of Germany has sent his favorite chef to study the lady's tastes. Here is proof of a lover's solicitude, and something more. Something, say, in manifestation of a coming ruler's regard for domestic tranquillity. In London not many months ago a distinguished couple before their formal betrothal underwent the test of a series of breakfasts for two. It was a trial of morning-hour appetites and tempers. What more becoming than that a similar foresight should exist in the case of the Prince and Duchess?—[New York World.

Paid for the Advice.

Old Hunks (meeting a physician at the club:) "Doc, what ought a man to do when he has an all-overish feeling, as if he were going to have an attack of the grip?"

CONCERNING CALIFORNIANS.

Don Mark Lemon, the young California writer who carried off the bulk of the Black Cat's prizes, is about to publish a book of poems.

Don Pacifico Cota, a native of Santa Barbara, died in that city last Sunday. Señor Cota was a member of one of the old California families who flourished "before the Gringos came."

Henry William Alden, who died in Paterson, N. J., a few days since, came to California in 1849, and was long engaged in business in Stockton. He was the first Treasurer of San Joaquin county.

Miss Sarah Brown, the seventeenth child of the famous abolitionist, John Brown, and the one-time beauty of the family, is now living in Saratoga, Santa Clara county, where she cultivates a small fruit ranch.

Col. J. C. McMullen, an Oakland banker, has purchased a large tract of land near Oroville and will convert it into a country seat resort. A number of the colonel's business associates will build residences on the property.

Richard Watson Tully, a young California playwright, is meeting with marked success in his profession. He has disposed of several of his productions in the East, and his latest play, "Juanita of San Juan," is now being produced on this Coast.

Mrs. Mary A. Rainey, widow of Samuel Rainey, long identified with the San Francisco fire department, has created a medal fund, the income of which shall be used in providing badges of honor to be given members of the department in recognition of acts of special bravery.

W. P. Edgerton of Woodland left for Nebraska last fall with his family, intending to locate there. When the mercury got down to 32 deg. below zero, however, he longed for his old California home, and has just returned, vowing that he will never be tempted to cross the Sierras again.

Bayonets Not Obsolete.

Up to a short time ago military experts all over the world were certain that the days of close fighting were over, and that, with modern high power small arms, firing bullets of great initial velocity, low trajectory and great range and penetration, the bayonet was to be relegated to the limbo of obsolete weapons. But the bayonet is not yet obsolete, nor now regarded as an archaic weapon. On the contrary, both the Japanese and Russians have used it with deadly effect, and its effectiveness has been again demonstrated, together with the fact that fighting at close quarters is still a factor to be reckoned with in warfare. The Japanese, as might have been expected from a nation of swordsmen, have also surprised many experts by making just as effective a use of the bayonet as their bulkier adversaries. After all, it isn't so much the weapon as the man who wields it.—[Boston Globe.

"Ben Hur" a Gold Mine.

A very close friend to the recently deceased Gen. Lew Wallace said yesterday that he believed the estate would be worth at least $500,000, not counting the Blacherne apartment-house here, which was several years ago deeded to his son, Henry Wallace, to be held in trust for his two children. This house alone is worth $200,000.

For "The Prince of India" Gen. Wallace received $100,000 in ten yearly installments. His royalties on "Ben Hur" are not exactly known, but its sales are reported to have reached between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 copies, for which it is believed he received a royalty of 15 cents a copy.

It is also believed that the first year of its production Gen. Wallace received $50,000 for the dramatic rights to "Ben Hur." This source of revenue has decreased each year somewhat. "The Prince of India" will be produced in the near future, though at what figures is not known.—[Indianapolis News.

The Grizzly Came.

Champ Clark of Missouri was addressing the House of Representatives on one occasion, when a rash member interrupted him with some frivolous comment. Mr. Clark fairly shriveled up the man who had "butted in," winding up his scorification in this way: "Mr. Chairman, there was once a tenderfoot who struck the grizzly region looking for bear. He was all gotten up in the finest hunting garb and his weapons were the newest that could be obtained. He had come to show the West how to kill grizzlies. He went forth one morning and never came back; and over his remains they raised a stone which bore this epitaph: 'He whistled for the grizzly and the grizzly came.'"—[New York Press.

Mob in the White House.

As soon as Jackson had finished his inaugural address in 1829 the crowd made a headlong rush to the White House, and literally took possession from top to bottom. It was their day, their man, and their house. Jackson himself was crowded against the wall so that he couldn't stir, till a party of gentlemen surrounded him and rescued him just as he was beginning to get black in the face. Judge Story, who was present, writes:

"The reign of King Mob seemed triumphant. I never saw such a mixture. The President was visited by immense crowds of all sorts of people, from the highest and most polished down to the most vulgar and gross in the nation."

Pailfuls of punch were upset everywhere, the crockery and glassware was all smashed, the relief was only had by the stewards carrying out refreshments into the grounds where the mob and enthusiastic crowds followed, and order was restored.—[Washington Post.

Civil War Presidents.

Grant was a general; so was Hayes and Garfield and Harrison. McKinley was a major. Since Andrew Johnson all the Presidents, except Arthur, Cleveland, down to Roosevelt, were soldiers of the Civil War. Lincoln was the last. The Civil War, which has passed from the Presidency, is not to return no more.—[Nashville American.

FUTURE HOPE OF GOOD LAWS.

Some Day May Win Without Uphill Fight.

Assemblyman Thompson on the Legislature's Work.

Why This Bill Passed and That One Failed.

Some time in the future a meritorious bill may get through the Legislature at Sacramento without a hard fight.

This is the opinion of Assemblyman Newton W. Thompson of Alhambra, who represented the Sixty-ninth District in the last Assembly.

Mr. Thompson is not overpessimistic on the subject. Some good bills reached the Governor and were signed; some bad ones also were passed and were vetoed or pocketed; some poor ones were passed and signed, while many good ones were not even passed. he says.

"With proper agitation and the creation of an organized public sentiment, I believe the Espey Bill for the cure of the race-track evil, and the Ralston anti-prize-fight measure, either in their present or similar forms, can be passed in the next Legislature," said Mr. Thompson yesterday.

"The Espey Bill was passed by the Assembly, but was killed in the Senate. The defeat of this measure was attributed to a Senator who had an interest in a race track in the North. If it had not been for his activity against the bill, I am led to believe it would have been passed.

"The Ralston Bill met its defeat in the House, principally, I believe, because of opposition to it in the North, where they view prize-fighting differently than do the people of this section of the State.

"As to the failure of the bill providing for a historical building for Los Angeles, which did not obtain the approval of the Governor, I think the principal reason was that it would set an expensive precedent. The intention was that the building should house the new Court of Appeals for this district and that it should be used for other purposes.

"San Francisco and Sacramento have no such building, but each would want one at the next session in the event that the Governor signed the bill. This would have resulted in the expenditure of a large sum, and it probably was on that ground that Los Angeles does not get the proposed building.

KILLING JUSTIFIED.

"The failure of the County Division bill to become a law seems fortunate. It practically made possible the secession of any portion of the county. Los Angeles county, for instance, could have been cut to pieces and, under the bill's provisions, the communities along the coast could have formed a separate county government, depriving the present incorporation of a seacoast. Another fortunate thing was the killing of the bill providing for eminent domain in connection with water storage. This bill would have permitted condemnation by cities or counties of water stored within their boundaries. They would be required to pay for the water used. Large cities usually obtain their water supply in the counties and their resources would be cut off. The bill was vetoed and should not even have passed the Governor."

NORMAL SCHOOL HILL.

"I think it unfortunate that the bill providing for the sale of the present Los Angeles Normal School site and buildings was defeated. It was promoted by the trustees, and seemed to have many good points. The proposition was to sell the present property for $200,000 or $150,000, or maybe more, and to purchase another site, conveniently located and better suited to the needs of the school.

"The objections to the site now in use is that it is difficult of access, the floor of the assembly-room being thirty-five feet above the street level at Fifth and Olive streets, an altitude which is reached by pupils only by a long climb uphill and upstairs. The buildings are antiquated, too, having been erected in 1884, and not being provided with proper plumbing, heating or ventilating systems. They are not modern in any way, and are unsuitable. A future bill should receive better fortune.

LOSS MAY BE COSTLY.

"A seemingly inconsequential but important bill that failed to pass was the one for the appropriation of $5000 by the State to assist communities like Redondo and Long Beach in fighting suits filed against them by owners of patents on road-oiling machinery. Such suits for infringement are in the United States courts, and if not heavy expense to counties where oil-oiling is practiced to any great extent, through the necessity of paying large royalties to persons who have ownership of patents.

"Had this bill passed, the Attorney-General of the State would have been empowered to assist in the defense of such suits. It was killed because of a question raised as to the right of the State to interfere in the matter. Members from the North were responsible to a great extent for the killing of the bill that provided for appointments of commissions to real estate matters upon oral agreements. It was opposed by the northern members that people did not see the need of the proposed legislation. They said merits in that section had no difficulty in inducing patrons to sign agreements for the payment of commissions, and that if agents in the South would organize among themselves and insist upon the signing of such documents there would have no need of the legislation requested."

Never Missed It.

J. B. Breen and wife, living near Hall's Station, drove to St. Joe yesterday with a light wagon to sell some butter and eggs. They put their fourteen-months-old baby in the back, and when they reached the store in St. Joe they discovered it was gone. They drove back over the road and found it sitting by the roadside, in the suburbs, playing with a tin can. The child had fallen out, and the parents hadn't noticed it.—[Atchison Globe.

[NEWS REPORTS FROM TIMES CORRESPONDENTS.]

MAY BE THE MISSING GIRL.

NEWS AT SAN BERNARDINO OF BAKERSFIELD ARREST.

Two Young Women Taken Into Custody There and One of Them is Supposed to be the Watson Daughter Who Has Been Away from Home Since Last Tuesday Week.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 24.—The police received word from Bakersfield this morning that two girls, one supposed to be Angelena Watson, missing from her home here, have been taken into custody there. The Watson girl disappeared Tuesday of last week, since which time not a word has been received from her by her parents.

There seems to be considerable mystery about the affair. The girl was supposed to have gone away with a Pasadena man and another girl named Kelly. The Kelly girl returned home, and declares that she was not accompanied by Miss Watson, even saying that she never knew her personally.

SYMPATHY FOR NEWTON.

W. M. Newton, the Redlands editor who was adjudged insane last night after a sensational examination before a jury covering three entire days, was taken to the Southern California State Hospital for the Insane at Patton this morning. He had quite recovered from his first disappointment of being found insane, and was much brighter this morning. He has determined to avoid all exciting thoughts or conferences and show the medical examiner by his conduct that he has been wrongfully accused. There are probably none of the officers here or officials at the County Hospital who believe the verdict of the jury just, and much sympathy is expressed for the old editor.

SETS COMMITTEES STRAIGHT.

Some confusion has occurred in the published reports of the hold-over committees on prisons and forestry, and Gen. Prescott, Speaker of the Assembly, announces the following as the proper statement: The joint hold-over Committee on Forestry consists of Jones of Tuolumne, Michelitres of Santa Clara, Amerige of Orange. The hold-over Committee on Prisons consists of Prescott, Speaker, ex-officio, McKinney of Ione, Estudillo of Riverside, Arnerich of Los Gatos and Lynch of Sacramento.

LOSES MUCH CUTICLE.

Charles Preciado, who was brought to the County Hospital several days ago to be treated for a badly-torn, fractured and mangled limb, is having to undergo the skin-grafting process, a large part of the left leg having had the cuticle torn and destroyed. Dr. John Myer, medical superintendent, says that probably it will require 300 pieces of cuticle to cover the injured space. Already about fifty pieces have been successfully grafted.

LITTLE LAD'S MISFORTUNE.

Homer Torrance, little son of Mrs. Lottie Torrance of Highland, was taken to Redlands yesterday to suffer the amputation of his left leg, the bone in the knee having become affected. It is not thought that the child will survive.

SHUMATE MADE CONVEYANCE.

TRANSFERRED ALL HIS COLTON PROPERTY TO WIFE.

This Action Taken by Him on the Day Before the Murder Strengthens the Belief That He Realized He Was in Grave Danger—One Clew of Check-raisers.

COLTON, March 24.—While the cause of the death of J. W. Shumate is still a mystery, the officers are encouraged today in their search. All this morning they were in consultation, and this afternoon they were in Colton busy on some new clews.

It is their belief that the murderers were thoroughly acquainted with Shumate's store and had perhaps been there many times before. The burglars were after men's furnishings and that almost exclusively. Either they themselves were selling these goods or they had others who disposed of the goods. The burglars passed by valuable laces and dress goods and had disturbed only the men's furnishings.

It is impossible to learn at present whom the officers suspect.

It became known today that on Monday just the day before Mr. Shumate's death, he made a transfer of all his property interests in Colton to his wife, Mary Adelaide Shumate, stating the consideration as "love and affection."

From this it would seem that he realized his life was in danger and was preparing for the worst. On Monday he stated that the burglars would either get him or he would get them, but that he really thought seriously of the danger in which he was placing himself was not until this time believed.

Two painters, suspicious characters, who came to Colton about January 20, and have remained here since, are suspected. They raised a check from $35 to $85 only a few days ago, which strengthens the suspicion.

On Monday night they left the town, but it is reported that they were seen here on the night of the crime. Where they went is unknown at present.

Mr. Shumate was insured to the extent of about $11,500.

An invoicing of the stock in the dry goods store will commence tomorrow.

BELATED OVERLANDS.

Six west-bound overland trains which had been held on the desert since Monday night because of the washout at Aras, five miles this side of Yuma, arrived in Colton between 10 and 11 o'clock last night. There were two trains (No. 42) Golden State Limited, due at Colton at noon; two (No. 7,) Rock Island, due here at 4:30 a. m.; two (No. 9,) Sunset Limited, due at 10:30 a.m. More belated trains arrived today.

GROWERS GET MONEY.

The California Citrus Union paid to its orange growers for the January pool, $1 per box, net, for fancy brand of fruit, or $1.42 per 100 pounds; for choice, 75 cents per box net, or $1.07 per 100 pounds; for standards, 40 cents per box, or 80 cents per 100 pounds.

ANAHEIM.

WANT THAT LABORATORY.

ANAHEIM, March 24.—Now that Gov. Pardee has signed the Assembly bill, known as the Estudillo bill appropriating $30,000 for the establishment of a pathological laboratory to investigate trees and plants, Anaheim has entered the lists as claiming the most advantageous site for the institution. A mass meeting will be held under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce Monday evening to take steps to secure the laboratory.

The Roy place at Katella, containing 100 acres, has been sold to Mr. Lyle of Los Angeles for a stated price of $26,000. Thirty-five acres are in alfalfa and a large pumping plant was recently erected on the ranch. The new owner will plant the entire tract to walnuts.

FAVORS GRAFTED WALNUTS.

LA HABRA, March 24.—F. E. Proud is setting sixty acres to walnuts. He has improved the old method of setting seed trees, and sets grafted trees instead. He states that the grafted trees will bear good, marketable nuts in a much shorter time than the seed trees. As proof he says that he picked several nuts from trees only one year old last season.

SANTA ANA.

SOCIALIST WITHDRAWS.

SANTA ANA, March 24.—S. P. Keeney, the Socialist candidate for city trustee from the Fifth Ward, has filed a notice of withdrawal. He has been vigorously supported for the office by a large constituency and his withdrawal comes as a surprise to many. This leaves only two candidates, Oscar Gruenenwald and James Sleeper. Gruenenwald stands firmly on a no-saloon platform and Sleeper favors a high license system.

Steady work is being done throughout the city by both saloon and anti-saloon elements on the question of the prohibition ordinance and the contest is narrowing down to a fight on that question alone.

SANTA ANA BRIEFS.

Riverside Jury Finds Corona Man Guilty of Selling Liquor in Violation of Law—Supervisor Figures as Expert on Frothy Fluid—Elks to Try Conclusions at Bat.

RIVERSIDE, March 24.—Supervisor Tom Hamner figured in a new capacity today. He was asked to qualify as a beer expert. He was sworn as a witness in the Penprase liquor case, and related how he had sampled some of Penprase's wet goods with a few other Riversiders.

Penprase's attorney tried to get the Supervisor to admit that the beer might have been "temperance" beer, but the witness was wary. He declared that it had the same taste, smell and color as the stuff that is sold in Los Angeles saloons for 5 cents the schooner. A Corona drayman was the only witness sworn for the defense. He declared that Penprase's receipts had been much less in the way of barrels and kegs since Corona went dry, but he had hauled a few barrels. He refused to swear that these contained "temperance" beer, and even admitted that the samples that he had been privileged to try were singularly like the stuff that Penprase sold while his saloon license was in force.

The jury was out less than an hour, and on returning announced a verdict of guilty. Penprase will receive his sentence April 3.

ARIZONA.

HEAVY LOSS IN STORM BELT.

DAMAGE IN THE TERRITORY TWO HUNDRED THOUSAND.

But With All These Losses the Commonwealth is in a Grateful Mood, Providing the Rains Will Cease for the Harvest—What the Lawmakers Didn't Do.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) March 23.—It has been estimated that the floods of the last two months have done damage easily amounting to $200,000 in the upper Gila Valley, or more specifically in Graham county. The nature of this loss is a vast acreage destroyed by the shifting bed of the river, injury to irrigating canals, loss of crops, broken fences, etc. In addition to that agricultural loss there has been a considerable loss to village property in the Graham county mining camps and to the railroad running from Clifton to Lordsburg.

The Gila Valley, Globe and Northern Railroad has also lost heavily in Graham county, notably the destruction of its bridge at San Carlos at least once and injury at other times. Graham county is therefore easily the heaviest sufferer by the floods. Pinal county has suffered a little, but there is only a limited area where damage could be done by the river. Maricopa county has suffered materially in a narrow belt by the overflow of Cave Creek and a considerable number of farms in what is known as the Buckeye country, under the Buckeye Canal, have been injured by flood waters of the Gila, Agua Fria and Hassayampa.

In addition the Santa Fé, Prescott and Phoenix Railroad Company has suffered some losses by washouts and more by interrupted traffic. The Maricopa and Phoenix Railroad Company's loss is hard to estimate, except through official sources, not public, but its Gila bridge, over 4000 feet long, has been injured or partly taken away, seven times. With the expense of these repairs and an interruption of traffic almost continually for two months amounting most of the time to an actual suspension, the damage bill must aggregate a startling figure.

This resumé covers the central part of the Territory, and is in addition to what must have been an enormous sum lost by the main lines of the Southern Pacific, Santa Fé, in Arizona, and for which no figures are available here.

But with all these losses Arizona is still in a grateful mood, providing the rains will cease in time for harvest. It is felt that the unprecedented and long-continued soaking is the beginning of an era of wonderful prosperity for the miner, the stockman and the agriculturist, and in proportionate measure, all business interests. It has been demonstrated that there are times when there is ample water to fill the Roosevelt and all other reservoirs the government may see fit to build, and the underground water resources have no doubt taken on a new life that will be felt for a decade and made apparent in mountain springs that for years past have been dry.

The casualty list attributable to the floods, so far as known throughout the Territory will probably total ten lives lost and many narrow escapes. How many have perished without witnesses will never be known, as there are many lonely travelers in the mountain country, some of whom have no acquaintances to miss them if they fail to return.

NOSE PAINT FAR AFLOAT.

At Globe, as in many of the smaller and more remote points of the territory, supplies are running short. At St. Johns, the local historian states that flour, sugar and coffee have given out, but that the population is attempting to forget its woes by resort to whisky, of which, it appears, a supply was laid in against all possibilities of drought or exhaustion.

Along the same line is told the tale of a barrel of whisky which fell from a pack mule into the river at Roosevelt. The owner, George Cline, swam out to his floating property and for awhile rode upon the barrel, down the raging waters through the Salt River cañon, a feat which should bring Mr. Cline communications from circus managers. He finally had enough of the sport, however, and struck out for shore, reaching it safely, though much wearied. It is pleasant to chronicle that the barrel beached itself about ten miles away and hat Cline recovered his property unwatered.

Great excitement was caused at the mining camp or Kelvin by an incident of the storm. Deep covered in the sand by the flood were a barrel of whisky, several kegs of beer and much bottled goods. When this became known, the population turned out en masse, equipped with shovels, tin cups and corkscrews. It is told that the occasion was pronounced later both successful and enjoyable.

For several years the farmers on the Gila River near Solommonville have made objections to the presence in the river of tailings from the Clifton concentrating works. Several of the farmers have revised their ideas on the subject, for in digging into the tailings deposited at their ditch head they found two barrels of whiskey which floated away from Clifton in a flood several years ago. The consolation contained within the barrels was declared even improved by the river trip.

WHAT THEY DIDN'T DO.

The biennial session of the Legislature is over and it is generally referred to as having been a creditable session, not so much for what it has done as for what it has refused to do. Some legislation very urgently desired was not accomplished, but in lieu thereof there is an absence of experimental legislation and trifling laws that have been marked features of some former sessions. Of the hundreds of bills introduced only sixty-nine passed both houses. Among those that became laws the following are of some general interest: Permitting Apache, Gila and Mohave counties to issue bonds for new courthouses; permitting municipal franchises for public utilities to be voted upon at special elections; creating the office of public examiner of county records, etc.; appropriating for improvements at the two normal schools, Territorial prison and industrial school; the amendment of the live stock sanitary law in conformance with the request for the cattlemen's association; completion of buildings at the university provided for; appropriating $20,000 for repair of the wagon bridge at Florence, across the Gila River, made important as the gateway between Central and Southern Arizona when the railroads are interrupted; appropriation for $10,000 monument in memory of Buckey O'Neill; and the passage of an act providing $15,000 annually in support of a Territorial fair.

This last enterprise is in furtherance of a movement already on foot here among local horsemen for an annual fair and horse show, designed to attract attention to Arizona as an eminently proper country in which to winter racing stock. All the rest of the sixty-nine bills related to amendment of present laws governing civil and criminal codes, and new regulations for administration of government, county and Territorial and some minor matters.

CLUB WOMEN OF PASADENA START GOOD WORK.

Shakespeareans Begin Tree Planting at McKinley School, Pupils Helping—Laugh on Police Chief and Captain—East Pasadena Annexation Delayed—Championship Golf.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. 28 South Raymond Avenue, March 24.—Women of the Shakespeare Club yesterday started a movement in tree planting which may cause future generations to rise up and call them blessed, or more likely the future generations will sit in the shade of these trees while they do the calling. At the McKinley school, Center street and El Molino avenue, the women assembled in company with the pupils, and about thirty trees were planted in addition to a number of climbing vines.

The exercises were in charge of Mrs. Frank Wells Parker. The first tree planted was a pine which had a flag attached to it, and which is to be known as the McKinley tree. The tree was planted by Mrs. Ellen M. Farr at the north front of the school. Two large palms were planted by the fifth grade children. C. H. Parker of the Board of Education delivered at the interment of the roots of a handsome redwood tree. Acacias, eucalypti and other trees were thrust into the earth, and along the fences a large number of climbing vines were planted.

Mrs. Ella G. Turner, president of the club, made the presentation speech. Principal Becker accepted on behalf of the school and President D. W. Peters in behalf of the Board of Education. Mrs. H. E. Bandini made a short address upon the care of the trees and the need of such improvements.

WHY HE SKIPPED.

Chief Freeman and Capt. Austin admit that the laugh is on them. For several days they have been wondering why a shady-looking character skipped out of the rear end of a pool joint one night without waiting for his change out of a $5 bill, and just because a policeman happened to enter at the other door. Yesterday the mystery was cleared and the police wonder why they didn't think of it before. The Japanese proprietor of the joint called at the station and presented the five-plunk in question, which proved to be a reproduction of an old Confederate bill famed for advertising purposes. It is suspected by the youth who palmed it off has been operating elsewhere, as several similar transactions have been discovered.

ANNEXATION DELAYED.

The East Pasadena Improvement Association has decided to wait awhile before making Pasadena bigger. At a meeting last night at the home of W. H. Giddings, committee reports were read and a motion was carried by a vote of 40 to 12 to postpone action until January 1, 1909. In the meantime the people of the east suburbs will enjoy how North Pasadena fares. If the matter is well treated the former will take a chance. This action will probably choke off annexation talk for some time to come.

AFTERNOON RECEPTION.

Mrs. Ogden Ellis of Altadena entertained about one hundred ladies yesterday afternoon at a reception from 3 to 5. The house was prettily decorated with smilax and roses and a collation was served. A feature of the afternoon's entertainment was a programme of music on the pipe organ. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Ellis, Sr., and Mrs. [illegible].

GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Four members of the Pasadena Country Club will contest for the club championship and a gold cup. The contest has been arranged by J. G. Daniels, J. S. Kerr, Paul Parker and C. S. Byington. Yesterday E. E. Hunter went out to Daniels, E. E. Wilcox to Kerr, George Byington and G. W. Lull defeated to youthful Paul Hunter.

NEW BUSINESS BLOCK.

C. E. Goodrich has purchased of Stewart through the agency of H. Lockwood, a lot 50x125 feet on the southwest corner of Marengo avenue and Union street. The price was $7500. Goodrich will build a fine pressed-brick building on the ground.

SWELL FUNCTIONS.

Mrs. James Swan of Torrington avenue, who has been the hostess at a number of elaborate functions this season, entertained a few of her young lady friends yesterday with a luncheon, for which the appointments were unusually ornate. The floral decorations were not confined to the dining-room but each apartment was handsomely ornamented. In the drawing room roses and white fleur de lis were used; the reception hall was given a golden touch with masses of golden-rod and jonquils, and in the library white lilies perfumed the air. The dining-room was decorated with pink plumosis and roses. The table had as a centerpiece a low bowl filled with white sweet peas and maiden hair ferns, which was surrounded by a bed of crushed white roses and ferns. At every chair was placed a long stemmed white rose for the favor of each guest. The place cards were dainty creations of French paper ornamented with water color sketches of beautiful heads. The guests were Misses Blossom, Armitage, Cloud, Warner, Boles, Lindsay, Jones and Roberts.

Mrs. William Stanton at her beautiful home "Grace Hill" gave the second of a series of luncheons yesterday at which covers were laid for twenty. The table was beautiful in its ornamentation of orchids and lilies of the valley and every appointment was of exquisite taste. The guests were Mesdames Charles Burton Scott, Page Warden, W. E. Kerr, Henderson, Edward Groenhoff, John S. Cravens, McClague, Richard Picher, Misses Nevin and [illegible].

SMALL ONES.

C. M. Pollard is the name of the man who recently left his wife and children without stating when he would return, thereby causing great alarm. Through a typographical error yesterday H. M. Pollard was credited with the act. Pollard has not been heard from but his wife has given up hope.

Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Hayes are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son yesterday.

Johanna Fraser was found not guilty of disturbing the peace yesterday. The trouble arose over a boundary line and culminated in Miss Fraser's attempting to stick Gaat with a knife. Bacteriologist Dr. E. B. Hoag says that he will begin inspecting dairies after April 1st but will make tests of cattle as that within his province.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, 39 South Raymond Avenue, March 24.—Women of the Shakespeare Club today started a movement in tree planting which may cause future generations to rise up and call them blessed or more likely the future generations will sit in the shade of these trees while they do the calling. At the McKinley school, Center street and Molino avenue, the women assembled in company with the pupils, and about thirty trees were planted from seed to a number of climbing vines. The exercises were in charge of Mrs. Frank Wells Parker. The tree planted was a pine which has a flag attached to it, and which is known as the McKinley tree. One was planted by Mrs. Ellen Clar at the north front of the school. Two large palms were planted by the fifth grade children. C. C. Miller of the Board of Education assisted at the interment of the roots of a handsome redwood tree. Acacias, pepper and other trees were thrust into the earth, and along the fences a number of climbing vines were set out.

Mrs. Ella G. Turner, president of the club, made the presentation speech, which Becker accepted on behalf of the school and President D. W. Cole on behalf of the Board of Education. Mrs. H. E. Bandini made a short address upon the care of the trees and the need of such improvement.

WHY HE SKIPPED.

Fred Freeman and Capt. Austin admit that the laugh is on them. For several days they have been wondering why a shady-looking character skipped out of the rear end of a pool joint the other night without waiting for his change out of a $5 bill, and just when a policeman happened to enter at the other door. Yesterday the mystery was cleared, and the police say that they didn't think of it. The Japanese proprietor of the joint called at the station and protested the five-plunk in question, which proved to be a reproduction of an old Confederate bill issued for advertising purposes. It is suspected that the youth who palmed it off has been operating elsewhere, as several similar transactions have been discovered.

ANNEXATION DELAYED.

The East Pasadena Improvement Association has decided to wait awhile before making Pasadena bigger. At a meeting last night at the home of Mrs. Giddings, committee reports were read and a motion was carried by a vote of 40 to 13 to postpone action until January 1, 1906. In the meantime the people of the east suburbs will favor North Pasadena favs. If they do not, it will treated the former with a chance. This action will not choke off annexation talk for all time to come.

AFTERNOON RECEPTION.

Mrs. Ogden Ellis of Altadena entertained about one hundred ladies Saturday afternoon at a reception from 3 to 5. The house was handsomely decorated with smilax and carnations, and a collation was served. The feature of the afternoon's entertainment was a programme of music on the pipe organ. The affair was in charge of Mrs. Ellis, Sr., and Mrs. Frank.

GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Four members of the Pasadena Country Club will contest for the golf championship and a gold medal. The contest has narrowed down to J. C. Daniels, J. S. Kerr, Paul Revere and C. S. Byington. Yesterday Mr. Hunter went out to Daniels and R. Wilcox to Kerr, George Byington and G. W. Lull went to youthful Paul Hunter.

NEW BUSINESS BLOCK.

Mrs. Goodrich has purchased of Stewart through the agency of H. Lockwood, a lot 50x125 feet on the southwest corner of Marengo avenue and Union street. The price was $800. Goodrich will build a two-story pressed-brick building on the lot.

WELL FUNCTIONED.

Mrs. James Swan of Torrington avenue has been the hostess at a number of elaborate functions this week, entertained a few of her young friends yesterday with a luncheon for which the appointments were unusually ornate. The floral decorations were not confined to the dining room, but each apartment was handsomely ornamented. In the drawing room red and white fleur de lis and in the reception hall was a golden touch with masses of golden jonquils, and in the library yellow jessamine perfumed the air. The dining room was decorated with pink carnations and roses. The table had as a centerpiece a low bowl filled with white sweet peas and maidenhair ferns, which was surrounded by a bed of crushed white carnations. At every chair was a dainty steamed white rose for the use of each guest. The place cards were dainty creations of French paper, tinted with water color designs of beautiful heads. The guests were Misses Blossom, Armstrong, Cloud, Warner, Boles, Jones and Roberts. Mrs. Stanton at her beautiful home "Pine Hill" gave the second of a series of luncheons yesterday afternoon. Covers were laid for 12. The table was beautiful in the use of orchids and lilies of the valley and every appointment was of exquisite taste. The guests were Mrs. Charles Burton Scott, Mrs. Warden, W. E. Kerr, Henderson, Edward Groendyke, Cravens, McCague, Foster, Misses Nevin and Small.

SMALL ONES.

W. H. Pollard is the name of the man who recently left his wife and family without stating when he would return, thereby causing great anxiety. Through a typographical error W. M. Pollard was reported to the act. Pollard has not been heard from but his wife has hopes.

Mrs. M. C. Hayes are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son yesterday.

Mrs. Fraser was found not guilty of disturbing the peace yesterday. Gant was the complainant in the case over a boundary fence in Miss Fraser's yard. Gant struck Miss Fraser with a knife. Constable Dr. E. B. Hoag will begin inspection after April 1st but the dates of cattle as that is the limit in the province.

Pedro Fuente, the Mexican who was fined $30 for cruelty to animals astonished the police yesterday by paying his fine from a hoard of gold which he kept in a hole bored in an old table leg in his shanty. It is believed that he has several hundred dollars thus stored away and when he wants money he pulls the table's leg for it.

Herbert Stark died yesterday at his home in North Pasadena. He was 74 years of age and a native of Minnesota.

SAN PEDRO.

TALKING OF FERRY STEAMER.

SAN PEDRO, March 24.—An enlargement of the ferry service between this town and Terminal island is in prospect. The service heretofore has been furnished with power launches.

Back of the proposed plan is George H. Peck, a local capitalist. In discussing the matter today he said: "If I can secure a ferry franchise and terminal privileges I will put in a steam ferry between San Pedro and Terminal as soon as a boat can be bought or built. I figure that a modern steam ferry can be installed for about $30,000. This cost would include the price of a franchise and a boat from sixty to eighty feet long and at least thirty feet wide. It would cost about $500 a month to operate the ferry, but I believe the revenues would yield a fair rate of interest on the investment."

At present there is no way of transferring carriages and other vehicles from San Pedro to Terminal Island, and the proposed ferry would be a great convenience in many ways, as the industrial interests of the two localities are almost identical.

HARBOR CITY DRIFT.

The Board of School Trustees has selected a site for the new high school building for which bonds to the amount of $42,000 were recently voted and sold. The site comprises the entire block between Twelfth and Thirteenth street and west of Gaffey street, and was purchased for $4500.

The foundation for the new city hall to be built at the corner of Eleventh and Palos Verdes street has been commenced.

The Chamber of Commerce affected a permanent organization last night with the selection of the following officers: President, Frank Burns; vice-president, Charles Nicolai; secretary, W. H. Hyatt; treasurer, Ben Brilliant. The following members were appointed as an executive committee; Frank Burns, S. Storer, B. Brilliant, A. P. Feri and W. H. Savage.

SANTA MONICA.

CHEAPER LIGHTING ANNOUNCED.

SANTA MONICA, March 24.—The Edison Electric Company makes the welcome announcement of a reduction of about 25 per cent. in the price to be charged for electric lights after April 1. The new rate will be the same as is now paid in Los Angeles.

The School Trustees have engaged Miss Elizabeth J. Hartness of Los Angeles as an additional teacher to serve at the Washington schoolhouse. This makes ten teachers for that building. All of the schools of the city are overcrowded, and additional facilities must be provided before the opening of the new school year.

The County Supervisors are soliciting bids for the construction of two steel-concrete culverts, and the grading of a part of Nevada avenue on the county road leading from Santa Monica to the Soldiers' Home. These improvements are to take the place of the long bridge that was burned last fall.

G. W. Beck, New York; Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Burtis, Buffalo, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Davis, Portland, Me.; G. Mueller, San Francisco; Mr. and Mrs. H. Richards, New York; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Miller, Detroit, Mich., are at the Arcadia.

SAWTELLE.

SELF-ACCUSED OF BATTERY.

SAWTELLE, March 24.—One of the eccentricities of Soldiers' Home life developed when James F. Boyle, a battle-scarred veteran, trudged over the hill to Santa Monica, where he made his appearance before Justice of the Peace Jenness, and swore to a complaint charging himself with battery. He then entered a plea of guilty of having committed an assault upon John Manning, a fellow-member of the home. Manning has since been seen, and is a living and bruised witness to the truth of Boyle's complaint and plea. According to Boyle's story, Manning was in his cups, and made the first assault. This Manning denies. The justice will pronounce sentence next Tuesday.

OCEAN PARK.

SEPTIC TANK NOT SO CHEAP.

OCEAN PARK, March 24.—After having met last night and opened bids for the construction of a septic tank sewer system the City Trustees realized that the cost of the improvement would be about $37,000. This was more than had been estimated the expense would be, and in committee of the whole the trustees decided to at once call another bond election for the purpose of voting another block of bonds. At a recent electon $20,000 was voted, and another election will be held asking for a like amount.

The latest improvement planned for Venice is the founding of an "Assembly City." It is to be located just south of the grand canal, and all buildings to be erected will be of the pavilion style of architecture. The design is to erect no fewer than 200 temporary buildings to be used in providing accommodations for people that it is expected the summer institute and amusement features will attract.

FAIR HANDS PLANT TREES.

LONG BEACH HAS ELABORATE ARBOR DAY DOINGS.

Parade and Speeches Followed by Planting Young Types of the Forest. Exercises in Public Schools—Final Meeting of Pier Day Committee Shows Handsome Balance.

LONG BEACH, March 24.—Long Beach was en fete today in honor of Arbor Day. The weather was all that could be desired—in fact a typical California day of warmth and sunshine. The exercises were in charge of the women's societies of the city and as early as 1 o'clock all femininity was astir, bustling and hustling about in holiday attire and happy smiles. There were 400 ladies and children in line, and in pretty dresses, with a fine display of flags, banners, flowers and greenery presented a pretty sight. Prominent features of the parade were a floral representation of the new Ebell clubhouse and a go-cart handsomely decorated, drawn by four children of the Methodist primary class with the baby daughters of Dr. A. T. Covert and Rev. Milford H. Lyon holding the ribbons.

The parade headed by the Long Beach Marine band marched down Cedar avenue to the park where addresses were delivered by ex-Mayor Townsend and Mrs. Helen Barker, treasurer of the National W.C.T.U. Then the tree planting began, each organization set a tree out with appropriate and in most cases original ceremonies, the programme occupying the greater part of the afternoon. A committee of Messrs. P. E. Hatch, D. M. Cate, J. B. Losee, Harry Barndollar and Col. S. Merrill acted as judges and upon their report to be made at noon Saturday a prize of a handsome hanging basket will be awarded one of the societies. The trees planted at the park were only a small part of the civic work today. All over the city trees were set out. Arbor day exercises were held in all the city schools this morning and nearly 300 trees were planted about the school grounds.

PIER DAY CONCLUSION.

Pier Day, November 12, 1904, passed into the history of Long Beach this morning when the executive committee held its final meeting and passed upon all outstanding bills, ordering everything paid. It was a matter of much congratulation that not only was the celebration a successful one, but a good surplus was left. Long Beach took care of 30,000 people on that day, feeding them at the big free barbecue and not an accident occurred nor was an arrest made. A subscription fund of $5500 was raised and after paying all bills a surplus of $335.68 is left in the treasury, which has been turned over to the Board of Trade to be used toward providing for the summer's amusements. The committee passed a vote of thanks to Chairman J. R. Hartwell and Treasurer E. Muns Iman for faithful services and adjourned without date.

SEASHORE BREEZES.

Manager Otto, of the Edison Electric Company announces that April 1, the electric lighting rate here will be the same as in Los Angeles, which means a reduction of 25 per cent.

"Bopeep," a pretty cantata under the direction of Mrs. K. L. Specht of Chicago was given tonight at the First Congregational Church.

The formal transfer of the tide flats west of town, comprising 300 acres was made today by S. Townsend, the holder of the option to the Long Beach Land and Navigation company which has assumed control and will exploit the tract for manufacturing sites.

Saturday afternoon the Glendale basketball team will play the Long Beach girls on the local court. At the other end of the campus the local baseball nine will play the Los Angeles High School team.

POMONA.

CAPTURE A BURGLAR.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

POMONA, March 24—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A desperate looking burglar was discovered this morning marauding the P. T. Armstrong home known as the John O'Donnell place located half way between Pomona and Chino. He was lodged in the Chino lock-up. His preliminary examination will be held tomorrow in Justice of Peace Ed Rhodes's court in that town. There was found on his person some money, two or three watches and several silver spoons.

PARK IMPROVEMENT.

A thousand dollars' worth of trees and shrubbery has arrived in Pomona for planting at Ganesha Park, and a large gang of men is busy at work under the direction of Landscape Gardener S. P. Hosp, of Riverside, setting out what in a few months will add wonderfully to the appearance of the place.

The improvements were started last year when the city's park and school bonds of $60,000 were sold.

GOING TO REDLANDS.

A large number of students of Pomona high school will accompany the local school track team to Redlands tomorrow, the two schools conducting their annual track meet at Redlands in the afternoon. Pomona has been training faithfully of late and hopes to win a victory.

WHITTIER.

HOPE TO CAPTURE STATION.

WHITTIER, March 24.—This town wants the new experiment station, for which the State Legislature has just made provision. To that end a meeting was held last evening at the City Council chamber. A committee to have charge of the work was selected, consisting of the president and secretary of the Board of Trade, the Whittier Citrus Union, the Walnut Growers' Association and Superintendent J. P. Greeley of the State school. The meeting was addressed by Horticultural Commissioners J. W. Jeffrey and Stephen Strong, and was enthusiastic in its desire to see something done. Among the points mentioned which might aid in the accomplishment of the plan is the fact that a special clause in the legislative act provides that the station and laboratory may be located on the grounds of the State school.

EASTERN STARS SHINE.

Lyra Chapter, O.E.S., had as their guest of honor at this week's meeting the highest official in the State organization of the order. This is Grand Worthy Matron Paulina W. Dohrmann of Stockton. The occasion of Mrs. Dohrmann's visit was made a gala event, delegations from Loyalty, Pacific and Acacia chapters of Los Angeles and from those at Downey, Norwalk, El Monte and Pomona being present. An elaborate banquet, for which 150 covers were laid, was served at the close of the work.

Gates of Pomona College, stating that Carnegie will give $40,000 for such a library here provided another $40,000 is raised as an endowment for the maintenance of the library.

The gift is said to be larger than any other made by Carnegie to any college in California. The required $40,000 endowment is said to be assured.

BEWARE OF HEADACHE

1619 Addison Ave., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 23, 1903.

For three and a half years I suffered with headache, backache and most distressing bearing down pains. My physician seemed to do his best to help me, but without satisfactory results. He said that it was female trouble and a general breaking down of my system. This winter the pain became intolerable. My legs and my feet pained me and I could hardly walk or stand up. I had to neglect my housework and was in misery all the time. I finally decided to make a change, and as one of the "Ladies' Birthday Almanacs" came to my notice and I read of the cures of Wine of Cardui, I decided to try it. Five bottles changed me from a confirmed invalid to a healthy, happy woman. I am indeed most grateful to you for your splendid medicine.

Edith Blake
VICE-PRESIDENT, MONTGOMERY.

WINE OF CARDUI

Miss Blake's headache was an important symptom of the female trouble she suffered. If you have periodical headache you should give it immediate attention, as it is a positive warning of the suffering that is to come. Wine of Cardui will not only cure female weakness, but it will prevent disordered functions, bearing down pains and nervousness.

Do not wait until suffering overtakes you. Why not prevent all female diseases before the trouble begins.

Wine of Cardui never fails as a preventive if taken promptly when the first symptoms appear. It never fails to cure uncomplicated female troubles. It never fails to benefit the worst complications to which it is applied. All druggists sell $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.

HORNS TO BLOW, FANS TO YELL.

BASEBALL SEASON COMING IN ANOTHER WEEK.

Automobile Parade Planned by the Management—Where to Play Hal Chase Is Now the Question of the Hour—Dillon Having Some Troubles Getting in Shape.

Though the official opening of the Pacific Coast League's baseball season is yet over a week distant, preparations for a fitting celebration are already made.

Manager Morley proposes to repeat the automobile parade of last year, and was busy yesterday mailing invitations to all the leading owners in the city asking them to be his guests a week from tomorrow, on the afternoon of March 30. The usual brass band accompaniment will usher in the pennant race; and it is expected that with the honking of automobile horns, the blare of martial music and the yelling of several thousand lusty fans, there will be nothing lacking so far as noise is concerned.

Walter McCredie and his promising Portland aggregation will hook up with the locals on the first day, being now in training at Bakersfield. The Webfeet are a far stronger team this spring than they were last, and no longer are to be considered in the light of a baseball joke.

It is not known at present whether Mayor McAleer can be persuaded to turn pitcher for the day, but with the illustrious record of his predecessor to spur him on, the fans have high hopes. Snyder was quite a twirler; he bore the record of striking out every man who ever faced him.

Where is that Kid Chase to play? Here is a question that has been agitating fans more than a little. Now that Hal has formally cast his allegiance with the Los Angeles club "for better or for worse," Manager Morley and Capt. Dillon have worn out considerable good gray matter placing him.

Chase did such good work at short that many thought him slated for the position, but Dillon denies any desire to dislodge Toman. The big captain is perfectly satisfied with Chimmie's work, and says the little fellow is in shape to do himself justice this spring. When Toman is right, no man can pick flaws in his fielding. It is well nigh perfect. He cannot bat, but many other ballplayers are in the same fix; it is a common complaint among infielders.

To a man up a tree, it looks as if Chase were to be a sort of club held over the heads of the "regulars" to keep them striving up to the top notch. Whoever falls below grade is likely to be replaced by the youngster. Manager Morley last night stated that the Kid would be used to strengthen whatever weak places developed in the lineup.

Capt. Dillon is a great admirer of Jimmy Sheckard, the former Brooklyn outfielder.

Having played ball with "Sheck" all last year, the big first baseman is qualified to pass judgment. He says Sheckard is the best man he ever saw at going back on hard overhead drives. Time and again balls that he expected to hit the fence were gobbled easily by this wonder. "Sheck" is one of those fielders who start at the bat-crack and make their chances look easy. He is a shade larger than Arthur Rose, and much the same style of ballplayer.

Sheckard goes into independent ball this year with one of the tri-State clubs. He and Hanlon disagreed over salary; Hanlon claimed Sheckard drew $2400 for playing $1200 ball, and would not stand for a raise.

Last year was the first time Sheckard fell below .300 in batting. He has been a splendid hitter, a whirlwind on the bases, and as a fielder little less than miraculous. Some say he was a disorganizer. Many who are familiar with his work believe that his slump of last season was only temporary.

Dillon has had his troubles getting into condition this season, and is doing all kinds of work. His legs are not coming into shape as fast as they once did, but that is to be expected by a veteran who has gone through so many seasons.

There are not many ballplayers who can hold a job whether they play or not, but this big fellow is one. His ability in handling others is a valuable asset to any club.

LOCAL STOCK MARKET. Brokers were evidently loaded with orders yesterday, as bidding was unusually active on all kinds of securities. The bonds were extremely firm and although in much request holders were not disposed to part with them. The oil stocks again attracted a good deal of attention, and bank securities were once more a feature. The better securities in the different lists are rather hard to get, and the transactions for the day were limited almost entirely to oil bonds and stocks.

Associated Oil declined fractionally, closing at 39½@39¾, and the strong ones are 'change are looking for a sharp advance before many days. Two thousand shares were sold at 39. Globe, Home (Whittier) and Reed Crude all gained from a fraction to over a point, 3000 shares of the Crude changing hands at 2.37½. Union lost fractionally, closing at 80¾ without offerings.

In mining stocks, Butte Lode went off several points, but New Era went up a fraction.

In the bank list, Broaway Bank & Trust declined several points, but Citizens' National, Commercial National, First National and Union Bank of Savings gained materially.

Coming to the bond market, Associated Oil advanced fractionally, one bond being sold at 99¾. A bid of 95 was made for California-Pacific Railway, closing at 96@100. Corona City Water Co. elicited some inquiry, closing at 99@100. Home Telephone gained again, closing at 89@90½, one bond being sold at the former figure. Los Angeles Traction gained 2 points, closing at 112@116; Los Angeles & Redondo Railway was also in request, closing at 89@96.

The sales reported yesterday on the Stock and Grain Exchange were 2 Home bonds at 90; 20 shares of Home Telephone at 50 to 50½; 30 shares of Union Oil at 81½ to 82; 10 shares of National Bank of California at 195; 5400 shares of Associated Oil at 39¼ and 500 shares of North American Nitrate at 6¾ to 7¼.

FIRST OF NEW CHERRIES. The first box of new California cherries will go East in a few days.

HOP CROP OUTLOOK. The California hop acreage is 2600 more than last year. The season is one month advanced and the prospects are for a very full crop.

TOMATO PACK FALLING OFF. The California Fruit Grower reports the tomato pack of 1904 at 400,000 cases less than the preceding year. There have been a steady increase for three years in pears and a steady decrease in peaches.

WHEAT CROP OUTLOOK. The Cincinnati Price Current, in reviewing the crop situation the past week, says:

"Considerable freezing has occurred in the central regions the past week, which has precluded much development or progress of vegetation, and to some extent the manifestly severe weather has been fatal to winter wheat in localities, but a careful survey of all the evidence in regard to the present condition of the growing wheat appears to justify an encouraging view of the situation and outlook. Much the larger part of the information from current correspondence is of the purport of favorable indications in regard to the winter wheat. The disappearance of the snow to a large extent was in such manner as to admit of the ground absorbing the moisture, and this proves favorable not only the autumn-sown grain and grass fields, but also for preparations for spring seeding operations. There is quite a general expression of expectation of early spring conditions and agricultural interests appear to be cheerful in regard to the situation and outlook."

STATE OF TRADE.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

NEW YORK, March 24.—Dun's review tomorrow will say that spring trade responds to seasonable weather, and shipments of merchandise have increased so rapidly that railway facilities are severely taxed. Railway earnings for the first two weeks of March were 7.9 per cent. larger than last year, and foreign commerce at this port for the week shows a gain of $2,977,012 in exports and $155,258 in imports. Strength is seen in the hide market, especially for native steers. Failures this week number 225 in the United States, against 228 last year, and 16 in Canada, against 15 a year ago.

Bradstreet's Review.

NEW YORK, March 24.—Bradstreet's tomorrow will say that while reflecting irregularity, the volume of distributive trade and the movement of industry hold the increase recorded last week. From the South the tenor of advices is even better. Retail trade at the large cities is living up as spring advances. Crop reports, especially from winter wheat, are increasingly favorable. Lumber and hides are firm and active. The really remarkable feature in current industry is the continuance of the heretofore heavy inquiry for all kinds of iron and steel, crude and finished. Business failures in the United States for the week ending March 23 number 294, against 186 last week, and 225 last year. In Canada failures number 18, against 19 last year.

Bank Clearings.

NEW YORK, March 24.—The following table, compiled by Bradstreet, shows the bank clearings at the principal cities for the week ended March 23, with the percentage of increase and decrease, as compared with the corresponding day last year.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

(BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.)

NEW YORK, March 24.—There was a pronounced upturn in the course of prices on the Stock Exchange again today, which was undoubtedly due in part to the closing up of the short contracts put out on the declining during the week. Yesterday's market already showed some symptoms that the decline had run to a point where effective resistance was encountered and sufficient new buying demand was met to support prices. Total sales, 94,420,000. United States 3s coupon advanced ¼ per cent. on call.

SAN DIEGO.

MAN MISSING—FUNDS SHORT.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

SAN DIEGO, March 24.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Charles A. Fortiner, treasurer of the San Diego Aerie of Eagles and secretary of San Diego court of Foresters of America, has been missing about ten days. Nearly $800 of the funds of the aerie is also missing and Fortiner has sent no explanation. Yesterday the books of the aerie were forwarded from Los Angeles to one of the trustees without explanation.

Fortiner has been chairman and confidential clerk in the office of the City Engineer four years. Three weeks ago he left work without leave of absence and failed to appear as he promised. He was a pensioner of the Spanish American war. Ten days ago he telephoned from Los Angeles that he has passed an examination at Santa Ana for an increase in his pension, which was the last heard of him.

The missing man left a wife and child here. Bi some, domestic troubles are declared responsible for the present situation while others say injuries sustained in war undermined his mental faculties. The Fidelity Casualty Company, which furnished a bond for Fortiner as treasurer of the Eagle Aerie has been notified of the alleged embezzlement. Fortiner belonged to numerous secret orders.

MINES AND MINING.

NO "WALKERS" NEED APPLY.

GOLD ROADS GETTING RID OF UNION NUISANCE.

Association Organized to Employ Labor Under the Card System, Cooperating With Cripple Creek and Searchlight for Protection Against Grafting Totemites.

The mining operators of the Gold Roads district of Mohave county, Arizona, where several Los Angeles companies are at work, have organized an association along similar lines to those existing at Cripple Creek and at Searchlight, where a plan of employing help under the card system is in force as a protection to the employers against unionism, with its grafting walking delegates and continual trouble breeding. The totem brand doesn't count there.

The new organization is said to include all the principal operators and is closely allied with the associations at Searchlight and Cripple Creek. Cards issued by one are recognized by the others.

NEW DISTRICTS FORMED.

The mining district of Eldorado, near Searchlight, has been formally organized under the Nevada laws. W. W. Copp has been elected recorder with office at the new town of Nelson. The rule has been adopted that all claims must be properly laid out with monuments within twenty days after location, according to the United States laws or they will be forfeited.

FINE STRIKE REPORTED.

A good strike is reported to have been made by Gillispie & Coyle, operating in Eldorado Cañon, near the Humphreys property and four miles north of the Wall Street. A sample picked up on the surface is said to have run over $400 in gold. The extent of the find is not yet known, but it is said that good hornings have been obtained from the surface of four claims.

TELLURIDE ORE FOUND.

The Duplex Mining Company of this city has struck a body of telluride ore in the west drift of the 200-foot level of the Searchlight mine. The ore is sylvanite, assaying about thirty ounces in gold and fifteen ounces in silver with a valuation of $623.80 a ton.

The sylvanite was first encountered some twenty feet in from the shaft. The drift is being run on a contact vein with diorite on the hanging and birdseye porphyry on the footwall. The find follows closely the hanging wall and increases in thickness.

In the main shaft base ore is said to have been encountered which leads to the belief that the mine may eventually become a smelting proposition. Most of the output now being milled comes from the 200-foot lead and goes over $40 a ton.

At Dupont a four-foot breast of high-grade ore is reported to have been struck on the 170-foot level at the O. K. mine, at a point ninety feet in from the shaft. The ore had been a medium grade.

KERN MINE SHOWS WELL.

The old Cowboy mine in the Amalie district of Kern county is being worked with much success by its owners, who are Kern people. A carload taken out with a force of six men since January 16 was shipped to Shelby's and netted $47?9.95 over all expenses. The net weight of the ore was 57,287 pounds, and it milled $4,728.95 in silver and $456.95 in gold. There is a big ledge of ore in sight at the mine.

The Cowboy is one of the older properties in Kern. In common with the entire Amalie district, it has recently been showing up extremely well.

RANDSBURG PROPERTIES.

A shaft, now down ninety-five feet, is being sunk on the Fairy in Fiddler's Gulch near Randsburg. Actual development work has been in progress since last October and good ore has been encountered, the best being found at about thirty-five feet, which assayed $200. The mine is owned by R. L. Deakins and T. and A. J. Bresnahan.

The Butte Mining Company has bought the Excelsior mine at Randsburg from Thompson & Fiefield. The price paid is not stated.

SHIPPING CONCENTRATORS.

The Great Western Ore Purchasing and Reduction Company of this city is having much success in handling the old Sierra Gorda mine in Inyo county. Ore that was left on the dump because of the shipping charges in former years is now being concentrated and shipped to Shelby's at an excellent profit. By concentration four tons are reduced to one and the charges that much lessened. Work is at present handicapped by inability to get supplies or to ship over the narrow-gauge. The broad-gauging of this line will really aid in the advancement of Inyo's mines.
